BLUEPRINT FOR SUCCESS

New Christian Training Centres Template Introduction

This Blueprint for Success is built on a clear foundation:
everything presented is grounded in the Word of God.

Every teaching, principle, and application is anchored in Scripture, ensuring that disciples are formed by truth and not by opinion.

This framework is not theoretical.
Its core components—including Laying the Foundation, Power of Godly Character, Who Am I, Servant Leadership, and prayer-based training—have been tested and proven over many years in real ministry settings.

What is now being presented is a unified, Spirit-led pathway, bringing these proven elements together into a clear and intentional discipleship journey.

The aim is to raise disciples who become societal reformers— men and women grounded in a biblical worldview, equipped to influence their workplaces, families, communities, and spheres of responsibility.

Not every disciple will establish a training centre, but every disciple is called to faithfully steward their God-given assignment and bring Kingdom influence into their world.

Some modules are currently being finalised within this structured format.
These teachings are already proven; the current work is focused on aligning them with the established module format used across the training system, with completion projected by the end of 2026.

This is more than a training model.
It is a blueprint for multiplication—raising disciples who raise disciples and advancing the Kingdom of God across every sphere of society.

®GROWING DEEP AND STRONG NEW CHRISTIAN TRAINING CENTRE BLUEPRINT FOR SUCCESS

Preamble

We are living at a moment in history when the foundations of society are being shaken and many are searching for truth that can anchor life once again.

Across nations there is a growing spiritual hunger and a renewed awareness that human systems alone cannot heal the brokenness of the world.

Throughout history, such moments have often preceded profound moves of God, times when spiritual awakening spreads rapidly and begins to reshape not only individuals, but the structures of society itself.

We stand on the threshold of such a season now. What begins as revival in the hearts of believers has the potential to mature into reformation, where the Lord raises disciples who carry a biblical worldview into every sphere of life.

The ®Growing Deep and Strong New Christian Training Centre Blueprint for Success has been developed to help steward that moment, providing a clear and practical pathway through which believers can

- ✓ disciple others,
- ✓ multiply leaders,

and participate in a generational movement that influences

- ✓ communities,
- ✓ institutions,
- ✓ and nations for Christ.

The reformation that lies before us is not merely a renewal of church activity.

- ✓ It is the restoration of the ecclesia
- ✓ The governing assembly of Christ on the earth.

When men and women come into covenant with Christ, they are not only forgiven; they are repositioned under a new authority. Scripture describes this as a transfer of jurisdiction from the kingdom of darkness into the Kingdom of the Son.

The purpose of discipleship within the ®Growing Deep and Strong Christian Training Centre is therefore to raise mature followers of Christ who understand,

- ✓ their identity,
- ✓ their authority,
- ✓ and their responsibility

to administer the wisdom and ways of Heaven within the spheres of influence God has entrusted to them.

A Generation on the Brink of Reformation

Throughout history, seasons of spiritual awakening have not ended with revival alone.

When revival is stewarded correctly, it matures into reformation where the Gospel begins to reshape families, communities, institutions, and entire nations.

We are living at a moment where many believers sense that something significant is unfolding.

Around the world people are becoming spiritually hungry, questioning the direction of culture, and searching for truth that can transform life at a deeper level.

This Blueprint for Success has been developed with that moment in mind. It is not simply a program or ministry structure.

It is a strategic framework designed to help ordinary believers participate in what could become a generational movement of discipleship and societal transformation.

From Revival to Movement

Revival awakens hearts, but movements transform generations.

When believers gather around a shared vision, learn together, disciple one another, and begin multiplying that process in others, something remarkable happens.

The work of God begins to accelerate from one life to another, then from one generation to the next.

This is where many revivals throughout history have faltered. As explored in Moves of God: Why They Succeeded and Faded, the absence of intentional, ongoing discipleship has consistently been the primary reason movements failed to sustain their impact.

Without a clear pathway to establish and mature believers, what begins in power often diminishes over time.

Movements grow when spiritual sons and daughters are raised who carry the same vision forward.

What begins with a few people becomes a multiplying community of believers who disciple others, pass the baton forward, and influence society through a biblical worldview.

The ®Growing Deep and Strong – Find Your Destiny© – Blueprint for Success has been designed to provide a clear pathway for this kind of movement to emerge, be sustained, and multiply across generations

A Movement Led by the Holy Spirit

Every authentic movement of God begins and continues under the leadership of the Holy Spirit. Human strategy alone cannot produce spiritual transformation.

The Holy Spirit directs the work, shapes the vision, and empowers believers to carry out the mandate of Christ.

As Scripture shows, when God builds His work He also equips His people with wisdom, gifting, and supernatural insight.

Because of this, the foundation of the ®Growing Deep and Strong New Christian Training Centres has been established through the inspiration and guidance of the Holy Spirit, formed out of real-life ministry experience and proven fruit over time.

What has been revealed, lived, tested, and refined in the field has now been brought together into a clear and cohesive blueprint.

One that others can follow with confidence while continuing to remain submitted to the ongoing leading of the Holy Spirit so the movement stays aligned with its original calling and purpose.

The Mandate of the Great Commission

Jesus gave His followers a clear command: go and make disciples of all nations.

This command contains a threefold purpose:

First, people must be brought out of the kingdom of darkness and introduced to the saving grace of Christ.
Second, new believers must be strengthened through intentional discipleship, so they develop strong biblical foundations and mature faith.
Third, those mature disciples are sent into their spheres of influence to live out their faith and shape culture with a biblical worldview.

The vision of the ®Growing Deep and Strong New Christian Training Centres is built around this progression. It is not focused on producing spectators, but on raising disciples who grow into leaders and become agents of transformation within society.

A Simple Structure for a Reproducible Movement

For a movement to multiply effectively it must remain simple, flexible, and reproducible.

®Growing Deep and Strong New Christian Training Centres are designed so they can function in homes, workplaces, churches, community settings, or any location where believers gather.

They do not depend on buildings or complex infrastructure. Their strength lies in the clarity of the discipleship pathway and the ability for believers to reproduce the process wherever they are.

The model operates through a rhythm of weekly gatherings and monthly corporate celebrations that together create both spiritual growth and community connection.

Two Weekly Gatherings

Each training centre typically functions through two weekly gatherings that serve different but complementary purposes.

One gathering focuses on intentional discipleship. In this setting believers progress through the Growing Deep and Strong® Blueprint for Success for Success discipleship journey in a structured and sequential way.

These groups are intentionally smaller and more focused because participants (up to 7 per coach) are walking through a defined interactive pathway of spiritual growth.

The second gathering is more open and relational. It provides a welcoming environment where spiritually hungry people can explore faith, ask questions, and experience prayer, encouragement, and fellowship.

These gatherings are intentionally designed to strengthen and edify those who attend. They are not structured teaching sessions, but environments where believers can encourage one another and where the Holy Spirit is free to lead.

At times there may be prophetic encouragement, words of wisdom, words of knowledge, or other expressions of the gifts of the Spirit as the Lord directs.

Within this setting, the nine gifts of the Spirit may operate naturally for the strengthening and building up of those present.

These gatherings are designed to be a non-threatening and welcoming environment for believers and non-believers where people feel comfortable engaging with others.

Simple name tags are provided for everyone, helping remove any embarrassment and making it easier for people to connect with one another.

They are centred around a shared meal, reflecting the pattern seen in the life of Jesus and His disciples who frequently gathered around the table.

This relaxed and relational setting creates space for conversation, encouragement, prayer, and genuine Christian fellowship.

These gatherings therefore serve as a natural bridge where new people can encounter Christ, experience authentic community, and eventually enter the ®Growing Deep and Strong intentional discipleship journey.

Monthly Corporate Celebration

Alongside the weekly gatherings, believers also come together regularly in larger corporate celebrations that unite the wider community of disciples across a region. These gatherings serve as a point of alignment, impartation, and shared identity across the movement.

These gatherings are intentionally centred on worship, prayer, and the leading of the Holy Spirit. They are not structured as teaching sessions. Instead, they create space for believers to encounter God together, cultivating a shared spiritual atmosphere through praise, intercession, testimony, and Spirit-led ministry.

At key points throughout the year, these gatherings are complemented by larger equipping events—typically held quarterly over one or two days.

These events provide focused, practical training pathways aligned with each believer's calling and motivational gifting, strengthening both individual development and corporate capacity.

During these equipping gatherings, dedicated breakout sessions are conducted for specialised training. Disciples are grouped according to their identified motivational gifts and areas of grace, ensuring targeted equipping and intentional activation.

Those who carry recognised strength and maturity in these areas—including fivefold ministry equippers—lead these sessions, equipping others to grow in both understanding and activation of their gifting within a clear pathway of development.

Across both the larger gatherings and equipping events, the atmosphere remains prayerful, expectant, and prophetically sensitive.

Apostolic and prophetic leaders, along with other equippers, bring Spirit-led insight and impartation, strengthening faith, confirming direction, and helping activate believers in their God-given design and Kingdom assignment.

These moments ensure the wider community remains aligned with the Lord's direction, reinforcing that the movement is Spirit-led, yet intentionally structured to sustain healthy growth and multiplication.

A key element of these celebrations is recognition and encouragement. Individuals who have recently become followers of Christ are publicly welcomed and celebrated as part of the family of God.

Disciples who have completed sections of the Growing Deep and Strong® journey are acknowledged as progressing in their discipleship pathway.

New certified coaches and those who have completed the full programme are recognised and affirmed as equipped labourers in the harvest.

New Christian Training Centres that have been established are celebrated, along with those who have been equipped, certified, and commissioned to open and develop new centres within their regions.

These milestones reflect both spiritual fruit and the intentional multiplication of the movement across territories.

These moments of recognition reinforce a culture of multiplication, honour, and Kingdom advancement, reminding the community that every disciple has a role and a responsibility in advancing the mission of Christ.

This culture of recognition is intentional. In many areas of society, perseverance and faithfulness often go unseen. Within this movement, progress in discipleship, obedience to Christ, and faithful service are intentionally recognised, honoured, and celebrated.

These moments strengthen identity, belonging, and purpose, encouraging perseverance and inspiring others to continue their own journey within a clearly defined pathway of growth and multiplication.

Corporate celebrations also serve an important relational purpose. When believers gather from multiple groups and Training Centres, they are reminded that their small group is part of something far greater than itself.

They are participating in a growing community of disciples who share the same vision and commitment to Christ.

Seeing the wider community together strengthens unity and reinforces the understanding that this is a multiplying movement rather than an isolated gathering.

It creates a sense of shared mission and collective responsibility for advancing the Kingdom of God within every sphere of society.

These celebrations therefore function as both spiritual alignment and movement culture. Worship and prayer renew spiritual passion. Recognition strengthens community. Testimonies and prophetic encouragement build faith for what God is doing next.

In this way, the monthly corporate celebrations help sustain the momentum of the movement while continually pointing the community back to Christ as the centre and source of all growth.

A Movement That Multiplies

The vision of the ®Growing Deep and Strong New Christian Training Centres is not limited to individual transformation. The goal is multiplication.

As believers grow in discipleship, discover their calling, and develop servant leadership, they begin guiding others through the same journey. New groups form, new leaders emerge, and new training centres are established.

Through this simple but intentional process, disciples are raised who carry the Gospel into families, workplaces, communities, and the major spheres of society. Over time the influence of the Kingdom begins to extend beyond individuals and into culture itself.

An Invitation to Participate

This Blueprint for Success is more than a strategy document.

It is an invitation to participate in what God is awakening in this generation where many believers are:

- ✓ no longer satisfied with surface-level Christianity,
- ✓ are recognising the absence of true discipleship,
- ✓ and are responding to a growing desire to disciple others.

Throughout history the Lord has used ordinary believers who were willing to respond to His call. They were not defined by position or resources, but by obedience and faith.

The ®Growing Deep and Strong New Christian Training Centre Blueprint for Success provides a practical pathway for believers to disciple others, raise leaders, and influence their communities through a biblical worldview.

As you read the pages that follow, take time to ask God how He desires to use you within this unfolding movement.

A Formation Pathway — Not Just Information

®Growing Deep and Strong Blueprint for Success is not designed to produce students who simply accumulate biblical knowledge.

It follows the pattern Jesus used when forming His first disciples — a progressive journey that moves from salvation and identity, through inner transformation and biblical worldview, into the discovery of gifts, calling, purpose and destiny.

As disciples mature, they are not only strengthened personally but commissioned to influence their sphere of society and reproduce the same pathway in others. The goal is not information alone, but transformation that results in multiplication.

This is how discipleship becomes more than a course or program. It becomes a movement of Societal Reformers who carry Christ into every sphere of life and raise others to do the same.

The following Blueprint for Success outlines how this discipleship pathway can be established, reproduced, and multiplied through ®Growing Deep and Strong New Christian Training Centres.

®GROWING DEEP AND STRONG
NEW CHRISTIAN TRAINING CENTRE

A Defining Question for Our Time

The ®Growing Deep and Strong New Christian Training Centre exists to answer a defining question of our era:

How do we build disciples who:

- ✓ endure,
- ✓ influence culture,
- ✓ and establish a multi-generational legacy
- ✓ grounded in biblical truth?

History reveals a sobering pattern. Spiritual awakenings have transformed cities and nations, yet many movements eventually diminished.

The recurring weakness has not been passion, numbers, or gifting.
It has been insufficient discipleship and the absence of a deeply embedded biblical worldview.

- ✗ Where disciples are not formed deeply — culture forms them instead.
- ✗ Where worldview is unclear — conviction weakens.
- ✗ Where identity is uncertain — influence fragments.

The ®Growing Deep and Strong New Christian Training Centre Blueprint for Success is a deliberate strategic response.

From Spectators to Legislators

The ®Growing Deep and Strong New Christian Training Centre does not exist to produce passive believers.

It exists to transition disciples from spectators to active legislators—men and women who understand their spiritual authority and live as representatives of Heaven within society.

Through intentional formation, disciples are taught that the Ecclesia is not merely a gathering; it is a governing body under Christ.

- ✓ They learn to carry responsibility—not just attendance.
- ✓ Influence—not isolation.
- ✓ Commission—not comfort.

They do not stand outside culture reacting to it.
They mature into expressions of the government of God within it.

This emphasis is woven throughout the training.

- ✓ Identity leads to authority.
- ✓ Authority leads to responsibility.
- ✓ Responsibility leads to reform.

Not Events — Formation

These centres are not event-driven environments.
They are structured, intentional formation hubs built around a defined 6 or 12-month discipleship journey.

The aim is clear:

- ✓ To produce spiritually healed disciples
- ✓ To establish doctrinal stability
- ✓ To cultivate a biblical worldview
- ✓ To awaken clarity of destiny
- ✓ To develop societal reformers

This is not inspirational Christianity — This is transformational discipleship.

Restoration Before Release

The Blueprint for Success integrates ®Growing Deep and Strong and © Find Your Destiny into one cohesive pathway.

The journey begins with restoration:

- ✓ Healing from past wounds
- ✓ Deliverance from spiritual bondage
- ✓ Grounding in foundational Scripture
- ✓ Alignment of lifestyle with truth

Disciples are not rushed into influence. They are first, strengthened, stabilised, and tested.

- ✓ Identity in Christ is secured.
- ✓ Authority is understood.
- ✓ Worldview is established.

Only then does assignment unfold.

Find Your Destiny© as a Bridge

The longing to discover purpose is universal. That longing becomes a bridge.

Find Your Destiny© functions as:

- ✓ An evangelistic entry point
- ✓ A discipleship accelerator
- ✓ A worldview clarifier
- ✓ A commissioning process

What begins as a search for meaning becomes a surrender to truth.
What begins as ambition becomes alignment with divine purpose.

Each seeker of Truth is guided to recognise their God-given design, spiritual gifts, and sphere of assignment.

Spiritual Hospital and Training Ground

®Growing Deep and Strong New Christian Training Centres operate as both:

A spiritual hospital — restoring the wounded.
A disciplined training environment — preparing reformers.

No wise general deploys untrained soldiers.
Likewise, disciples are not "sent" until they are:

- ✓ Healed
- ✓ Restored
- ✓ Battle-ready
- ✓ Clear in identity
- ✓ Clear in assignment

Readiness is defined—measured—and confirmed.

A Biblical Worldview in Every Sphere

The objective extends beyond personal growth.
The vision is societal reform.
Disciples are equipped to engage the seven major spheres of culture:

- ✓ Religion
- ✓ Family
- ✓ Education
- ✓ Government
- ✓ Media
- ✓ Arts & Entertainment
- ✓ Business

Marketplace ministry is not secondary. It is central.
Faith is not confined to gatherings.
It governs:

- ✓ leadership,
- ✓ strategy,
- ✓ economics,
- ✓ ethics,
- ✓ and decision-making.

Every major decision is filtered through Scripture.
Every ambition is aligned with eternal purpose.

The Twelve-Month Outcome

At the completion of the journey, each disciple should clearly articulate:

- ✓ Who they are in Christ
- ✓ The biblical worldview through which they interpret reality
- ✓ The sphere they are called to influence
- ✓ The assignment entrusted to them
- ✓ The destiny they are committed to pursue

This is clarity.
This is conviction.
This is commissioning.

A Replicable Blueprint for Success for Cities, Regions and Nations

The ®Growing Deep and Strong New Christian Training Centre is not merely a program.
It is a replicable strategy for regional and national transformation:

- ✓ Identifying spiritually hungry regions
- ✓ Establishing structured discipleship and training centres
- ✓ Developing reform-minded leaders
- ✓ Multiplying equipping centres
- ✓ Building multi-generational legacy

This is about building what endures.

Disciples who disciple others.
Leaders who shape culture.
Centres that outlast one generation.

The ®Growing Deep and Strong Blueprint for Success exists to ensure that future movements do not fade—but mature, multiply, and reform society from the inside out.

Simple. Reproducible. Scalable.

One of the defining strengths of the ®Growing Deep and Strong New Christian Training Centre Blueprint for Success is its simplicity.

- ✗ It does not depend on expensive buildings.
- ✗ It does not require complex infrastructure.
- ✗ It does not rely on professional clergy.

A centre can function:

- ✓ In homes
- ✓ In offices
- ✓ In lunchrooms
- ✓ In cafés and restaurants
- ✓ In classrooms
- ✓ Online
- ✓ Anywhere people can gather

The power is not in the building. The power is in the Blueprint for Success.

Ordinary believers with minimal leadership experience are confidently discipling others using clear, biblically grounded manuals designed to reduce doctrinal drift and protect theological integrity.

The format is flexible

- ✓ one-on-one,
- ✓ small groups,
- ✓ larger settings with breakouts,
- ✓ or digital environments.

It can operate across varied timeframes and cultural contexts.

Fast-Tracking Formation

The Blueprint for Success fast-tracks discipleship without compromising depth.

A Movement Designed for New Believers

Across nations, multitudes are awakening to spiritual reality—yet many lack a biblical worldview.

Conviction is present, but clarity is not.
Hunger is evident, but formation is missing.

The ®Growing Deep and Strong and © Find Your Destiny Blueprint for Success provides a structured pathway for these new believers.

Within twelve months—or often less—individuals' transition:

- ✓ From spiritual confusion—to doctrinal clarity
- ✓ From wounded identity—to secure sonship
- ✓ From converts—to disciple-makers
- ✓ From attendees—to societal reformers

This is not theoretical discipleship. It is measurable transformation.

Vision & Purpose Summary for Opening ®Growing Deep and Strong New Christian Training Centres

Opening a ®Growing Deep and Strong New Christian Training Centre (NCTC) must begin in the spirit before it manifests in the natural.

Prayer prepares the ground. It softens resistance. It aligns heaven and earth under divine authority.

Kingdom expansion is never sustained by activity alone. It is established through consecration.

Step 1 is therefore not spiritual enthusiasm—it is strategic alignment.

STEP 1: PRAYER STRATEGY—
HOW TO TAKE OUR CITIES BACK

A Historic Pattern: Revival Begins with Repentance

Prayer within the ®Growing Deep and Strong Training Centre movement is not passive devotion. It is covenantal alignment with the authority of Christ.

When believers repent, renounce deception, and declare the truth of God's Word, they are exercising the jurisdiction entrusted to the ecclesia.

Through prayer the spiritual atmosphere of regions shifts, hearts become receptive, and the purposes of God gain expression within society

History consistently demonstrates that every authentic move of God begins with humility, repentance, and unified prayer. As outlined in Why Moves of God Succeeded and Faded, revival without spiritual depth and structural integrity will eventually lose momentum.

Judicial Realignment Before Kingdom Expansion

The framework outlined in How to Pray and Take Our Cities Back establishes that transformation follows corporate repentance. This is not emotional intensity. It is reverent positioning before a righteous Judge.

Through humility, confession, covenant alignment, and obedience, legal ground is removed from the adversary. Repentance closes doors that sin opened—personally, generationally, and territorially.

This is not initiated by human ambition but by divine assignment. Certified coaches and intercessors who have completed the ®Growing Deep and Strong – Find Your Destiny© pathway move in response to the leading of the Holy Spirit.

As throughout Scripture, they are sent into specific regions, cities, and spheres with clarity of mandate—recognising where the Lord is directing them to establish a foothold for His Kingdom.

Before launching an NCTC, these Spirit-led teams gather in unity to repent on behalf of their city and its spheres of influence. This corporate repentance is not separate from the mission, it is the foundation of it.

It prepares the ground, establishes spiritual alignment, and creates the conditions for the New Christian Training Centre to be planted with authority and longevity.

This is not symbolic. It is governmental. It positions the region for sustainable harvest rather than temporary excitement.

In this way, repentance becomes the gateway to occupation—aligning with the mandate of Christ to "occupy until I come" (Luke 19:13) and the call to take possession of the land (Joshua 1:3), faithfully stewarding what has been entrusted under His authority.

Contrite Hearts and a Burden for the City

True intercession is not mechanical. It is born of burden.

Scripture reveals this pattern through the Book of Nehemiah. Before rebuilding Jerusalem's walls, Nehemiah wept, fasted, confessed national sin, and carried the weight of his people before God. His response did not begin with strategy—it began with brokenness.

Step 1 calls for Christians who are directed by God to open a ®Growing Deep and Strong New Christian Training Centre and carry a genuine burden for their city or region.

Intercession flows from a contrite heart. It is identification with the spiritual condition of a place. It is groaning in prayer. It is standing in the gap with humility and reverence.

Where there is no burden, there will be no breakthrough. Where there is no contrition, there will be no lasting reform.

Prayer for an NCTC is therefore not a preliminary formality. It is the spiritual foundation upon which everything else stands.

Revival that is birthed in brokenness is sustained in authority.

Transformation in a city does not begin with strategy alone; it begins with hearts that are humbled before God.

Those who stand in prayer for their region must first carry a genuine burden for the people and the spiritual condition of the city.

Scripture reminds us that restoration begins when God's people humble themselves, seek His face, and turn from wicked ways (2 Chronicles 7:14).

From this posture of humility and repentance, we approach God not with accusation or frustration toward our city, but with contrite hearts that recognise our shared responsibility before Him.

For this reason, the prayer process outlined in How to Pray and Take Our Cities Back has been intentionally designed to be simple and biblically grounded.

It begins with repentance—both personal and corporate—standing in the gap for the sins of the land much like Nehemiah did when he wept, fasted, and confessed before God on behalf of his people (Nehemiah 1:4–6).

As believers carry this burden before the Lord, the legal ground that allows darkness to influence a city begins to be removed, creating space for God's mercy, justice, and restoration to flow into the region.

Taking Spiritual Responsibility for the Seven Mountains

Repentance prayer (2 Chron.7:14,15. Luke 11:21,22) is directed intentionally over the seven cultural mountains—Religion, Family, Education, Government, Business, Media, and Arts & Entertainment.

Repentance is followed by decree.

After conviction lifts, those who prayed declare God's purposes over each sphere.

- ✓ They dedicate institutions to Christ's Lordship.
- ✓ They decree righteousness as the benchmark for leadership.
- ✓ They speak blessing over families, schools, businesses, and governing bodies.

Repentance removes legal barriers.
Decree establishes Kingdom alignment.

Creating an Open Heaven for Discipleship Infrastructure

Step 1 prepares the spiritual atmosphere so that when ®Growing Deep and Strong New Christian Training Centres are planted, they take root deeply.

Jesus explained that when a strong man, fully armed, guards his palace, his possessions remain secure. But when one stronger attacks and overcomes him, he strips him of the armour in which he trusted and divides the spoils (Luke 11:21–22).

In this teaching the strong man represents Satan, who guards his territory and holds people in spiritual captivity. Yet Jesus is the stronger one who came to destroy the works of the devil and reclaim what has been stolen.

The Kingdom of Light confronts the kingdom of darkness, and the victory of Christ must be enforced through prayer, repentance, and obedience.

Through repentance and spiritual alignment with God's authority, the armour of the strong man begins to be removed and his influence over a city weakens.

When the legal ground of sin is addressed and confessed, the spiritual atmosphere begins to shift. What once allowed darkness to hold influence over a region is dismantled, and the way is prepared for the Gospel to advance and for people to see the truth.

This is why the process outlined in How to Pray and Take Our Cities is so important. Through deep repentance and standing in the gap for the sins of the land, believers disarm the strong man's hold over a region.

As the spiritual atmosphere changes, the blindfolds that prevent people from seeing the light of the Gospel begin to lift, creating an open heaven where the message of Christ can take root.

Revival without structure fades—without discipleship it stalls.

This unified approach ensures that the NCTC does not operate as a program, but as a spiritually authorised hub of reform.

- ✓ Repentance prepares the soil.
- ✓ Decrees plant righteous vision.
- ✓ Discipleship builds lasting transformation.

Through this foundation, a ®Growing Deep and Strong New Christian Training Centre is not simply launched—it is spiritually commissioned to disciple generations and reform culture from the inside out.

As we move from Step One: Prayer Strategy – Taking Our Cities Back, we begin to see that prayer does more than prepare the ground, it shifts the spiritual atmosphere.

Through intentional, Spirit-led prayer, strongholds are confronted, resistance is weakened, and space is created for truth to be revealed.

What was once hidden begins to come into the light.

Scripture reminds us that "the god of this age has blinded the minds of unbelievers" (2 Corinthians 4:4), but as we pray, those blindfolds begin to fall away.

Hearts are softened, eyes are opened, and an openness to truth emerges. This is the moment where heaven's activity meets human readiness.

Step Two flows directly from this place of breakthrough. With an open heaven and barriers removed, we now move into Find Your Destiny – Evangelism with a Purpose.

This is not random outreach, but Spirit-directed engagement, where people are not only introduced to Christ but are awakened to the reality that they were created with purpose, identity, and divine assignment.

What prayer has prepared, evangelism now activates.

STEP 2: FIND YOUR DESTINY©— EVANGELISM WITH PURPOSE

Find Your Destiny© is a two-day evangelistic retreat designed for people who are spiritually hungry and searching for meaning, direction, and purpose in life.

It provides a welcoming and engaging environment where participants are guided to uncover the life written over them—their identity, purpose, and assignment, as revealed in Psalm 139:16.

The Find Your Destiny ©workshop is a fully developed, ready-to-use framework, and the accompanying Presenter's Manual provides clear step-by-step guidance for hosting and facilitating this powerful two-day event.

Through this simple and structured approach, leaders are equipped to confidently run evangelistic gatherings that help people discover their God-given purpose and begin their journey toward a life transformed by Christ.

Awakening Purpose — An Encounter with the Living God

Find Your Destiny© is an intentional encounter with the one true and living God. It speaks directly to the spiritual hunger within every person, that quiet emptiness that success, relationships, and achievement cannot satisfy.

By applying the principles of hearing from God, the lies believed about identity, rejection, failure, and worth are exposed.

As these lies are brought into the light and released, clarity increases. The atmosphere shifts. What once felt closed begins to open. Hearts become receptive.

In this environment, participants are guided to hear from God personally

- ✕ not intellectually — but relationally.

They confront the lies absorbed from the kingdom of darkness and receive truth from God about:

- ✓ who they are,
- ✓ how He sees them,
- ✓ their past,
- ✓ their future,
- ✓ and their purpose.

This is not imagination or self-talk; it is a structured process that creates space for an authentic encounter with God. People do not simply learn about God — they experience Him.

From Identity to Destiny

As individuals hear truth from God,

- ✓ identity begins to stabilise.
- ✓ Destiny flows from identity.

When someone realises they are

- ✓ created intentionally,
- ✓ loved personally,
- ✓ and called purposefully,
  the question naturally follows: How do I walk this out?

This step transitions from encounter to alignment. True destiny is not self-defined ambition but Kingdom assignment. Purpose is discovered in relationship with the Creator.

A Guard Against Superficial Faith

Spiritual history shows that movements fade when encounters are not followed by formation. Passion without foundation leads to instability.

Find Your Destiny© awakens hearts through encounter, but it does not stop there. It prepares individuals for grounded discipleship.

The Bridge to Discipleship 101

Once someone has encountered God and embraced reconciliation through Christ, growth must follow. Discipleship 101 (formerly known as the ®Growing Deep and Strong Basic Course) establishes biblical foundations, character formation, and spiritual maturity.

Find Your Destiny© opens hearts—Discipleship 101 builds depth.

Together, they create a clear pathway from encounter, to salvation, to enduring discipleship, equipping believers to fulfil their God-given destiny in every sphere of life.

STEP 3: ®GROWING DEEP AND STRONG—THE ENGINE OF DISCIPLESHIP

The ®Growing Deep and Strong Blueprint for Success is a 20- or 40-week interactive discipleship pathway designed to establish strong biblical foundations, mature new believers into resilient followers of Christ, and equip them to become societal reformers who uphold and outwork a biblical worldview in every sphere of life.

It is not a passive course, but an intentional guided process built on personal discovery, active participation, and Spirit-led encounters.

The first phase, Discipleship 101, is a 20-week journey that lays the foundations of identity in Christ and the development of godly character.

It includes structured weekly sessions that provide consistent, relational, and biblical discipleship, together with Freedom Events (formerly Encounter Weekends).

These are set-apart, Spirit-led environments where believers enter a safe and confidential space to experience the healing power of God, leading to deep inner healing, freedom, and lasting personal transformation.

The journey can then continue into the Servant Leadership pathway, expanding the process into a 40-week discipleship experience.

This second phase equips disciples with a practical Blueprint for Success for Kingdom influence, helping them recognise their calling, grow in spiritual authority, and step confidently into their sphere of influence.

Together these two stages form a clear and intentional pathway that moves people from new believer to mature disciple, prepared to lead and serve as societal reformers grounded in a biblical worldview, bringing Kingdom influence into their sphere of influence, while also participating in the expansion of new Christian Training Centres.

Structure

It is not a passive course, but an intentional guided process built on personal discovery, active participation, and Spirit-led encounters.

Each topic is experienced in three stages:

Verbal Presentation – Clear biblical teaching introduces the principles. (Approx. 30 minutes)

Personal Discovery – A structured, self-discovery guided process where participants engage Scripture for themselves, uncover truth firsthand, and apply it directly to their lives. (10–15 minutes per day)

Group (up to 7 disciples) /Personal Review and Discussion – Interactive dialogue with a coach and a small group setting reinforces understanding, sharpens insight, and creates accountability. (45–60-minute session)

This interactive design ensures that Scripture is not just studied but engraved on the heart. Participants are led into transformational encounters with God's Word that reshape their identity, character, and worldview.

The Discipleship 101 pathway is structured in two nine-week modules, each culminating in a Freedom Event, reinforcing and activating what has been established throughout the module.

The outcome is more than personal growth. This journey is intentional discipleship that raises societal reformers—believers equipped to stand firm, model Christlike character, and bring Kingdom influence into families, communities, and every sphere of society.

Key Driver

The central driver behind writing the ®Growing Deep and Strong ® series was to equip the Ecclesia with structured, biblically faithful discipleship materials that rapidly establish new believers in their faith and daily walk with God.

The aim was not merely information transfer, but true spiritual formation, establishing a clear, reproducible pathway that moves believers from

- ✓ conversion to conviction,
- ✓ from conviction to competence,
- ✓ and from competence to multiplication.

At its core, this pathway is designed to raise men and women who carry a biblical worldview, individuals who do not separate faith from everyday life, but who bring Kingdom truth into their families, workplaces, communities, and spheres of influence.

These are not passive participants, but intentional societal reformers, equipped to think, lead, and act in alignment with God's Word.

As believers are formed in identity, character, and purpose, they become agents of transformation, able to influence culture, shape environments, and bring light into areas of darkness.

In this way, multiplication is not limited to disciples alone, but extends into renewed communities, strengthened institutions, and generational impact, as each person carries what they have received into their God-given circle of influence.

Our Objectives

The ®Growing Deep and Strong New Christian Training Centre Blueprint for Success has been intentionally designed — and is now proven in practice — to achieve and continually outwork the following 12 objectives:

1. Biblically Sound and Structurally Simple

Discipleship tools have been established that remain faithful to Scripture, simple to teach, and accessible for new believers, consistently delivering clarity without compromising doctrinal integrity.

2. Accessible to Emerging Leaders

Individuals with limited leadership or management experience are being equipped to confidently use the coach's manuals and begin discipling others immediately within a guided and protected structure.

3. Doctrinal Integrity with Guardrails

Structured, easy-to-follow Coach's manuals are actively preserving doctrinal integrity, minimising drift, and reducing the risk of personal interpretation being added through immaturity.

4. Flexible, Scalable, and Reproducible

The model is functioning effectively across diverse environments and contexts — one-on-one, small groups, classrooms with breakout groups, workplace settings, homes, and online gatherings — demonstrating consistent scalability and reproducibility.

5. Interactive and Transformational

Each participant is actively engaged in a hands-on, relational learning environment that draws out personal discovery, encourages honest conversation, and applies truth in real life.

This is not just about gaining knowledge, it consistently leads to genuine life change, where truth is understood, embraced, and outworked in everyday living.

6. Accelerated Spiritual Maturity

New believers are being rapidly established and matured, transitioning from non-biblical worldviews into confident, grounded Christian leaders, many actively discipling others within 6–12 months.

7. Anchored in a Trusted Biblical Framework

The curriculum is firmly grounded in the NKJV® Spirit-Filled Life Study Bible, with page-referenced navigation that is consistently building biblical literacy, confidence, and accuracy in handling Scripture.

8. Establishing Foundational Kingdom Truths

Strong theological foundations are being laid, including understanding the two spiritual kingdoms, the nature of God, the mission of Jesus, the person of the Holy Spirit, spiritual realities, and identity in Christ, bringing freedom from past baggage and unstable belief systems.

9. Character Formation and Life Alignment

Lives are being realigned with godly principles, producing visible growth in integrity, purity, generosity, disciplined speech, relational health, and responsible stewardship across both the ecclesia and marketplace contexts.

10. Evangelism and Societal Reformation

Disciples are actively evangelising within their circle of influence while being formed into societal reformers leading through humility, example, accountability, and responsibility rather than position or personality.

11. Multiplying Disciples and Spiritual Parents

Believers are being raised not only to win others to Christ, but to disciple, mentor, and spiritually parent them, resulting in a clear shift from receiving discipleship to multiplying mature, stable servant leaders.

12. Discovering Gifts, Calling, and Societal Assignment

Disciples are identifying their motivational gifts (Romans 12), understanding the gifts of the Holy Spirit (1 Corinthians 12), clarifying their calling, and stepping into their assigned sphere of influence, functioning as biblically grounded servant leaders and societal reformers who carry Kingdom influence into every area of life.

Summary Outcome

The outcome of the ®Growing Deep and Strong ® Engine of Discipleship is clear:

- ✓ Spiritually healed disciples
- ✓ Doctrinally stable believers
- ✓ Self-governing Christians
- ✓ Emerging servant leaders
- ✓ Equipped disciplers
- ✓ Societal reformers
- ✓ Generational multipliers

This is not a program. It is an interactive discipleship engine designed to form servant leaders who endure, influence culture, and reproduce biblically grounded societal reformers across generations.

NKJV SPIRIT-FILLED LIFE BIBLE

Why Do We Use the New King James Version Spirit-Filled Life Bible?

We use the Spirit-Filled Life Bible (NKJV) because it combines a faithful translation with Spirit-empowered study tools designed for structured interactive discipleship.

Six Key Study Features

1. NKJV Translation

Benefit:

- ✓ Faithful to historic Christian doctrine
- ✓ Reverent yet readable
- ✓ Strong for preaching, teaching, and memorization

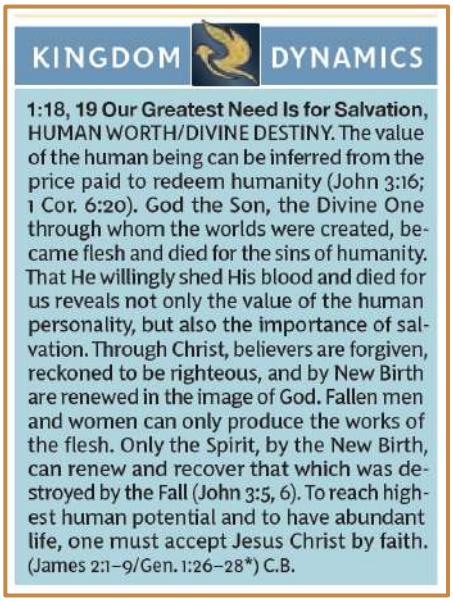
It builds disciples on a solid foundation of truth.

2. Kingdom Dynamics

Short teachings explaining how God's Kingdom operates.

Benefit:

- ✓ Connects doctrine to daily life
- ✓ Develops a Kingdom worldview
- ✓ Equips believers for influence in every sphere



KINGDOM DYNAMICS

1:18, 19 Our Greatest Need Is for Salvation, HUMAN WORTH/DIVINE DESTINY. The value of the human being can be inferred from the price paid to redeem humanity (John 3:16; 1 Cor. 6:20). God the Son, the Divine One through whom the worlds were created, became flesh and died for the sins of humanity. That He willingly shed His blood and died for us reveals not only the value of the human personality, but also the importance of salvation. Through Christ, believers are forgiven, reckoned to be righteous, and by New Birth are renewed in the image of God. Fallen men and women can only produce the works of the flesh. Only the Spirit, by the New Birth, can renew and recover that which was destroyed by the Fall (John 3:5, 6). To reach highest human potential and to have abundant life, one must accept Jesus Christ by faith. (James 2:1–9/Gen. 1:26–28*) C.B.

3. Truth in Action

Application-focused sections within the text.

Benefit:

- ✓ Moves believers from knowledge to obedience
- ✓ Encourages measurable spiritual growth
- ✓ Strengthens accountability

THROUGH JEREMIAH

Letting the Holy Spirit Bring God's Truth to Life in You

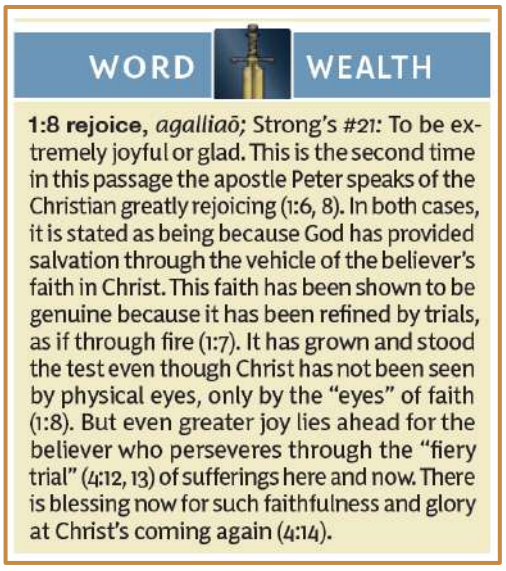
TRUTH		ACTION
JEREMIAH TEACHES	TEXT	JEREMIAH INVITES
(1) Growing in Godliness — Godliness starts with redemption, the process in which old things pass away and new things come to pass, by God's mercy and grace (2 Cor. 5:17). Jeremiah paints a vivid picture revealing God's ability and willingness to save, cleanse, and restore beyond human rebellion, idolatry, deception, and corruption. Today, He does this through the death and resurrection of Jesus, the Messiah whom Jeremiah anticipated in faith to redeem and restore God's people.	29:11–14	Call, pray, seek, search for God with all your heart and He will be found. Believe He wants good things for you and has a plan for your life.
	31:17	Hope in God for your children's future, realizing this promise is ours today as well. Claim this promise for redemption for the prodigal child in your family.
	31:25	Receive God's restoration. He desires to satisfy your weary soul and support those who are sorrowful or fainthearted.
	33:8–11	Look to God for forgiveness. Receive His restoration of joy, praise, and honor. Bring the sacrifice of praise into God's house. Be involved in a church where you can grow in, worship, and thank God for all He has done.
(2) Cultivating Dynamic Devotion	9:23, 24	Boast only in knowing and understanding God.

4. Word Wealth

In-depth studies of key biblical words.

Benefit:

- ✓ Deepens understanding of Scripture
- ✓ Strengthens doctrinal clarity
- ✓ Builds confidence in handling the Word



WORD WEALTH

1:8 rejoice, agalliaō; Strong's #21: To be extremely joyful or glad. This is the second time in this passage the apostle Peter speaks of the Christian greatly rejoicing (1:6, 8). In both cases, it is stated as being because God has provided salvation through the vehicle of the believer's faith in Christ. This faith has been shown to be genuine because it has been refined by trials, as if through fire (1:7). It has grown and stood the test even though Christ has not been seen by physical eyes, only by the "eyes" of faith (1:8). But even greater joy lies ahead for the believer who perseveres through the "fiery trial" (4:12, 13) of sufferings here and now. There is blessing now for such faithfulness and glory at Christ's coming again (4:14).

5. Cross-References & Verse Links

Scripture connected with Scripture.

Benefit:

- ✓ Shows unity across the Bible
- ✓ Helps interpret passages accurately
- ✓ Strengthens theological consistency

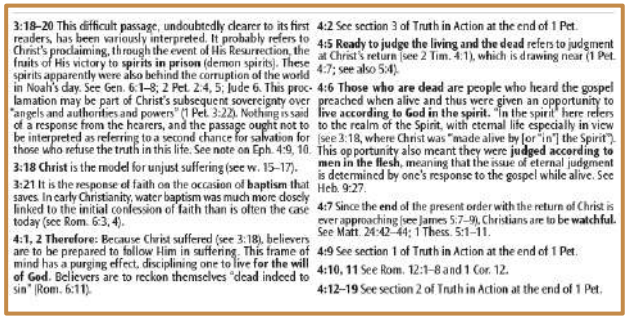
6. Study Footnotes

Explanatory and theological notes throughout.

Benefit:

- ✓ Clarifies difficult passages
- ✓ Provides historical insight
- ✓ Guards against misinterpretation



3:18–20 This difficult passage, undoubtedly clearer to its first readers, has been variously interpreted. It probably refers to Christ's proclaiming, through the event of His Resurrection, the fruits of His victory to spirits in prison (demon spirits). These spirits apparently were also behind the corruption of the world in Noah's day. See Gen. 6:1–8; 2 Pet. 2:4, 5; Jude 6. This proclamation may be part of Christ's subsequent sovereignty over "angels and authorities and powers" (1 Pet. 3:22). Nothing is said of a response from the hearers, and the passage ought not to be interpreted as referring to a second chance for salvation for those who refuse the truth in this life. See note on Eph. 4:9, 10.

3:18 Christ is the model for unjust suffering (see w. 15–17).

3:21 It is the response of faith on the occasion of baptism that saves. In early Christianity, water baptism was much more closely linked to the initial confession of faith than is often the case today (see Rom. 6:3, 4).

4:1, 2 Therefore: Because Christ suffered (see 3:18), believers are to be prepared to follow Him in suffering. This frame of mind has a purging effect, disciplining one to live for the will of God. Believers are to reckon themselves "dead indeed to sin" (Rom. 6:11).

4:2 See section 3 of Truth in Action at the end of 1 Pet.

4:5 Ready to judge the living and the dead refers to judgment at Christ's return (see 2 Tim. 4:1), which is drawing near (1 Pet. 4:7; see also 5:4).

4:6 Those who are dead are people who heard the gospel preached when alive and thus were given an opportunity to live according to God in the spirit. "In the spirit" here refers to the realm of the Spirit, with eternal life especially in view (see 3:18, where Christ was "made alive by [or "in"] the Spirit"). This opportunity also meant they were judged according to men in the flesh, meaning that the issue of eternal judgment is determined by one's response to the gospel while alive. See Heb. 9:27.

4:7 Since the end of the present order with the return of Christ is ever approaching (see James 5:7–9), Christians are to be watchful. See Matt. 24:42–44; 1 Thess. 5:1–11.

4:9 See section 1 of Truth in Action at the end of 1 Pet.

4:10, 11 See Rom. 12:1–8 and 1 Cor. 12.

4:12–19 See section 2 of Truth in Action at the end of 1 Pet.

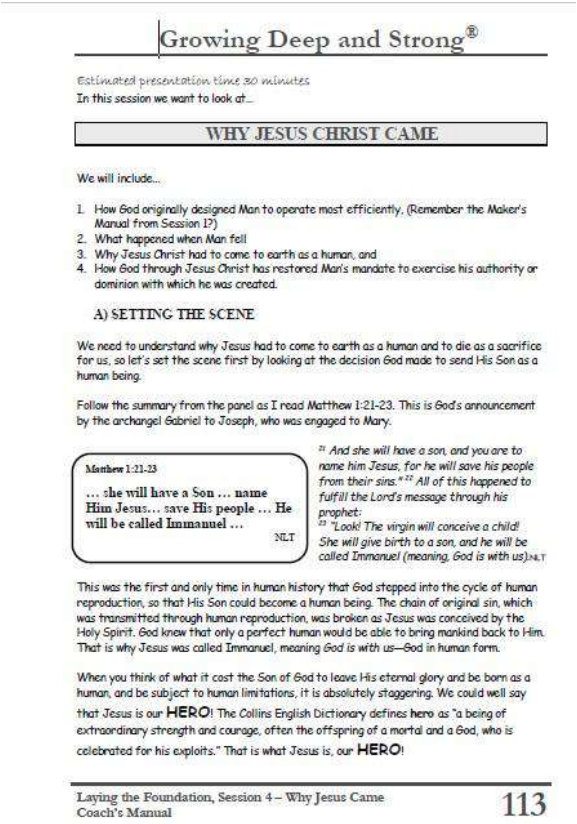
Verbal Presentation

Each session begins with a Verbal Presentation, where the coach communicates the teaching while the disciple listens and follows along.

The coach's manual contains the full teaching text, allowing the coach to simply read the material aloud in a clear and structured way.

This presentation usually takes 25–30 minutes and ensures that every disciple receives the same consistent explanation of the biblical principles being taught.

Coaches may either read directly from the manual or play one of the pre-recorded video presentations, which deliver the same teaching in a visual format.



Growing Deep and Strong®

Estimated presentation time 30 minutes

In this session we want to look at...

WHY JESUS CHRIST CAME

We will include...

1. How God originally designed Man to operate most efficiently. (Remember the Maker's Manual from Session 1?)
2. What happened when Man fell
3. Why Jesus Christ had to come to earth as a human, and
4. How God through Jesus Christ has restored Man's mandate to exercise his authority or dominion with which he was created.

A) SETTING THE SCENE

We need to understand why Jesus had to come to earth as a human and to die as a sacrifice for us, so let's set the scene first by looking at the decision God made to send His Son as a human being.

Follow the summary from the panel as I read Matthew 1:21-23. This is God's announcement by the archangel Gabriel to Joseph, who was engaged to Mary.

Matthew 1:21-23

... she will have a Son ... name Him Jesus... save His people ... He will be called Immanuel ...

NLT

21 And she will have a son, and you are to name him Jesus, for he will save his people from their sins." 22 All of this happened to fulfill the Lord's message through his prophet:
23 "Look! The virgin will conceive a child! She will give birth to a son, and he will be called Immanuel (meaning, God is with us). NLT

This was the first and only time in human history that God stepped into the cycle of human reproduction, so that His Son could become a human being. The chain of original sin, which was transmitted through human reproduction, was broken as Jesus was conceived by the Holy Spirit. God knew that only a perfect human would be able to bring mankind back to Him. That is why Jesus was called Immanuel, meaning God is with us—God in human form.

When you think of what it cost the Son of God to leave His eternal glory and be born as a human, and be subject to human limitations, it is absolutely staggering. We could well say that Jesus is our HERO! The Collins English Dictionary defines hero as "a being of extraordinary strength and courage, often the offspring of a mortal and a God, who is celebrated for his exploits." That is what Jesus is, our HERO!

Disciple's Manual 99

At the same time, the disciple's manual provides a simplified outline of the session. It includes the main subheadings, key Bible references, and space for notes, allowing the disciple to follow the structure of the teaching and record insights as they listen.

This method combines hearing the teaching with visually following the key points, helping the disciple clearly grasp the message.

The Verbal Presentation is one of the three learning approaches used in each session, reinforcing understanding and preparing the disciple for reflection and application.

Verbal Presentation Note

While structured study is anchored in the NKJV Spirit-Filled Life Bible, the public reading of Scripture during the Verbal Presentation is taken from the New Living Translation (NLT) to provide a clear, accessible rendering that helps listeners easily grasp the meaning of the passage as it is heard.

Why?

- ✓ Clear and conversational
- ✓ Easy to follow when listening
- ✓ Widely used in audio formats

NKJV builds depth.
NLT enhances listening clarity.

Together, they support strong doctrine and accessible communication.

Personal Discovery (Disciples Manuals)

Personal Discovery is designed to help each disciple engage directly with the Scriptures and personally explore the foundations of the Christian faith.

In this section, the disciple works through carefully structured questions and fills in missing words drawn from Bible verses, key study notes, and important reference features within the Bible itself.

Each passage is clearly referenced and page-numbered, making it easy to locate and encouraging the disciple to physically open the Bible, read the passages, and interact with the study references provided.

Rather than simply receiving information, the disciple actively discovers truth through the Word of God and its study features.

A Personal Discovery session typically takes 50–90 minutes in total and can easily be completed over several days, such as 10–15 minutes per day, allowing time for thoughtful reflection and personal engagement with the topic.

PERSONAL DISCOVERY

WHY JESUS CHRIST CAME

(Estimated time for disciples to complete Personal Discovery: 65 minutes)

A) SETTING THE SCENE

To understand why Jesus came as a sacrifice for us we need to look at some Bible verses that explain the decision that God made to send His Son.

Mary was a young woman of Nazareth in Israel, a virgin who believed in and walked with God. God chose her to become the human mother of Jesus, the Son of God. This birth was unique in all of human history, and that is why God had to send the archangel Gabriel to let her know God's plans. Her story of Gabriel's announcement would have been misunderstood by all of her peers, even Joseph, who was engaged to Mary but had not yet married her. Maybe even her parents did not believe her story. So God sent Gabriel to Joseph to announce His decision to him. No doubt he needed God's reassurance that Mary had not been unfaithful to him.

Personal Discovery (Coach's Manuals)

For the certified coach, the Coach's Manual contains all the completed answers along with guiding notes.

This ensures that every coach can lead the process with clarity and theological accuracy, even if they have limited leadership or teaching experience.

Because the answers are already provided for the coach, the learning pathway remains consistent, biblically sound, and easy to facilitate.

At the same time, the disciple's workbook intentionally requires them to locate the Bible passages, follow the study references, and complete the answers themselves.

This prevents passive learning and encourages genuine interaction with Scripture, helping disciples build a strong personal foundation in the Word of God while enabling new coaches to confidently disciple others.

Disciple's Manual

Personal Discovery Review

The Personal Discovery Review is a structured 25–30-minute group discussion designed to ensure that each disciple clearly understands and internalises what they have heard in the teaching and personally studied during the week.

At the conclusion of each session, guided discussion questions are provided to draw out understanding and reflection.

Disciples are also encouraged to record their "gold nuggets" — key insights that stood out to them — along with any areas they do not fully understand.

These notes become the foundation for rich, focused discussion during the review time.

The Coach's Manual provides the coach with all the discussion questions along with clear reference answers, including cross-referenced page numbers that link both the coach's manual and the disciple's workbook.

This ensures the discussion remains biblically accurate, consistent, and aligned with the intended learning outcomes of the session.

At the same time, disciples are given a preview of the key questions that will be discussed so they understand what truths and principles they are expected to discover and grasp from the topic.

After the first week or two, once everyone has become familiar with the format, coaches are encouraged to move slightly beyond simply reading the questions verbatim.

While still remaining faithful to the topic and the biblical references studied, the coach may adapt the conversation in order to draw out deeper reflection from the disciples.

This prevents the process from becoming mechanical and encourages disciples to engage thoughtfully with the Scriptures they have studied.

The goal is not simply to repeat information, but for each disciple to genuinely understand the biblical principles being taught so that these truths become part of their thinking, their decisions, and ultimately their everyday lifestyle as they grow in a strong biblical worldview.

Notes to the Coach: -

1. Your role is to facilitate and encourage discussion on the Personal Discovery. Avoid being side tracked into other topics that are not relevant to the session. You can arrange another time to answer other questions.
2. Allow disciples to answer the questions or discuss without forcing them to talk. The atmosphere you want is one of willing participation, rather than one belonging to a formal classroom.
3. The numbers in brackets refer to the page where the question is found. The first number is for this Coach's Manual while the other number in brackets is the page in the Disciple's Manual.

Laying the Foundation, Session 4 – Why Jesus Came Coach's Manual

Purpose and Benefits

1. Reinforces Biblical Understanding

Discussion moves truth from head knowledge to conviction. When disciples articulate what they have discovered, comprehension deepens and clarity increases.

2. Cultivates Personal Revelation

Growing Deep and Strong[5]

The "ah-ha" and "I don't understand" page

148

By identifying insights gained during the week, disciples grow in confidence that God speaks to them through His Word. This builds spiritual independence and expectancy.

3. Creates a Safe Environment for Questions

The "Ah-Ha, I don't understand" component normalises questions and removes fear. Misunderstandings are addressed early, preventing weak foundations.

4. Strengthens Accountability

The review establishes rhythm and responsibility. Disciples know their study will be discussed, encouraging faithfulness and consistent engagement.

5. Transforms Study into Formation

This is not a casual conversation. It is a formation moment. Through dialogue, truth begins shaping identity, worldview, and daily practice.

Summary Statement

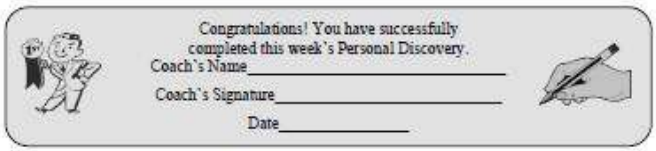
The Personal Discovery Review is a focused, interactive dialogue that confirms understanding, draws out personal insight, clarifies questions, and strengthens accountability.

It bridges private study and corporate growth, ensuring that biblical truth is not merely completed as an exercise, but

- ✓ internalised,
- ✓ articulated,
- ✓ and lived.

Certificate of Recognition

At the conclusion of each session, the disciple's Personal Discovery section is reviewed and signed by the coach, confirming that the biblical principles have been personally engaged with and thoughtfully completed.



This sign-off is not a formality. It affirms intentional participation, reinforces diligence, and strengthens a culture of responsibility throughout the journey. Each session therefore carries both spiritual weight and practical accountability.

At the completion of every module, a formal Certificate of Completion is awarded, recognising the disciple's commitment, consistency, and growth.

In a culture where perseverance and effort often go unnoticed, this moment of recognition strengthens identity, builds confidence, and honours faithful follow-through. It communicates that disciplined study, reflection, and obedience matter.

At the same time, the structured sign-off process safeguards integrity. Where work has not been completed, it becomes visible—creating opportunity for review, encouragement, clarification, and restoration of momentum.

This ensures that no one simply moves forward by attendance alone, but by genuine engagement.

- ✓ Recognition and accountability therefore work together,
- ✓ achievement is affirmed,
- ✓ growth is validated
- ✓ and authentic transformation is protected.

STEP 4: MODULE ONE – LAYING THE FOUNDATION (101 DISCIPLESHIP)

Overview

Module 1 lays the biblical foundation for understanding salvation, identity, and the Kingdom of God.

It establishes the reality of two kingdoms—darkness and light, making clear the transfer that takes place at salvation and exposing the lies and influence of the kingdom of darkness.

It brings clarity on who the Father is, His heart and character, and reveals who Jesus is and why He came—to save, restore, and bring people into right relationship with God.

It introduces the Holy Spirit as the one who leads, teaches, and empowers the believer, and provides a clear understanding of the unseen realm, including angels, keeping Christ central.

A key foundation is spirit, soul, and body, establishing what is made new at salvation and what is progressively renewed, so believers live from identity rather than striving.

This module also prepares participants for the Freedom Event (Encounter Weekend)—a set-apart, Spirit-led environment where the truth already established is applied more deeply, allowing healing, freedom, and restoration to take place.

The outcome is a believer who understands what has happened at salvation, knows who they are in Christ, and is grounded in truth, ready to grow with clarity and stability.

Session 1: A New Life

Session Intent

Session One exists to establish a secure and unshakeable foundation for the disciple's new life in Christ. Its intent is to ensure that salvation is understood as a completed spiritual reality, not an ongoing question.

This session anchors the disciple in truth, helping them recognise that a decisive spiritual transaction has already taken place and that their position in Christ has permanently changed.

This foundation is essential. Without clarity here, growth becomes unstable.
With clarity, confidence replaces uncertainty and disciples are able to move forward intentionally.

Purpose of the Session

The purpose of this session is to help the disciple understand what happened when they received Jesus Christ. They are introduced to the biblical reality of being born again, becoming a child of God, and entering a new relationship with Him.

Emphasis is placed on identity, authority, and belonging rather than behaviour or performance.

This session also intentionally introduces disciples to the Bible used throughout ®Growing Deep and Strong ® Blueprint for Success.

They are shown how to navigate it confidently and practically, learning how to locate Scripture, use study features, and follow references for themselves.

From the beginning, disciples are equipped to engage God's Word independently, not relying on the coach or the sessions to hear from God.

By design, this establishes self-sufficiency. Disciples learn that Scripture is accessible, understandable, and relevant to their daily lives, enabling them to continue growing outside formal teaching times.

Establishing a Kingdom Perspective

Session One introduces the concept that salvation involves a transfer from one kingdom to another. Disciples begin to understand that they have been delivered out of darkness and brought into the Kingdom of Light.

This creates an early kingdom framework that will be expanded in later sessions, while reinforcing security, authority, and purpose rather than fear.

Vision for Coaches

For the coach, this session sets the tone for the entire discipleship journey. Your role is to facilitate discovery, encourage understanding, and protect the simplicity of the message.

This is not a session to add extra teaching or external material. It is designed to allow truth to settle deeply and personally.

You are nurturing spiritual babies. The goal is not speed, but strength.

Vision for Disciples and the Marketplace

Session One establishes disciples as people who live from a new identity and are equipped to hear from God through His Word. This foundation is essential for believers who will carry their faith into everyday life, work, and influence.

The outcome is disciples who are secure, grounded in Scripture, and capable of growing independently strong foundations for a strong and sustainable life.

From Kingdom Foundation to Biblical Foundation

Session One establishes a Kingdom perspective, a transfer from darkness into light. Salvation is not just forgiveness; it is a change of citizenship, identity, and authority.

But a new Kingdom requires a clear foundation. That foundation is the Word of God.

If disciples are to live secure and strong, they must learn how to navigate Scripture with confidence. The Kingdom framework introduced in Session One must now be anchored in a reliable biblical structure.

As a coach, you protect simplicity. You are nurturing spiritual infants. Growth requires clarity, consistency, and shared tools, not added material or unnecessary complexity.

For disciples who will carry their faith into everyday life and the marketplace, biblical literacy is essential. They must know where truth is found and how to return to it.

That is why our journey is anchored in the Spirit-Filled Life Bible (New King James Version). It provides doctrinal stability, Spirit-led insight, and structured study tools in one unified framework.

Kingdom identity begins the journey. Biblical foundation sustains it.

Session 2: Kingdom of Darkness

Session Intent

This session is designed to help disciples clearly understand the kingdom they have been rescued from.

Having already learned that they were transferred into the Kingdom of Light at salvation, they now examine the nature of the kingdom of darkness so they can fully appreciate the magnitude of their deliverance.

The goal is not to create fear, but clarity. When disciples see how destructive this kingdom is, both globally and personally, gratitude and conviction are strengthened.

They begin to recognise how its influence shaped their past thinking, behaviour, and bondage.

Two Kingdoms Explained

The session establishes that darkness and light are complete opposites. Scripture such as Colossians 1:13 and Acts 26:18 reveals that salvation is a legal and spiritual transfer, from the power of darkness into Christ's kingdom.

Disciples must grasp that this transfer is real, decisive, and authoritative.

Understanding this contrast builds spiritual awareness and gratitude. It also reinforces identity: they no longer belong to the former realm.

The Ruler of the Kingdom of Darkness

The nature and character of Satan are addressed so disciples understand the enemy of their souls. He is revealed as adversary, accuser, deceiver, and devourer.

John 10:10 clarifies his destructive intent, while 1 Peter 5:8 calls believers to vigilance.

The purpose is not fascination with the enemy, but equipping disciples to resist him with knowledge and confidence.

Subjects and Activities of Darkness

The session outlines the activities of demonic influence, blinding minds, deceiving, oppressing, perverting truth, binding with sickness, and causing division.

Disciples are encouraged to reflect on how these may have operated in their own lives before salvation.

This personal discovery brings awareness without condemnation and prepares them for freedom.

Good News and Protection

The session concludes with assurance. Believers are no longer under Satan's authority. They are called to stand united, protect one another, and walk in vigilance and prayer.

The intended outcome is a disciple who understands their former bondage, recognises the enemy's tactics, stands secure in Christ's authority, and is prepared to walk forward in the Kingdom of Light.

Session 3: Kingdom of Light

Session Intent

This session is designed to help the disciple clearly understand the Kingdom they have now entered. Having been delivered from the kingdom of darkness, they must grasp the reality, authority, and responsibilities of living in the Kingdom of Light.

The goal is not only theological understanding but settled identity and transformed living.

Revelation of the Father

The focus of this session is God the Father, His nature, character, and heart. The story of the prodigal son reveals the Father's agape love: steadfast, covenantal, and undeserved.

Though the son rebelled and squandered his inheritance, the father did not change his identity. He ran to restore, not to condemn.

Agape love is not indulgence; it is redeeming love. It welcomes repentance, restores sonship, and re-establishes dignity. The disciple must see that entry into the Kingdom of Light begins with the Father's initiative, not human merit.

Transfer of Kingdoms

The prodigal's return illustrates repentance, a decisive turning from the far country back to the father's house. Salvation is more than emotional relief; it is a transfer of citizenship. The robe, ring, and sandals signify restored authority, identity, and belonging.

The coach must emphasise that going back to the old life is not harmless. It is returning to spiritual poverty. The Kingdom of Light is a place of provision, order, and relationship under the Father's rule.

Identity and Authority

In the Father's house, the disciple is not a servant striving for approval, but a son or daughter living from acceptance. Obedience flows from relationship. Authority is exercised under submission to the Father's will.

Kingdom Culture and Conduct

Living in the Kingdom of Light means reflecting the Father's character, mercy with holiness, love with truth, grace with righteousness. Light exposes darkness and calls for transformation.

Coach Emphasis

Ensure the disciple understands both the depth of agape love and the seriousness of Kingdom allegiance. The desired outcome is gratitude, loyalty, and a firm resolve to live as a restored child of the Father in the Kingdom of Light.

Session 4: Why Jesus Came

Session Intent

Session Four exists to give disciples a clear, biblical understanding of why Jesus Christ came into the world and why His coming was both necessary and intentional.

Its intent is to move disciples beyond a simplified or sentimental view of Jesus into a grounded understanding of His mission, rooted in God's original design for humanity and the consequences of the Fall.

This session helps disciples see Jesus not merely as a moral teacher or example, but as the divinely appointed solution to a real spiritual problem.

When this understanding is secure, faith becomes confident rather than fragile, and disciples are able to interpret their salvation within God's larger redemptive plan.

Purpose of the Session

The purpose of this session is to explain what was lost through man's disobedience and what Jesus came to restore.

Disciples are taken back to God's original intention for humanity, to live in relationship with Him and to exercise delegated responsibility under His authority.

They are then shown how deception, disobedience, and the misuse of free will resulted in separation, brokenness, and the forfeiting of that authority.

Against this background, the mission of Jesus is revealed clearly. Jesus came to destroy the works of the devil, to restore access to the Father, to bring life in contrast to destruction, and to heal the whole person.

His coming was not accidental or reactive; it was purposeful, voluntary, and rooted in truth.

This session also establishes that Jesus fully understands human weakness and suffering, having lived as a man without sin.

As a result, disciples are invited into a relationship marked by mercy, rest, and peace rather than striving or fear.

Establishing a Kingdom Perspective

Session Four deepens the disciple's kingdom framework by explaining the contrast between the two opposing missions operating in the world: one that steals, kills, and destroys, and one that gives life.

Disciples learn that salvation involves restoration, of relationship, identity, authority, and wholeness.

The session also introduces the concept that Jesus' victory has legal and spiritual implications.

Through His death and resurrection, the debt against humanity was cancelled and authority was restored to those who belong to Him.

This lays groundwork for understanding authority, discipleship, and Kingdom responsibility in later sessions.

Vision for Coaches

For the coach, this session is about clarity and safety. Your role is to guide disciples through truth without fear-based emphasis, allowing understanding to replace confusion.

Do not rush this session. It carries weight and requires space for reflection.

Vision for Disciples and the Marketplace

Session Four establishes disciples as people who understand why they are saved and what has been restored.

This produces believers who live from peace, confidence, and authority, equipped to carry Christ's life and truth into everyday life, work, and influence.

Session 5: Holy Spirit

Session Intent

Session Five exists to establish a clear, biblical, and relational understanding of the Holy Spirit as God present within the believer.

Its intent is to move disciples beyond vague ideas of "God out there" into the settled reality of God in us.

This session completes the foundational revelation of the Godhead by revealing the Holy Spirit as the active, personal presence of God continuing the work of Jesus in the believer's life.

This session is critical for stability and maturity.

Without clarity regarding the Holy Spirit, disciples default to self-effort, fear, or religious striving. With clarity, dependence replaces performance, and confidence replaces uncertainty.

Purpose of the Session

The purpose of this session is to help disciples understand who the Holy Spirit is, how He has worked throughout Scripture, and how He works today.

Disciples are shown that the Holy Spirit is not an impersonal force, but a divine Person who helps, guides, empowers, teaches, and assures believers of their relationship with God.

This session intentionally traces the activity of the Holy Spirit from creation, through the Old Testament, into the life and ministry of Jesus, and finally into the present-day believer.

In doing so, disciples gain a coherent biblical framework rather than fragmented ideas or experiences.

The session also establishes that the Holy Spirit is the author of Scripture and the one who illuminates truth.

This anchors confidence in the Bible while reinforcing that understanding comes through relationship, not intellectual effort alone.

Establishing a Kingdom Perspective

Session Five reinforces that believers live in a new era inaugurated by the coming of the Holy Spirit.

God no longer dwells only among His people, but within them. This has direct implications for daily life, obedience, discernment, and witness.

Disciples begin to understand that Kingdom living is Spirit-enabled.

Transformation, boldness, guidance, and assurance flow from the Holy Spirit's presence rather than human strength. This perspective prepares disciples for sustainable faith in real-world environments.

Vision for Coaches

For the coach, this session requires a posture of safety and encouragement.

Your role is to help disciples recognise the Holy Spirit's presence and activity without pressure, fear, or emotional manipulation. The aim is understanding and trust, not spiritual performance.

Vision for Disciples and the Marketplace

Session Five equips disciples to live with ongoing divine help in everyday life.

The outcome is believers who rely on the Holy Spirit for wisdom, strength, and direction in work, relationships, and influence, forming a stable foundation for Kingdom impact beyond the church setting.

Session 6: The Existence of Angels

Session Intent

This session addresses a subject that is clearly established in Scripture yet often misunderstood: -the existence and role of angels.

The aim of this teaching is not to promote fascination with angels, stir fear of the unseen realm, or encourage speculative spirituality.

Its purpose is to establish biblical clarity, spiritual discernment, and Kingdom confidence so disciples remain grounded in truth and focused on Christ.

From the opening testimony of Scripture, God is revealed as the Creator of all things, both visible and invisible.

Angels belong to that created order and exist because God willed and sustained them. They are powerful spiritual beings, yet they are not divine, self-originating, or autonomous.

Angels do not act independently, set their own agendas, or function outside God's authority. They serve at His direction and remain accountable to His rule.

The Bible presents angels as active participants in God's purposes.

They appear at key moments to deliver God's messages, strengthen His servants, provide protection, and assist in spiritual conflict when commanded by Him.

At the same time, Scripture places firm boundaries around angels. They are never portrayed as objects of devotion, sources of guidance, or mediators between God and humanity.

Whenever attention shifts from God toward angels, Scripture consistently redirects worship and trust back to the Lord alone.

This session also addresses the reality of fallen angels and spiritual warfare.

Scripture acknowledges real spiritual conflict operating behind earthly systems and influences, yet it never invites fear or obsession.

Instead, it declares that Jesus Christ has absolute authority over every angelic and spiritual power. Both loyal angels and fallen powers exist under limits set by God and under the lordship of Christ.

For disciples, this teaching is essential for maintaining a Christ-centred life.

In many cultures, spiritual beings, supernatural signs, or spirit guidance are elevated as sources of wisdom or protection.

Scripture warns against these practices and calls God's people to seek direction, truth, and security from Him alone.

Angels are servants within God's Kingdom, not guides for personal spirituality.

Vision for Coaches

By the end of this session, disciples should hold a balanced, biblical understanding of angels that is free from fear, superstition, and distraction.

Vision for Disciples and Marketplace

They should leave confident that God governs the unseen realm, assured that Christ reigns in complete authority, and committed to living in obedience, faith, and fruitfulness in every sphere of life, including family, community, and the marketplace, as witnesses of His Kingdom purposes

Session 7: Spirit, Soul, and Body

Session Intent

This session introduces a biblical framework for understanding the believer as a three-part being: spirit, soul, and body. Its purpose is to establish clarity around what God has already completed at salvation and what He continues to work on as part of ongoing discipleship.

Spirit, Soul, and Body — Preparing for the First Freedom Event

This session also prepares disciples for the Freedom Event (Encounter One Weekend) by helping them understand how God's work of redemption affects every part of their being.

The First Freedom Event is not about re-salvation or spiritual performance, but about allowing the Holy Spirit to apply Christ's finished work more deeply into areas of life that still need healing, renewal, and restoration.

By understanding the distinction between spirit, soul, and body, disciples approach the First Freedom Event from a position of security in Christ rather than uncertainty or fear.

Purpose of the Session — Establishing a Kingdom Perspective

At salvation, the spirit is born again. Scripture teaches that this work is instant, complete, and secure. The believer is made alive in Christ, fully accepted, and positioned as God's workmanship.

This spiritual rebirth is not progressive and does not require repetition. It forms the unshakable foundation upon which all growth occurs.

The session then explains that while the spirit is made new immediately, the soul is renewed over time. The soul includes the mind, emotions, desires, and internal value systems.

Renewal is not about striving for acceptance but about transformation through truth.

God renews the mind through His Word, heals emotions through His presence, and reshapes desires as trust deepens.

This process is normal, expected, and evidence of spiritual life rather than deficiency.

The body is also included in God's redemptive plan. Scripture describes it as God's temple, set apart for His purposes. Growth in this area flows from identity, not obligation.

Sanctification is the ongoing process through which a believer is progressively transformed into the character and likeness of Christ.

It is presented as a cooperative journey in which God actively works within the believer through the Holy Spirit, shaping desires, renewing the mind, and strengthening the will.

At the same time, the believer participates by responding in faith, obedience, and trust, choosing to align their thoughts, attitudes, and actions with God's truth.

As this partnership unfolds, old patterns of life are gradually replaced with Christlike character, resulting in a life that increasingly reflects God's holiness and purposes.

The account of Simon in Acts 8 provides an important biblical example for this session.

Simon believed the gospel and was water baptised yet later needed correction because unresolved issues from his former life still influenced his heart.

This passage demonstrates that genuine faith can coexist with areas needing restoration. It does not undermine salvation but highlights God's commitment to ongoing transformation.

This understanding prepares disciples for the First Freedom Event. Through repentance, forgiveness, and restoration, God addresses areas that no longer align with the believer's new identity.

Vision for Coaches

Coaches help disciples understand the difference between what God has already completed in the spirit and what He continues to transform in the soul and life of the believer.

By teaching this clearly, coaches remove unnecessary fear, confusion, and performance-driven thinking. Disciples begin to see their journey of growth as a normal part of walking with Christ rather than a sign of spiritual failure.

This clarity also prepares disciples to approach the First Freedom Event with faith and confidence, trusting that God is working from a foundation of grace rather than striving for acceptance.

Vision for Disciples in the Marketplace

As disciples grow in their understanding of spirit, soul, and body, they develop stability in their identity in Christ.

This stability enables them to live with greater confidence, wisdom, and discernment within their families, workplaces, and communities.

Rather than being driven by insecurity, emotional reactions, or external pressures, disciples learn to live from their new identity in Christ and allow the Holy Spirit to renew their thinking and shape their responses.

Over time this produces maturity, integrity, and spiritual authority that influences their sphere of influence and reflects the transforming work of Christ in everyday life.

Preparing for the First Freedom Event Weekend

Understanding the distinction between spirit, soul, and body prepares disciples to approach the First Freedom Event with clarity and confidence.

The believer's spirit has already been made alive in Christ, secure in His finished work.

The First Freedom Event therefore focuses on allowing the Holy Spirit to bring areas of the soul—thinking, emotions, memories, and attitudes, into greater alignment with that new identity.

Rather than striving for spiritual acceptance, disciples participate in a grace-filled process of repentance, forgiveness, and restoration. In this way,

The First Freedom Event becomes a practical step in the ongoing journey of discipleship, where Christ's finished work is applied more deeply into everyday life.

The First Freedom Event

Foundational Purpose and Intent

The First Freedom Event is a concentrated, Holy Spirit-led environment designed to bring disciples into a deeper encounter with the transforming power of the Cross.

As part of Module One, Laying The Foundation, it moves participants from sound biblical teaching into experiential personal application, repentance, deliverance, and spiritual empowerment.

- ✗ This is not a conference.
- ✗ It is not a motivational gathering.

It is a carefully structured freedom environment where disciples are guided step-by-step into restoration, alignment, and renewed spiritual authority.

A Safe, Confidential and Orderly Environment

By unique design, the First Freedom Event is conducted in a protected setting away from normal distractions.

The atmosphere is intentional

- ✓ worship-centred,
- ✓ prayer-saturated,
- ✓ and pastorally supervised.

The Presenter's (Coach) Manual provides a comprehensive outline on how to run the entire weekend. It includes:

- ✓ Venue preparation
- ✓ Team structure and roles
- ✓ Ministry procedures
- ✓ Prayer protocols
- ✓ Deliverance guidelines
- ✓ Baptism preparation and instruction
- ✓ Sound, worship, and environmental guidance

Clear ratios of prayer team members to disciples, leadership oversight, and defined ministry processes ensure that every person is ministered to in a safe, confidential, and orderly manner. Unity, spiritual authority, and accountability are foundational to the design.

The result is an environment where conviction can occur without condemnation, and freedom can take place without chaos.

Christ-Centred Emphasis

The Freedom Event begins by centring everything on the Cross. The Power of the Cross is taught not merely as theology but as the legal and spiritual foundation for freedom.

Communion and participation reinforce covenant identity and participation in Christ's finished work.

The Cross is not symbolic décor, it is the central focus of ministry. Repentance, renunciation, and surrender are directed toward what Jesus has already accomplished.

The intent is to establish Christ's victory as the disciple's personal reality.

Repentance, Renunciation and Deliverance

Through structured teaching and guided ministry times, disciples are led to address specific spiritual roots that hinder growth. Areas include:

- ✓ From curse to blessing (breaking generational patterns and releasing covenant blessing)
- ✓ The religious spirit
- ✓ Unforgiveness
- ✓ Fear, doubt and unbelief
- ✓ Spirit of rejection
- ✓ Witchcraft and occult involvement
- ✓ Freemasonry

In addition to these ministry areas, the weekend includes clear biblical teaching on:

- ✓ The Power of the Cross
- ✓ The meaning and significance of Communion
- ✓ Water Baptism
- ✓ Holy Spirit Baptism

Each teaching session is followed by prayer ministry at the Cross.
Disciples actively repent, renounce, and receive prayer in a supervised and biblically grounded process.

The goal is not emotional experience, but genuine spiritual freedom, legal ground closed, identity restored, and authority re-established.

Team-Based Ministry with Spiritual Authority

The First Freedom Event models' ecclesial order. The prayer team operates in unity, under leadership, and within clearly defined procedures.
Mature team leaders oversee ministry times, ensuring discernment and spiritual covering.

The presenter serves as a "floor general," guiding the flow, maintaining order, and protecting both disciples and team members.

This structured approach ensures that freedom happens in alignment with biblical authority and spiritual wisdom.

Covenant Obedience and Empowerment

The weekend culminates in Water Baptism and Holy Spirit Baptism.

Water baptism is presented as obedience to Christ and a public declaration of identification with His death, burial, and resurrection. It marks a clear line of transition into newness of life.

Holy Spirit baptism emphasizes empowerment, receiving spiritual strength, boldness, and activation for victorious living.

The intent is not simply cleansing, but commissioning.

Overall Intent

The First Freedom Event is designed to:

- ✓ Establish the Cross as the disciple's foundation of authority
- ✓ Remove spiritual hindrances that block growth
- ✓ Restore covenant identity
- ✓ Provide a safe and confidential environment for deep ministry
- ✓ Equip leaders with a clear, reproducible framework
- ✓ Empower disciples to walk in newness of life

It is both restorative and mobilizing. Freedom is not the destination, it is the launch point for mature discipleship, Kingdom influence, and biblically grounded leadership in every sphere of life.

STEP 5: MODULE TWO POWER OF GODLY CHARACTER

Overview

As disciples move beyond the foundations of new birth, they begin a new phase of growth marked by responsibility, formation, and transformation.

This module represents the shift from spiritual infancy into spiritual adolescence, a stage where understanding must mature into application, and belief must begin to shape behaviour.

No longer sustained only by foundational truths, the disciple is now called to engage with the deeper work of God within their life.

This is where character is formed, convictions are strengthened, and the inner life begins to align with the truth they have received. The focus moves from simply knowing Christ to increasingly becoming like Him.

Over these nine weeks, the emphasis is placed on the development of godly character as the foundation for lasting fruitfulness in both life and the marketplace.

Disciples will be challenged to confront attitudes, habits, and patterns that do not reflect a biblical worldview, while intentionally cultivating integrity, humility, obedience, and spiritual discipline.

This stage is essential, as spiritual adolescence is where many either grow into maturity or remain limited in their effectiveness.

Through guided teaching, personal reflection, and practical application, this module establishes the internal strength and stability required for disciples to carry Kingdom responsibility, influence others, and walk consistently in their God-given purpose.

Session 1: Power of Praise and Worship

A Spirit, Soul, and Body Response to God

Session Intent

This session establishes praise and worship as foundational disciplines that shape godly character.

The coach is to help disciples understand that worship is not limited to music or church gatherings; it is a whole-person response, spirit, soul, and body aligned before God. Worship becomes both identity and lifestyle.

Worship as Priority

The session begins by grounding worship in identity. All creation is called to worship, but redeemed believers carry a distinct calling as those brought out of darkness into light.

Worship is not optional; it defines who they are. The coach should lead disciples to see praise as flowing from their redeemed position in Christ.

Worship as Encounter

Praise is presented as the pathway into God's manifest presence. When God's people worship, He responds. This session helps disciples understand that worship is relational, God meets with those who honour Him.

The goal is expectancy:
worship is not ritual,
but encounter.

Worship as Victory

Praise is also revealed as a spiritual weapon. Worship aligns believers with heaven's authority, releases victory and positions them to hear God clearly.

The coach should emphasise that praise often precedes breakthrough.

Worship as Transformation

As believers behold the Lord, they are transformed. Worship shape's identity and forms character. This session connects praise directly to spiritual maturity and inward change.

Praise and Worship Defined

Praise expresses honour outwardly, celebration, thanksgiving, and vocal declaration. Worship expresses surrender inwardly, reverence, humility, and submission. Both engage the whole person, including physical expression.

Intended Outcome Disciples leave understanding that praise and worship are not occasional activities, but a daily lifestyle that cultivates intimacy with God, releases spiritual authority, and forms Christlike character—strengthening both personal devotion and their witness in the marketplace.

Session 2: Talking With God – Prayer

Session Intent—Prayer as Relationship, Not Religion

This session establishes prayer as the foundation of godly character. Its primary intent is to shift the disciple's mindset from seeing prayer as a religious obligation to embracing it as a living, daily relationship with God.

Prayer is presented as ongoing conversation—honest speaking, attentive listening, and confident trust in a loving Father.

God's Invitation to Seek Him

Prayer begins with God's initiative. Scripture reveals that He desires to be sought and promises to be found.

The disciple must understand that access to God is relational, not earned. Prayer flows from response to His invitation, not from human striving.

Learning from Jesus

Jesus removes performance and pressure from prayer. He teaches simplicity, humility, and childlike trust.

Prayer is not about impressing others or using many words; it is about sincerity and dependence.

This session helps disciples release fear and religious formality, replacing them with authenticity and confidence.

Boldness and Confidence Before God

Believers are invited to approach God boldly because of grace. God is revealed as a good Father who hears, responds, guides, and provides.

Disciples are taught to ask, to align with God's will, and to persist in faith-filled prayer.

The Role of the Holy Spirit

Prayer is sustained by the Spirit's help. Disciples learn that when words fail, the Spirit strengthens and aligns the heart with God's purposes.

Prayer becomes Spirit-led rather than self-driven.

Developing Practical Habits

The session encourages journaling, reflection, and learning to recognise how God speaks—through Scripture, inward prompting, peace, counsel, and confirmation.

Prayer is connected to peace, as surrendered requests guard the heart and mind.

Vision for Coaches

Coaches model a lifestyle of prayer, not just teach it.

They demonstrate authenticity, consistency, and dependence on God in both personal devotion and group settings.

Their role is to gently guide disciples out of religious routine and into relational connection, helping them build confidence in hearing God and responding in faith.

Vision for Disciples in the Marketplace

Disciples carry a lifestyle of prayer into everyday life, recognising that communion with God is not confined to a moment but woven throughout the day.

In the marketplace, prayer becomes the source of wisdom, discernment, and peace, shaping decisions, influencing relationships, and releasing Kingdom perspective into their sphere of influence.

Intended Outcome

The goal is for the disciple to establish a consistent, confident, Spirit-led prayer life.

From this place of communion with God, character is strengthened, discernment grows, and Kingdom influence flows into everyday life.

Session 3: Power of Possessions

Session Intent—Forming Character in the Area of Provision

This session addresses the disciple's inner relationship with money, possessions, and provision. The central issue is not how much a person owns, but who or what governs the heart.

Possessions are neutral; the spiritual danger arises when they become a source of identity, security, or control.

The intent of this session is to expose subtle dependencies and re-establish God as the true Provider. Disciples are guided to move from self-reliance to surrendered trust.

Lordship and Allegiance

Jesus' teaching in Matthew 6:24 establishes the foundational principle: no one can serve two masters. Money competes for allegiance when it becomes a functional saviour.

This session helps disciples examine who truly directs their decisions, priorities, and sense of security.

The goal is clarity; God alone must occupy the throne of the heart.

The Illusion of Self-Sufficiency

Through Luke 12 and related passages, disciples confront the danger of trusting accumulation rather than God.

Self-sufficiency appears wise but quietly replaces faith with control.

Covetousness and accumulation-driven living distort spiritual perspective.

The session aims to reveal that control is not security; trust is.

Fear, Worry, and Financial Anxiety

Matthew 6:25–34 exposes worry as misplaced responsibility. Anxiety over provision divides the mind and shifts trust away from God's care.

The purpose here is to cultivate rest, seeking God first and allowing provision to flow from alignment rather than striving.

Wealth, Poverty, and Attachment

Whether in abundance or lack, the heart can become distracted.

The rich young ruler demonstrates that attachment, not wealth itself, is the barrier to surrender. Poverty can also produce anxiety and unhealthy striving.

The objective is freedom from both pride and fear.

Stewardship and Responsibility

Scripture teaches wise management, integrity, and faithfulness in handling resources. Debt, mismanagement, and the love of money undermine freedom.

Disciples are called to responsible stewardship—giving, saving, planning, and living with contentment. Wealth is presented as a tool entrusted by God to advance His purposes.

Contentment and Christ as the Source

Paul's testimony in Philippians 4 reveals that true strength is found in Christ, not circumstance. Contentment reflects mature trust.

The session ultimately forms godly character marked by surrender, generosity, rest, and unwavering confidence in God as the Source.

Vision for Coaches

Coaches are called to do more than model a disciplined life,they are to demonstrate the power of rightly ordered possessions as evidence of a heart fully aligned under God's Lordship.

Their role is to make visible what it looks like when God is truly the Source:

decisions shaped by trust—not pressure stewardship marked by wisdom—not control peace— that is not dependent on financial circumstance

Coaches intentionally lead disciples into revelation, not imitation.

They help uncover hidden dependencies—where money, security, or accumulation may be quietly governing the heart and guide disciples into a place of surrendered trust.

This requires spiritual discernment and pastoral sensitivity, especially in areas where fear, identity, or past experiences have shaped financial thinking.

The aim is not to produce disciplined managers of money, but disciples whose allegiance has shifted, where God alone defines security, direction, and provision.

From this place, generosity, contentment, and wise stewardship naturally flow.

Vision for Disciples in the Marketplace

Disciples begin to see the marketplace not as a source of provision, but as a God-ordained environment of stewardship and assignment.

Work, income, and resources are no longer viewed as personal security, but as tools entrusted by God for His purposes.

They operate with a different internal posture:

- ✕ no longer driven by fear, scarcity, or comparison
- ✕ no longer building identity through accumulation
- ✕ no longer making decisions to maintain control

Instead, they live and function from trust in God as their Source, allowing faith, obedience, and wisdom to shape every financial and practical decision.

This produces a distinct expression in the marketplace a life marked by integrity, generosity, contentment, and quiet authority.

Through this, disciples become visible witnesses of a higher Kingdom reality, influencing their environments not just by what they say, but by how they live, steward, and give.

Intended Outcome

Disciples leave with a deep internal realignment in their relationship with money and possessions.

They no longer look to resources for security, identity, or control, but recognise God alone as their true Source and Provider.

This results in:

- ✓ freedom from financial fear and striving
- ✓ release from the need to control outcomes
- ✓ clarity in decision-making rooted in trust and obedience
- ✓ a growing capacity for generosity and Kingdom stewardship

Ultimately, the disciple walks in peace, alignment, and authority, demonstrating through their life that provision is not something they create, but something they steward under God's Lordship.

A lifestyle of stewardship, generosity, and contentment is established, empowering them to function with peace and clarity in both seasons of abundance and lack.

This produces believers who carry financial integrity, Kingdom influence, and unwavering trust in God within the marketplace and beyond.

Session 4: Power of Giving

Session Intent

This session establishes that giving is not primarily financial, it is spiritual formation.

The aim is to shape the disciple's heart, so generosity becomes a reflection of God's character, not a religious duty.

Giving is presented as worship, stewardship, and Kingdom partnership

Christian Liberality

The session begins with the example of the early church, where believers gave voluntarily, proportionately, and relationally. Giving flowed from love and unity, not pressure.

The coach's task is to help disciples see that generosity is a natural outcome of spiritual life and gratitude for grace received.

The Heart Before the Gift

True liberality begins with surrender. Disciples first give themselves to the Lord; resources follow. The emphasis is that God measures willingness before amount.

The coach should ensure disciples understand that generosity is rooted in consecration, not compulsion.

Planned and Proportionate Giving

Giving is to be intentional, prayerful, and wise. Scripture encourages setting aside resources regularly and giving from what one has, not from what one does not have.

The purpose here is to build disciplined, sustainable generosity. The coach guides disciples toward maturity, faith expressed through order, integrity, and accountability.

The Harvest Principle

Giving is likened to sowing seed. It is not loss but participation in God's economy. The session helps disciples grasp that generosity produces thanksgiving, righteousness, and spiritual fruit.

The goal is to develop confidence in God as Provider.

Partnership and Responsibility

The teaching expands generosity beyond offerings, supporting leaders, caring for the poor, strengthening believers, and advancing mission.

Disciples learn they are stewards, not owners. Everything belongs to God; faithfulness is required.

Radical Transformation

The session concludes by presenting giving as evidence of inner change, from taking to imparting.

The coach's role is to anchor disciples in joyful obedience, helping them embrace generosity as a lifestyle that glorifies God and advances His Kingdom purposes.

Vision for Coaches

Coaches model generosity as a lifestyle that flows from surrender, not obligation.

Their role is to demonstrate that giving is first a matter of the heart, an overflow of devotion, trust, and alignment with God as Provider.

Through their example, they help disciples move beyond transactional giving into relational stewardship, where generosity is expressed with joy, intentionality, and spiritual understanding.

The coach is not forming behaviour alone but cultivating conviction, anchoring disciples in a life where giving reflects worship and partnership with God.

Vision for Disciples in the Marketplace

Disciples operate in everyday life with a transformed perspective on resources, recognising that all provision comes from God and is entrusted to them for His purposes.

In their workplaces, businesses, and spheres of influence, they express generosity through integrity, compassion, and responsibility, supporting others, strengthening the Body, and advancing Kingdom mission.

Giving becomes a natural outworking of their faith, reflecting a heart that is free from fear, rooted in trust, and aligned with God's economy.

Intended Outcome

Disciples leave with a renewed understanding that giving is an expression of worship, surrender, and partnership with God.

Generosity becomes established as a consistent lifestyle, flowing from a transformed heart, guided by wisdom and intentionality, and producing spiritual fruit that honours God and strengthens His Kingdom.

Session 5: Power of Words

Session Intent

As disciples transition into spiritual adolescence within Module 2, the focus shifts from external behaviours to internal formation. Having addressed the heart's relationship with possessions, this session now exposes the next layer of character, speech.

Words reveal what possessions cannot: the true condition of the heart under pressure, influence, and daily interaction.

This session establishes that maturity is not measured by what a disciple owns or relinquishes, but by what consistently flows from within. Here, character becomes audible.

This session is designed to awaken disciples to the spiritual weight of speech.

Words are not casual expressions; they reveal the heart, shape environments, influence relationships, and align a person either with faith or fear.

The goal is to move the disciple from careless communication to intentional, Spirit-governed speech.

The coach helps the disciple recognise that speech is a matter of character, not personality.

What flows from the mouth exposes inner belief systems. Transformation therefore begins in the heart and is expressed through disciplined words.

Life and Death in the Tongue

Drawing from Proverbs and James, this session establishes that words carry consequence. Scripture presents the tongue as small yet powerful, capable of blessing or destruction. Harsh speech wounds deeply; faith-filled speech builds, strengthens, and directs.

The intent is not to produce silence, but stewardship.

The disciple must accept responsibility for the fruit their words produce.

God's Model of Creative Speech

Creation began with "God said." Throughout redemptive history, God declared promise before manifestation. His repeated words built expectation and faith.

The coach emphasises that disciples are called to align their speech with God's Word. Speaking truth establishes stability and reinforces covenant confidence, especially before visible change occurs.

The Power of Agreement

The contrasting reports in Numbers reveal how speech shapes destiny. One group magnified obstacles; another magnified God. The outcome followed the confession.

This section teaches that repeated negative declaration can limit participation in God's promises. Words align the heart either with fear or faith.

Renewed Speech, Renewed Life

Transformation includes replacing corrupt communication with grace-imparting speech. Complaining, slander, and bitterness resist God's purposes, while faith expresses itself verbally.

The session concludes with practical steps: repent of harmful words, renounce agreement with lies, break destructive patterns, and intentionally speak blessing and Scripture.

Vision for Coaches

The coach models disciplined, life-giving speech in every interaction. This session is not merely taught—it is demonstrated.

Coaches guide disciples to recognise speech patterns, trace them back to underlying beliefs, and bring those areas into alignment with truth.

The aim is to develop awareness and accountability, helping disciples move beyond theory into transformation, where their words consistently reflect a renewed heart and a Christ-centred perspective.

Vision for Disciples in the Marketplace

Disciples carry the power of their words into every environment—homes, workplaces, and spheres of influence. Speech becomes a tool of leadership, influence, and spiritual authority.

In the marketplace, faith-aligned words shift atmospheres, strengthen teams, bring clarity in uncertainty, and release encouragement where there is pressure or fear.

Rather than participating in negativity, complaint, or compromise, disciples become steady voices of truth, wisdom, and faith, reflecting Christ through how they speak, lead, and respond.

Intended Outcome

By the end of this session, the disciple understands that words are spiritual instruments. They commit to disciplined, faith-aligned speech that reflects Christ's character and advances God's purposes in every sphere of life.

Session 6: Power of Parenthood

Session Intent—The Divine Stewardship of Parenthood

This session establishes parenthood as a sacred trust rather than a personal right.

Parenting is presented as spiritual stewardship, an assignment through which God shapes character, transmits faith, and advances His purposes generationally.

Coaches are to help disciples see that children belong first to God and carry divine design and destiny. The intent is to elevate parenting from cultural function to Kingdom responsibility.

Marriage as the Foundation

Healthy parenting flows from honour-filled marriage. Unity between husband and wife creates spiritual stability and authority within the home. When marriage reflects mutual respect and shared grace, children flourish in security.

Coaches guide disciples to understand that strong marriages build strong families.

The Value and Purpose of Every Child

Each child is intentionally formed by God and entrusted to parents for nurturing and direction. Children are described as heritage and arrows, designed to be shaped and released with purpose.

This session calls parents to see beyond behaviour management and recognise their role in shaping future leaders.

Influence Through Example

Children learn primarily through observation. Faith is transmitted through daily life, consistent example, and intentional conversation.

Parenting requires both nurture and correction, modelling God's love and authority. The goal is to form conscience and character through lived example.

Obedience and Discipline

Obedience trains the heart toward humility and order. Discipline, when rooted in love, produces maturity and righteousness. It is not punishment, but intentional correction aimed at heart transformation.

Timely, measured, and restorative discipline protects destiny and builds long-term stability.

Vision for Coaches

The coach is to carry this session with pastoral sensitivity, wisdom, and spiritual discernment, recognising that every disciple will be at a different stage of life.

Some will be actively raising children, some will be reflecting on how they have raised their children, and others will be preparing for a future they have not yet stepped into.

The goal is not comparison or judgment, but alignment with God's design.

Coaches must create a safe environment where truth brings clarity without condemnation.

Where there has been misalignment in the past, this session is to bring conviction, revelation, and hope, not shame.

For those who feel regret, the coach helps them see that God redeems every story. Their journey becomes a testimony that can strengthen and guide others.

For those currently raising children, the coach brings realignment and practical clarity. For those yet to have children, the coach helps establish a strong biblical foundation for the future.

The coach's role is to consistently point back to God's heart—restorative, purposeful, and generational, while reinforcing that transformation is always forward-moving.

Vision for Disciples

This session calls every disciple into a biblical understanding of parenthood, regardless of their current life stage.

It establishes that God's design for raising children is intentional, relational, and rooted in truth.

For those who have raised children, this is an opportunity for reflection without condemnation. Where there has been misalignment, the Holy Spirit brings conviction and healing, not guilt.

Their life experience becomes a powerful tool, able to guide, disciple, and influence the next generation, whether through their own family, grandchildren, or others entrusted to them.

For those currently raising children, this session brings alignment. It provides clarity and confidence to parent according to biblical principles, shaping both character and destiny in the lives of their children.

For those yet to have children, this establishes a clear and healthy framework before responsibility comes.

It builds understanding so that future parenting is approached with wisdom, intention, and a Kingdom perspective.

Every disciple begins to see that parenthood is not accidental or cultural, it is a God-given assignment that shapes generations.

Intended Outcome

By the end of this session, the disciple understands that parenthood is a God-ordained responsibility designed to shape lives, establish truth, and influence future generations.

Those who have raised children gain peace, perspective, and a renewed sense of purpose, recognising that God can redeem and use their story.

Those raising children are realigned with biblical principles and strengthened in their role. Those yet to have children are equipped with clarity and understanding for the future.

The session produces not condemnation, but conviction, restoration, and forward movement.

It establishes confidence in God's design and a renewed commitment to steward the next generation according to His ways.

Session 7: Power of Integrity

Session Intent—Foundation of Integrity

This session establishes integrity as inner wholeness before God, where belief, speech, and behaviour are aligned. Integrity is not image management but covenant consistency.

The coach guides disciples to understand that integrity protects destiny, sustains leadership, and preserves influence. Without integrity, gifting eventually collapses under pressure.

Formation Years and Foundational Instruction

Integrity is formed early through instruction, correction, and honouring authority.

The session highlights the importance of receiving wisdom, especially in formative years, as a safeguard against moral drift.

Disciples are challenged to value godly counsel and recognise that honour releases stability and blessing across generations.

Establishing Biblical Values

Values are never neutral. If they are not shaped by Scripture, they will be shaped by culture. This session helps disciples intentionally form convictions rooted in God's Word rather than adopting society's shifting standards. Integrity begins with clear internal values anchored in truth.

Integrity in Thought and Speech

Integrity governs both the unseen life of the mind and the visible life of communication. Disciples are taught that thought life shapes behaviour and destiny.

Mental discipline, purity of meditation, and truthful speech are presented as daily practices that strengthen credibility and spiritual authority.

Resisting Lawlessness and Cultural Deception

The session contrasts society's definition of freedom with God's design for freedom. Cultural rebellion weakens love and destabilises character.

Disciples are equipped to discern deceptive systems and remain anchored in biblical truth rather than emotional or cultural pressure.

Submission and Heart Transformation

True integrity flows from humility and submission under God's authority. It is empowered by inward transformation through the Holy Spirit, not mere self-effort. A new heart enables consistent obedience.

Vision for Coaches

Coaches model integrity as a consistent, lived reality, formed through honour, submission, and alignment with God's Word.

They lead disciples beyond outward behaviour into disciplined thought life, clear biblical values, and resistance to cultural compromise.

Their role is to cultivate integrity that is sustained by conviction and inward transformation, producing lives that remain steady, accountable, and responsive to God in every area.

Vision for disciples and the Marketplace

The disciple embraces integrity as a lifelong covenant commitment, governing thoughts, speech, relationships, leadership, and submission, reflecting God's character in both private devotion and public influence, including consistent, trustworthy witness in the marketplace.

Session 8: Power of Purity

Session Intent

This session establishes purity as foundational to spiritual authority and Kingdom effectiveness. Purity is presented not as repression, but as power rightly governed under God's design.

Sexual morality is rooted in creation, affirmed by Christ, and sustained by the indwelling Holy Spirit.

The coach leads disciples to understand that compromise in this area weakens influence, clouds discernment, and disrupts covenant relationships.

At the same time, the session clearly communicates redemption and restoration for all who genuinely repent.

The Body as God's Temple

Scripture teaches that the believer's body is the temple of the Holy Spirit (1 Corinthians 6:19–20). Salvation transfers ownership; stewardship begins. Sexual sin is not merely personal failure, it is desecration of what belongs to God.

The purpose is to cultivate reverence, responsibility, and conscious surrender in how the disciple views their body.

Resurrection and Eternal Perspective

The body has eternal significance (1 Corinthians 6:13–14; Philippians 3:21). Future resurrection shapes present discipline. What God intends to glorify must not be treated casually.

Purity is framed as preparation for eternity, not simply moral compliance.

Moral Confusion and Its Root

Romans 1 reveals that moral decay flows from rejecting God's authority. Distorted worship produces distorted sexuality.

All sexual activity outside biblical marriage is identified as sin, yet no one is beyond the reach of grace.

The coach maintains conviction without condemnation—clarity joined with compassion.

Forgiveness and Practical Pursuit

1 Corinthians 6:9–11 establishes both transformation and new identity. Disciples are not defined by past patterns, but by what Christ has accomplished. From this place, they are called to actively flee temptation and pursue righteousness (2 Timothy 2:22).

Purity is strengthened through intentional choices, guarding thought life, establishing clear boundaries, and removing access to compromise.

Areas such as pornography, modesty, relational integrity, and faithfulness within marriage are addressed with both clarity and practical wisdom.

The aim is not behaviour management, but disciplined stewardship of life under the Holy Spirit, forming consistency that protects spiritual authority and sustains long-term Kingdom impact.

Vision for Coaches

Coaches model purity as a life of surrendered authority, where desires, decisions, and relationships are brought under the Lordship of Christ.

They demonstrate that purity is not restriction, but strength governed by truth and sustained by the Holy Spirit.

Their role is to lead disciples beyond surface behaviour into deep heart transformation, addressing thought life, hidden compromises, and cultural influences that distort God's design.

Coaches create an environment of both conviction and safety, where truth is upheld without compromise, and restoration is consistently made available through repentance and grace.

They equip disciples with practical wisdom, accountability, and spiritual discipline, ensuring purity is not treated as a one-time decision, but as a lifelong posture that protects calling, preserves authority, and sustains influence.

Vision for Disciples in the Marketplace

The disciple embraces purity as a governing conviction that shapes identity, relationships, and decision-making across every sphere of life. Integrity in private becomes credibility in public.

In the marketplace, purity establishes clarity of thought, strength of character, and trustworthiness in leadership.

The disciple is not driven by impulse, pressure, or cultural norms, but by a settled conviction rooted in God's design.

- ✓ Relationships are approached with honour,
- ✓ Boundaries are maintained with wisdom,
- ✓ Influence is carried without compromise.

As a result, the disciple becomes a stabilising presence, able to lead, build, and influence with authority that is not diminished by hidden inconsistency.

Purity protects their witness, strengthens their discernment, and positions them to carry Kingdom responsibility in environments where moral clarity is often absent.

Intended Outcome

The disciple embraces holiness, receives forgiveness where needed, and commits to stewarding body and sexuality according to biblical truth, understanding that purity safeguards spiritual authority and lasting Kingdom impact.

Session 9: Power of a Godly Family

Session Intent

This session establishes God's design for the family as central to discipleship and Kingdom influence.

The coach helps disciples understand that family is the primary environment where character is shaped, faith is modelled, and generational legacy is formed.

A godly family reflects covenant love, spiritual order, and moral clarity in a confused culture.

Marriage as Covenant Foundation

Marriage is presented as a covenant, not a contract. "Leave and cleave" forms a new primary loyalty and lifelong union.

The session clarifies mutual submission, servant leadership, respect, honour, and sacrificial love. Biblical headship is defined as responsibility under Christ, not control.

The aim is to form disciples who approach marriage with seriousness, intentionality, and spiritual maturity.

Guarding the Heart in Marriage

Divorce is addressed with biblical balance. God's design is permanence, yet Scripture recognises covenant violations such as adultery, abandonment, and serious harm.

The deeper issue behind most breakdown is hardness of heart. Disciples are taught to guard tenderness through forgiveness, gratitude, humility, and prayer.

Strong marriages are built internally before they are seen externally.

Parenting as Kingdom Stewardship

Children are described as heritage and assignment. Parenting is not incidental; it is generational investment.

The home becomes a training ground for destiny, shaping future leaders who will influence church, community, and marketplace.

Single parents and those in spiritually mixed marriages are strengthened with hope and assurance of God's sustaining grace.

Sanctity of Life and Moral Clarity

Life is affirmed as beginning at conception and sacred before God. Abortion is addressed with moral clarity while extending the hope of repentance, forgiveness, and restoration through Christ.

Vision for Coaches

Coaches model and uphold God's design for family with clarity, compassion, and conviction.

They guide disciples to build strong relational foundations, address brokenness without condemnation, and establish homes that reflect Christ's leadership, love, and truth across generations.

Vision for Disciples in the Marketplace

Disciples carry the strength and stability of a godly family into every sphere of life.

Their marriages, parenting, and relational conduct become a visible testimony, demonstrating integrity, covenant faithfulness, and generational thinking that influences workplace culture and community life.

Intended Outcome

By the end of this session, the disciple values marriage as lifelong covenant, understands biblical family order, guards' relational unity, honours the sanctity of life, and commits to building a generational Christian heritage that advances God's purposes.

From Revelation to Freedom

Recognising the Work of the Holy Spirit

As this module on the Power of Godly Character comes to a close, it is important to recognise what the Holy Spirit has been faithfully doing in each life.

Through these sessions, light has been brought to areas of the heart, patterns of thinking, and ways of living that may not have previously been seen.

Conviction Without Condemnation

This is not to produce condemnation, but conviction, God's loving invitation to alignment. Conviction reveals with purpose; it does not shame, but calls forward into truth, freedom, and maturity.

Different Seasons, Same Invitation

For some, this awareness may touch decisions made in earlier years. For others, it may relate to present responsibilities, marriage, parenting, relationships, or personal integrity.

Each person stands in a different season of life, yet the invitation is the same: to respond to what God has revealed with humility and faith.

Grace for Restoration and Realignment

Nothing uncovered in this process is beyond God's grace or His ability to restore, strengthen, and realign for His purposes.

Preparation for The Second Freedom Event

The areas that have surfaced are not meant to be carried alone or resolved through human effort. They have been intentionally brought to the surface in preparation for Encounter 2.

Moving Into a Season of Freedom

The next section will walk through the Second Freedom Event in detail, providing clear guidance on how these revealed areas will be addressed in a structured, Spirit-led environment, where healing, restoration, and true freedom are intentionally pursued.

The Second Freedom Event

(Purpose & Intent Overview – Progressive Continuation of Freedom Event One)

The Second Freedom Event builds directly upon the foundation established in Freedom Event One.

Where The First Freedom Event established the Cross as the disciple's legal foundation for freedom and covenant identity,

The Second Freedom Event deepens the work of character transformation and closes remaining areas of spiritual vulnerability.

This is not a separate event with a new philosophy. It is the continuation and strengthening of the same Christ-centred freedom model already outlined.

All structural, environmental, team, and procedural guidelines remain consistent with The First Freedom Event unless otherwise specified.

Deepening the Work of the Cross

The Second Freedom Event maintains the same Cross-centred emphasis.

- ✓ Communion remains central.
- ✓ Repentance remains intentional.
- ✓ Ministry remains supervised, orderly, and confidential.

However, the focus now shifts toward deeper character refinement and long-term spiritual authority.

If Event One removed major blockages, Event Two addresses entrenched patterns.

Repentance, Renunciation and Deliverance

(Core Retained Section)

This section must be retained in full strength because it is the operational heart of the weekend.

The Second Freedom Event specifically addresses:

- ✓ Power of Offence
- ✓ Power of Words
- ✓ Power of Integrity
- ✓ Power of Possessions
- ✓ House Cleaning
- ✓ Power of Giving
- ✓ Power of Purity and Soul Ties
- ✓ Ahab and Jezebel spirit
- ✓ Anger, Rage and Violence

Each area follows the established The First Freedom Event ministry pattern:

- ✓ Biblical teaching
- ✓ Identification of spiritual roots
- ✓ Personal repentance
- ✓ Renunciation of agreement
- ✓ Prayer ministry at the Cross
- ✓ Supervised deliverance where required

The goal remains consistent:

Not emotional intensity — but legal spiritual alignment.
Not reaction — but restoration.
Not chaos — but ordered authority.

The Second Freedom Event assumes disciples understand repentance. Now they must exercise it with maturity and conviction.

Team-Based Ministry (Reference Model)

The same prayer team structure, leadership oversight, and ministry ratios outlined in The First Freedom Event apply here.

Unity, authority, and spiritual accountability remain non-negotiable.
The Second Freedom Event does not reinvent the model — it reinforces it.

Covenant Strengthening and Empowerment

If The First Freedom Event marked transition, The Second Freedom Event strengthens stability.

The emphasis is no longer only deliverance, but:

- ✓ Character consolidation
- ✓ Authority reinforcement
- ✓ Leadership preparation
- ✓ Sustained obedience

The disciple is not merely freed — they are being formed.

Overall Intent of The Second Freedom Event

The Second Freedom Event is designed to:

- ✓ Consolidate the freedom established in Event One
- ✓ Address deeper character strongholds
- ✓ Strengthen spiritual authority
- ✓ Close remaining legal ground
- ✓ Mature the disciple into disciplined obedience
- ✓ Prepare emerging leaders for reproducible ministry

Freedom is not episodic. It is developmental.

The First Freedom Event ignites breakthrough. — The Second Freedom Event establishes endurance.

Established in Christ — The Foundation Laid

This first part of the journey has established the essential foundations of 101 discipleship.

What has been walked through is not merely teaching, but transformation, realigning the heart, renewing the mind, and forming godly character under the Lordship of Christ.

These sessions have addressed the core areas of life where truth must take root, bringing clarity, conviction, and stability.

This is the strength of what has been built, an anchored life.

No longer shaped by past patterns or external influences, but grounded in truth, able to stand, grow, and walk forward with increasing confidence in God.

This is 101 Discipleship: - a life established in Christ, prepared for what comes next.

SENT WITH PURPOSE
THE SOCIETAL REFORMATION JOURNEY

Discipleship now moves forward into its intended expression. Jesus did not call people simply to follow, but to be formed and then sent, “go and make disciples.”

This next phase is the Societal Reformation Journey, where what has been established begins to be lived out with purpose, authority, and direction.

What has been formed internally now finds its expression outwardly, through lives that are aligned with God’s design and committed to His mission.

In this stage, clarity is established in identity, calling, and assignment.

Each person begins to recognise what God has already written in their book, as revealed in Psalm 139:16, discovering their design, their purpose, and their place within His greater plan.

Spiritual gifts are recognised and developed, and faith is expressed not only through personal growth, but through discipling others and bringing Kingdom influence into every sphere of life.

This is the continuation of the journey, from being grounded to becoming fruitful, and from transformation to reformation.

Here, discipleship becomes multiplication.

Lives are raised up that not only grow in Christ but actively advance His mission, strengthening others, establishing truth, and carrying influence into families, communities, workplaces, and nations.

Through this, individuals step fully into their role as agents of societal reformation, bringing alignment, restoration, and Kingdom order wherever they are sent.

STEP 6: MODULE THREE – WHO AM I?

Who Am I — Identity, Design, and Assignment

Having been established in Christ and grounded in truth, the journey now moves into a more intentional place of discovery.

This module leads participants beyond foundational truth and into clarity around who they are, how they are designed, and where they are called to function.

This is not about adding more information. It is about uncovering what God has already placed within each person and bringing clarity to how that is to be expressed in everyday life.

The focus of this module is identity with purpose.

Participants are not only anchored in who they are in Christ but are now guided to recognise how their unique design connects to their future direction and assignment.

Throughout this module, individuals are led through key areas of identification.

This includes discovering God-given design, motivational gifts, spiritual capacity, and personal wiring, all of which point toward purpose.

As these areas come into focus, confusion begins to lift and a clearer sense of direction emerges.

A central emphasis is the understanding that every believer is called to be a societal reformer, someone who carries a biblical worldview into their sphere of influence.

However, this calling is expressed uniquely in each life. This module helps bring clarity to where that influence is to be applied, often described as identifying the "mountain" or sphere of society each person is called to engage with.

Through this process, participants are guided to:

- ✓ Identify their primary areas of influence and assignment.
- ✓ Recognise their unique combination of gifts and strengths.
- ✓ Understand how their life experiences and passions align with purpose.
- ✓ Gain clarity on where and how they are called to bring Kingdom influence.

This module is intentionally interactive and discovery-based, creating space for reflection, insight, and alignment.

What may have previously felt unclear or fragmented begins to come together with increasing clarity.

The outcome is not simply greater self-awareness, but purposeful positioning, a growing confidence in who God has called each person to be, where they are called to stand, and how they are to move forward as contributors to transformation within society.

This is where discipleship begins to take on visible expression, moving from being established in Christ to functioning with purpose and intentional influence.

Session 1: The Government of God

Session Intent

This session establishes the disciple in the covenantal reality that the ecclesia is God's governing assembly on earth, seated with Christ and participating in His throne administration.

Salvation is not merely forgiveness of sin. It is covenantal relocation into a Kingdom. Through union with Christ, the disciple is positioned within divine government and entrusted with responsibility in the earth.

This session shifts the disciple from passive belief to governmental awareness, from private faith to public stewardship.

Christian Training Centres exist as practical expressions of this Kingdom government.

They are environments where disciples are formed in identity, equipped in spiritual maturity, and prepared to exercise Christ's authority faithfully within their families, workplaces, communities, and spheres of influence.

As disciples mature, the government of God becomes visible wherever they live, serve, and lead.

Desired Outcome for the Disciple

By the end of this session, the disciple will:

- ✓ Understand the Kingdom as a covenant government under an enthroned King.
- ✓ Recognise the ecclesia as Heaven's governing assembly.
- ✓ See themselves as seated with Christ in delegated authority.
- ✓ Embrace assigned jurisdiction within society.
- ✓ Understand calling and gifts as instruments of Kingdom administration.
- ✓ Carry sober conviction regarding cultural responsibility.

The Throne — The Centre of All Government

Before there was a church, there was a throne.

(Ps 103:19) The Lord has established His throne in heaven, and His Kingdom rules over all.
(Rev 4:2) Behold, a throne set in heaven, and One sat on the throne.

The Kingdom of God is not symbolic language, it is sovereign administration under an enthroned King, (Matt 6:10) Your Kingdom come. Your will be done on earth as it is in heaven.

This prayer is governmental in nature. It is the manifestation of Heaven's order within earthly systems. All true authority begins with recognising the throne.

Covenant — The Legal Basis of Participation

Authority in Scripture flows through covenant, (Luke 22:29) "I bestow upon you a Kingdom, just as My Father bestowed one upon Me."

The language is covenantal, the conferring of royal authority, (Heb 8:6) We are partakers of a better covenant, established on better promises.

Through the blood of Christ, we are legally positioned within His Kingdom order, Covenant establishes belonging, Belonging establishes authority, Authority establishes responsibility.

We govern because we are in covenant with the King.

Ecclesia — The King's Governing Assembly

(Matt 16:18) I will build My ecclesia, (Eph 3:10) Through the ecclesia the manifold wisdom of God is made known to rulers and authorities.

The ecclesia is not merely a gathering. It is the assembly summoned by the King to administer His will in the earth. The church (ecclesia) exists because of the Kingdom.

(Col 1:13) He has delivered us from the power of darkness and conveyed us into the Kingdom of the Son. Salvation is a transfer of jurisdiction.

The disciple must understand we are not religious spectators. We are covenant representatives.

Seated With Christ — Throne Participation

(Eph 2:6) He raised us up together and made us sit together in heavenly places in Christ Jesus.
(Rev 3:21) To him who overcomes I will grant to sit with Me on My throne.
(Col 2:10) He is the Head of all principality and power.

Seating is throne language—We do not operate independently.

- ✓ We operate in Christ.
- ✓ Authority flows from union.
- ✓ Delegation flows from submission.

Participation in government requires alignment with the Head.

Binding and Loosing — Covenant Judiciary

(Matt 18:18) Whatever you bind on earth will be bound in heaven.
(Matt 18:20) Where two or three are gathered in My Name, I am there in the midst.

This is judicial language. To gather in His Name means to gather under His authority and in alignment with His will. (Job 22:28) You will decree a thing, and it will be established.

Agreement in Christ is not symbolic prayer,

it is covenant representation; The ecclesia legislates on earth what Heaven has authorised.

Assigned Jurisdiction Within Society

(Eph 2:10) We are His workmanship, created for good works prepared beforehand.
(Psa 37:23) The steps of the righteous are ordered by the Lord.

Government requires placement.

Every disciple carries assigned jurisdiction within society:

- ✓ Family
- ✓ Education
- ✓ Government
- ✓ Media
- ✓ Business and economics
- ✓ Arts and entertainment
- ✓ Religion

These spheres are not secular territories. They are areas awaiting Kingdom alignment. Jurisdiction is stewardship, not ownership.\

The Seven Mountains — Stewardship, Not Domination

Mountains in Scripture represent places of authority, (Ps 24:3) Who may ascend into the hill of the Lord? The language of cultural mountains reflects areas where decisions shape nations.

The goal is not conquest. It is reformation.
Reformation means:

- ✓ Restoring righteousness
- ✓ Aligning systems with justice
- ✓ Reflecting God's wisdom
- ✓ Establishing moral clarity

This flows from throne alignment, not personal ambition.

Gifts as Instruments of Governance

(Exo 31:3) Filled with the Spirit of God in wisdom and skill.
(1 Cor 12:7) The manifestation of the Spirit is given for the common good.

Spiritual gifts are administrative tools.

- ✓ A business leader governs ethically.
- ✓ An educator shapes worldview.
- ✓ A civic leader establishes justice.
- ✓ A parent forms generational culture.
- ✓ Calling determines placement.
- ✓ Gifts determine function.
- ✓ Character determines sustainability.

Biblical Models of Governmental Reform

Daniel — Throne Loyalty Within Political Power

(Dan 2:20–21) He removes kings and raises up kings.
(Dan 6:3) Daniel distinguished himself because an excellent spirit was in him.

Daniel functioned within Babylon's political system without compromising covenant identity—His influence flowed from prayer (Dan 6:10), integrity, and revelation, He governed because he first bowed.

Joseph — Administrative Wisdom Within Economic Systems

(Gen 41:39–40) You shall be over my house, Joseph administered national economic policy under Pharaoh.

He implemented strategy, managed resources, and preserved nations. Throne-aligned wisdom became marketplace governance.

Nehemiah — Rebuilding Civic Structure Through Prayer and Action

(Neh 1:4) I prayed before the God of heaven.
(Neh 2:18) The hand of my God has been good upon me.

Nehemiah combined intercession, planning, leadership, and courage. Reform followed a pattern:

Revelation → Permission → Structure → Perseverance. He rebuilt systems under covenant conviction.

Throne-Room Prayer — Participating in Government

(Heb 4:16) Let us come boldly to the throne of grace.
(Rev 8:3–4) The prayers of the saints ascend before God.

Prayer is authorised access to the throne.

Reform begins in Heaven before it manifests in society. Servant leaders receive strategy in prayer and implement it with humility.

Societal Reformers — The Character of Kingdom Government

(Matt 20:26–28) Whoever desires to become great shall be your servant.
(Rev 5:6) A Lamb as though it had been slain, standing in the midst of the throne.

The One who governs is the Lamb. Kingdom government is expressed through humility, obedience, and sacrifice.

- ✓ Authority without servanthood becomes corruption.
- ✓ Servanthood without authority becomes weakness.

The disciple must hold both truths together.

The Weight of Cultural Responsibility

We are:

- ✓ In covenant with the King
- ✓ Seated with Christ
- ✓ Part of His ecclesia
- ✓ Assigned jurisdiction
- ✓ Equipped with gifts
- ✓ Given biblical precedent

The government of God is expressed wherever covenant people administer Heaven's wisdom within earthly systems.

Servant leadership is not confined to ministry platforms. It is throne-aligned influence in every mountain of society.

Your obedience affects:

- ✓ Generations
- ✓ Systems
- ✓ Cultural direction
- ✓ Spiritual atmosphere

This calling carries weight. You are not called to observe culture. You are called to steward influence within it. This is the government of God.

But this government is not sustained by position alone. It is sustained by union. Authority without abiding becomes striving. Assignment without intimacy becomes performance.

The government of God flows from the life of God within the disciple. Before we administer His rule in the earth, we must live from His life within.

The throne we represent outwardly must first be established inwardly.

This leads us to the foundation beneath all Kingdom influence, not what we do for Christ, but what Christ lives through us.

Session 2: Life In Him

Session Intent

This session establishes the central reality of the Christian life. Life is not merely improved by Jesus—it is replaced in Jesus. Christianity is not behaviour modification; it is union with Christ.

As Scripture declares, "I have been crucified with Christ; it is no longer I who live, but Christ lives in me." (Galatians 2:20)

When a person is born again, something radical takes place. The old, independent life comes to an end, and a new life begins.

Through the Holy Spirit, Christ Himself now dwells within the believer.

Because of this, the Christian life is no longer self-owned, self-directed, or spiritually independent.

We have been joined to the Lord—one spirit with Him (1 Corinthians 6:17).

For this reason, the disciple must clearly understand the nature of their new life.

- ✓ I am a spirit made alive to God.
- ✓ I have a soul.
- ✓ I live in a body.
- ✓ And within my born-again spirit, Christ Himself now lives.

Without this revelation, disciples often strive, attempting to live the Christian life through their own strength.

But when this truth becomes clear, striving gives way to rest, and disciples begin to walk in the authority and confidence that flows from union with Christ.

The purpose of this session is therefore not merely inspiration, but identity clarity. By the end of this teaching, the disciple should be able to say with deep conviction:

"My life is not my own. Christ lives in me. My life is in Him."

Crucified and Repositioned

"I have been crucified with Christ; it is no longer I who live, but Christ lives in me…"

The disciple must understand that they were crucified with Christ, their old independent life ended, and Christ now lives in them.

This is not poetic language but a spiritual transaction that redefines identity.

The former identity shaped by sin, shame, fear, rejection, or performance has ended, and the life now lived is lived by faith in the Son of God.

The disciple is not trying to become someone new. They already are.

Identity and Existence In Him

(Acts 17:28)
"In Him we live and move and have our being…"
Life is not self-generated, and identity is not self-constructed. In Christ the disciple lives, functions, and finds their identity, recognising that life itself flows from union with Him.

When identity is anchored in Him, comparison weakens, insecurity diminishes, and confidence strengthens.

Inheritance and Divine Design

(Ephesians 1:11; Ephesians 1:9)
"In Him also we have obtained an inheritance…" (Eph 1:11)
"He made known to us the mystery of His will…" (Eph 1:9)
In Christ the disciple is God's heritage, foreordained and appointed beforehand, and their life aligns with divine design.

God works all things according to the counsel of His will, revealing that destiny is not accidental and assignment is not improvised.

The disciple begins to see life as intentional and aligned with Heaven's purpose.

Redemption and Complete Forgiveness

(Ephesians 1:7–8; Jeremiah 31:34; Romans 8:1–2)
"In Him we have redemption through His blood…" (Eph 1:7–8)
"I will forgive their iniquity…" (Jer 31:34)
"There is therefore now no condemnation…" (Rom 8:1–2)

In Him the disciple has total redemption, complete forgiveness, and the assurance that sin is remembered no more.

There is no condemnation over their life, because redemption through Christ has fully addressed the past.

Freedom is not emotional; it is legal and spiritual. Guilt loses authority, shame loses voice, and accusation loses ground.

Seated and Positioned in Authority

(Ephesians 2:6; Colossians 2:10)
"He raised us up together…" (Eph 2:6)
"You are complete in Him…" (Col 2:10)

In Christ the disciple is raised with Him, seated with Him, and made full in Him. This heavenly position establishes a new way of living where identity and authority flow from union rather than striving.

The disciple no longer lives from earthly reaction but from heavenly position, where authority flows from alignment rather than aggression.

New Creation Reality

(2 Corinthians 5:17; Ephesians 2:10)
"If anyone is in Christ, he is a new creation…" (2 Cor 5:17)
"We are His workmanship…" (Eph 2:10)

In Him the disciple is a new creation, old things have passed away, and they are God's workmanship created for His purposes.

Their identity is not determined by former experiences but by what God has created them to become in Christ.

The past no longer defines destiny, and former patterns no longer dictate assignment.

Fullness, Freedom, and Strength

(Galatians 5:1; Philippians 4:13; Philippians 2:13; 1 Corinthians 1:30)
"Stand fast… in the liberty…" (Gal 5:1)
"I can do all things through Christ…" (Phil 4:13)
"It is God who works in you…" (Phil 2:13)
"Christ has become for us wisdom…" (1 Cor 1:30)

In Him the disciple has been set free, remains free, is strengthened, and is empowered to obey. Strength and wisdom flow from Christ Himself, who works within the believer to align their desires and actions with God's purposes.

Obedience flows from empowerment, not effort.

Sonship and Belonging

(Galatians 3:26; Galatians 3:29)
"You are all sons of God…" (Gal 3:26)
"If you are Christ's… heirs according to the promise." (Gal 3:29)

In Christ the disciple is a son of God who belongs to Him and inherits covenant promises. Their relationship with God is no longer defined by distance or striving but by belonging within His family.

The disciple no longer serves to earn approval. They live from belonging.

Rooted, Built, Established

(Colossians 2:6–7)
"As you have therefore received Christ Jesus… rooted and built up in Him…"

The disciple's roots are deeply planted in Christ, and their life is continually built up in Him as faith becomes established. Growth is not sporadic or unstable but strengthened through ongoing connection with the Lord.

Stability replaces fluctuation, and faith becomes anchored.

Greater Is He In Me

(1 John 4:4)
"He who is in you is greater than he who is in the world."

In Him the disciple is of God, has overcome, and carries the greater presence of Christ within. This internal reality reshapes how challenges and pressures are perceived and faced.

Spiritual conflict does not intimidate, and cultural pressure does not destabilise.

Coach Emphasis

Encourage disciples to personalise these Scriptures, speak them aloud daily, renounce former identity agreements, and live consciously aware of union with Christ. These practices help move truth from information into lived conviction.

This is covenant declaration rooted in Scripture.

Marketplace and Societal Application

A disciple who understands life in Him leads from identity rather than insecurity and makes decisions from alignment rather than fear.

Their service flows from fullness rather than striving, allowing them to influence culture from the position of sonship.

Union produces stability — Stability produces leadership — Leadership produces reform.

Intended Outcome

By the end of this session the disciple knows their life is hidden in Christ, rejects condemnation and shame, and walks in inherited identity and authority.

They begin to operate from fullness rather than deficiency and carry stability into every sphere of influence.

They no longer say, "I am trying to live for Jesus." They say, "Christ lives in me. My life is in Him."

The Inner Foundation of Servant Leadership and Societal Influence

Before gifts are identified, before influence is activated, and before leadership is expressed, the disciple must learn how to lead from rest.

Servant leadership and the formation of a true societal reformer is not sustained by personality, gifting, or drive, but by union with Christ.

Without rest, leadership becomes performance; but with rest, leadership becomes stewardship.

From this place of abiding, influence is no longer self-driven but Spirit-led positioning the believer to carry truth, shape culture, and bring Kingdom alignment within their sphere of influence.

The following session establishes the internal posture required for Kingdom leadership, where identity is secured in Him, leadership flows from rest, and lives are shaped not only to serve, but to influence and reform with a clear biblical worldview.

Session 3: Rest In Him

Session Intent—Foundational Revelation

This session establishes that sustainable servant leadership and societal reformation flows from rest, not striving. Jesus did not lead from pressure;

He led from union with the Father, demonstrating that rest is not inactivity but alignment. Servant leaders must learn to work from obedience rather than urgency.

Union Before Action

(John 5:19)
"The Son can do nothing of Himself…"

Jesus did not initiate independently but responded to what the Father was doing. Rest begins when self-effort ends and leadership becomes participation in what God is already doing.

Assignment Before Activity

(John 4:34)
"My food is to do the will of Him who sent Me…"

Jesus knew what He was sent to do and what He was not sent to do. Clarity protects rest, while confusion creates striving and unnecessary activity.

Timing Over Urgency

(John 11:5–6)
Jesus delayed going to Lazarus, showing that love did not rush and faith did not panic.

Rest trusts divine timing over emotional pressure.

The Apostolic Continuation

Jesus' pattern did not end with Him but was reproduced through the Holy Spirit in the lives of the apostles and the early church.

Waiting Before Working

(Luke 24:49; Acts 1:14)
The apostles waited in prayer before ministry, understanding that rest precedes power and waiting precedes witness.

They refused to move without empowerment.

Decisions From Surrender

(Acts 1:24–26)

They prayed before appointing leadership and did not rely on debate or momentum. Rest yields outcomes to God rather than forcing decisions through pressure.

Obedience Over Optics

(Acts 4:19; Acts 8:26–29)

Peter chose obedience over safety and Philip left visibility for instruction. Rest follows divine direction rather than chasing opportunity.

Assignment Over Urgency

(Acts 6:2–4)

The apostles refused to abandon prayer for urgent complaints. They clarified roles, protected their calling, and ensured that assignment remained central. Rest protects assignment.

Paul: Rest In Motion

Paul models servant leadership without striving, demonstrating how rest and diligence can operate together under grace.

Identity Before Activity

“It is no longer I who live…”

Paul worked from Christ living in him, where grace fuelled effort and faith replaced pressure. Leadership flowed from union rather than self-driven effort.

Spirit-Governed Movement

(Acts 16:6–10)

Paul was redirected by the Spirit, revealing that opportunity did not determine direction, permission did.

Rest accepts redirection without insecurity.

Grace-Optimised Labour

(1 Corinthians 15:10)
"I laboured more abundantly… yet not I…"

Effort was real, yet striving was absent because grace supplied the strength. Rest removes friction and multiplies effectiveness.

Rest and Results

The apostles faced persecution, complexity, and interruption, yet Scripture repeatedly records: "The word of God grew and multiplied." (Acts 12:24). They did not manage outcomes but stewarded obedience.

Core Leadership Framework

(Proverbs 3:5–6).

- ✓ Receive — listen before acting.
- ✓ Submit — yield your will.
- ✓ Obey — move when directed.
- ✓ Trust — release outcomes.

Marketplace Application

Rest in Him produces leaders who decide from prayer, delegate wisely, guard their assignment, refuse panic, and trust God for increase.

Societal reformation without rest burns out, but Societal Reformation with rest multiplies.

Session Outcome

By the end of this session the disciple understands rest as alignment, protects prayer under pressure, rejects urgency-driven leadership, releases control over results, and leads from peace rather than panic.

They no longer say, "I must make this work." They say, "I will obey. God will build."

From Rest to Function

Once the disciple understands how to live and lead from alignment rather than striving, gifting can now be activated safely. Identity precedes gifting, rest precedes responsibility, and union precedes function.

Societal reformers who operate from rest use gifts without pride, lead without insecurity, serve without burnout, and multiply without pressure.

Now we examine how God uniquely wires each believer for Kingdom service.

Session 4: Gifts of the Father

(Functional / Motivational / Natural Design Gifts – Romans 12:1–8)

Session Foundation – Your Gift to God and the Body

Romans 12 begins with surrender. Before gifts are exercised, the body is offered; the disciple's physical body is their gift to God — a living sacrifice.

As the mind is renewed, the disciple begins to discover how God has designed them to function.

Paul then shifts to the corporate picture: one body, many members, and different functions. The disciple is individually a gift to God and corporately a gift to the Body.

These gifts describe how God has wired the disciple and how they function within the community of believers. These gifts are often called functional gifts, motivational gifts, or natural design traits.

They are not titles or positions, but grace-enabled motivations given according to a measure of faith. The disciple's gift is not for private fulfillment but for corporate strengthening.

Wherever the disciple is,

- ✓ at work, at home,
- ✓ in the marketplace,
- ✓ or gathered with believers,
  they remain part of the Body of Christ.

These gifts are intended to be expressed in everyday life as outworkings of grace through ordinary obedience.

The Seven Motivational Gifts – Romans 12:6–8

Paul identifies seven motivational gifts given by the Father. While every believer reflects aspects of each, most disciples will operate most effectively in one or two primary areas of grace.

These gifts not only shape how the disciple functions but also reveal the underlying motivations that influence decisions, relationships, and their sense of assignment.

When understood and stewarded well, these gifts position the disciple to influence their sphere with a biblical worldview and to participate as an agent of lasting societal transformation.

When a disciple is operating within their design, there is joy, there is fruit, and there is a reduction in striving and burnout.

As each member functions according to the grace given, the Body grows healthy and strong.

a) Prophecy (Perceiver)

Function: Speaking God's mind in proportion to faith.

This gift discerns what is on God's heart and expresses it clearly. It brings clarity, alignment, and direction so that people and situations can come into proper perspective before God.

In everyday life this gift appears as spiritual discernment and courageous truth, helping others recognise what is right, what is misaligned, and what God is calling them toward.

b) Ministry / Service

Function: Practical service to meet tangible needs.

Those gifted in service are fulfilled by helping and seeing tasks completed well.

They are motivated to meet needs in practical ways and bring great strength to the community through faithful support.

This gift flourishes in support roles, operations, and hands-on care where practical needs are met and environments are strengthened through service.

c) Teaching

Function: Practical instruction in living out obedience to the Word.

This gift clarifies truth and helps others understand and apply it. Teachers bring stability and understanding by explaining Scripture and guiding others in how to live it out.

In the marketplace they train, explain, and structure learning so that knowledge becomes practical and transferable to others.

d) Exhortation (Encouragement)

Function: Encouraging others to take the right course of action.

This gift strengthens believers through counsel, motivation, and practical guidance. Encouragers help people move forward with confidence and perseverance in their walk with God.

They build confidence in others and consistently call people toward growth, maturity, and obedience.

e) Giving

Function: Generous stewardship.

God gives certain individuals the ability to generate resources and the faith to release them generously.

Their focus is not accumulation but stewardship for the advancement of God's purposes.

This generosity can include finances, time, influence, and opportunity, all offered willingly to strengthen the work of God and bless others.

f) Leadership (Administration)

Function: Inspiring and directing others toward God's purposes.

This gift organizes, mobilizes, and aligns people so the Body is strengthened and able to move forward together.

Leadership in this context focuses on stewardship and responsibility rather than control.

Through clarity, structure, and direction, servant leaders help people work together effectively so that the mission of God advances.

g) Mercy (Compassion)

Function: Practical kindness toward those who suffer.

This gift identifies with pain and moves toward relief and restoration. People who carry this grace reflect the heart of Christ by drawing near to those who are hurting.

Mercy expresses compassion in action, bringing comfort, care, and healing presence into situations of need.

Corporate Body Emphasis

Different gifts are designed to produce unity rather than comparison. We belong to one another, and each member has different work to do within the Body.

These gifts strengthen the ecclesia, shape families, influence the workplace, and impact society. The grace given to each believer becomes a channel through which God serves others.

You do not stop being the Body of Christ when you leave a gathering.

You carry your motivational gifts into every sphere of life where God has placed you.

Practical Application

You will function most efficiently in the area of your primary motivational gift. In that place there is greater joy, greater fruitfulness, less strain, and greater confidence in how you serve others.

God distributes grace intentionally, and your responsibility is to discover your design, develop it faithfully, and deploy it consistently wherever God has placed you.

A societal reformer begins with understanding how the Father has wired them.

When every disciple functions according to the grace given, the ecclesia grows strong, healthy, and mature.

Session 5: Gifts of the Father Questionnaire

Authorized Resource and Purpose

The Motivational Gifts Objective Questionnaire used in this module is an extract from Discover Your God-Given Gifts by Don Fortune and Katie Fortune.

This material is used with permission from the authors, and the copyright and authorization details are provided in the manual.

This is not a simple personality survey but an extensive and comprehensive questionnaire of more than 140 questions designed to identify the disciple's primary and secondary motivational gifts.

It is a structured discovery process designed to help the disciple understand how God has wired them.

Why This Questionnaire Matters

The purpose of this tool is to help the disciple identify their primary motivational gift, their secondary gift, how they naturally function, where they best fit in the Body of Christ, and their sphere of influence.

This process helps the disciple recognize how God has designed them for service not only within the ecclesia, but also within their workplace, family, community, and marketplace mountain.

The disciple's gift is connected to their assignment.

A Discovery Tool, Not a Label

The questionnaire is a discovery tool, not a limitation. It identifies consistent patterns in how the disciple responds to people, pressure, responsibility, and opportunity so that they can understand how God has wired them.

The goal is clarity — not restriction.

When combined with biblical teaching and reflection, this process allows the disciple to affirm strengths, recognize blind spots, develop humility, and honour the diversity of the Body.

Understanding the disciple's gift does not confine them; it aligns them.

Marketplace and Mountain Influence

The disciple is not only called to function within an ecclesia gathering.

They carry influence into their mountain, whether that is

- ✓ business,
- ✓ education,
- ✓ family,
- ✓ media,
- ✓ government,
- ✓ arts,
- ✓ or community leadership.

The disciple's motivational gift shapes how they function in their marketplace sphere of influence. It influences how they lead, how they solve problems, how they serve, and how they influence culture.

When the disciple understands their design, they stop competing with others and begin stewarding their assigned territory with confidence.

Reducing Burnout and Increasing Effectiveness

When the disciple understands their motivational gift, they begin to discern when to say yes, when to say no, where to serve, and where not to serve.

Many experience burnout because they operate outside their assignment rather than within it.

When the disciple functions within their God-given motivation there is greater joy, greater fruit, less strain, and greater clarity of assignment.

This brings stability to a societal reformer.

Designed for the Coach–Disciple Journey

This questionnaire is intentionally placed within a coached environment.

It is part of the ®Growing Deep and Strong® process to help the disciple mature into a societal reformer and grow in clarity about their calling.

The coach helps the disciple interpret results wisely, confirm primary and secondary gifts, apply them practically, and grow into their destiny.

It is one of several intentional steps designed to help the disciple discover their true calling.

Connected to Assignment and Destiny

Discovering the disciple's motivational gift is not the destination but a step toward identifying their God-given assignment and long-term influence.

When the disciple understands how they are wired, they begin to recognize their natural leadership style and identify environments where they thrive.

They also learn how to align their service with destiny and steward their sphere of influence strategically.

Becoming a societal reformer flows from identity rather than insecurity. When the disciple understands their motivational gift, they stop striving to be someone else and begin flourishing in authenticity.

This questionnaire helps the disciple move from activity to assignment, from uncertainty to clarity, and from general participation to focused influence, both in the Body of Christ and in their marketplace mountain.

Session 6: The Nine Gifts of the Holy Spirit
(1 Corinthians 12:8–11)

Empowerment Gifts

The gifts of the Holy Spirit are empowerment gifts.

Unlike the Father's motivational gifts, which describe design, the Spirit's gifts are manifestations that operate as the Spirit wills for the common good.

They are given to build, strengthen, and edify the Body of Christ.

They also demonstrate the reality of Christ in everyday life, including the marketplace.

These gifts are not trophies, but tools entrusted for service, given so that the life and power of Christ can be expressed through His people.

Three Categories of Manifestation

The nine gifts are commonly understood in three groupings:

- ✓ revelation gifts,
- ✓ power gifts,
- ✓ and vocal gifts.

Each category describes how the Holy Spirit reveals, demonstrates, and communicates the work of God through believers.

All of these gifts operate under the direction of the Holy Spirit and are released according to His will rather than human control.

Revelation Gifts

1. Word of Wisdom

A word of wisdom is a supernatural insight into God's strategy or solution for a situation.

It provides divine direction that goes beyond natural reasoning and helps bring clarity to circumstances that appear complex or uncertain.

In leadership and marketplace environments, this gift provides wisdom for decisions that require divine perspective rather than human calculation.

2. Word of Knowledge

A word of knowledge is supernatural revelation of facts that could not be known naturally.

It reveals information by the Spirit that exposes hidden issues, confirms truth, or brings encouragement and conviction where needed.

This manifestation helps bring clarity and understanding so that people and situations can be addressed with accuracy and wisdom.

3. Discerning of Spirits

Discerning of spirits is the supernatural ability to distinguish between the Holy Spirit, the human spirit, or demonic influence.

This gift brings spiritual clarity and helps leaders understand what is operating behind circumstances or behaviour.

It protects and guards the Body of Christ and is essential for societal reformers who operate in environments where pressure, conflict, or spiritual influence must be discerned accurately.

Power Gifts

4. Gift of Faith

The gift of faith is a supernatural confidence in God for a specific situation.

It produces boldness and unwavering trust that goes beyond natural limits and enables a person to stand firmly in expectation of God's intervention.

This manifestation often sustains believers in moments that require extraordinary confidence in God's promises.

5. Gifts of Healings

The gifts of healings are supernatural manifestations that bring healing to physical or emotional conditions.

Through these gifts the compassion and authority of Christ are demonstrated as restoration and wholeness are released into people's lives, both within the Body of Christ and throughout the marketplace and everyday environments where believers carry influence.

These manifestations remind the Body of Christ that the healing ministry of Jesus continues through the work of the Holy Spirit, flowing through disciples into their families, workplaces, and wider circles of influence.

As healing is released, it becomes a visible expression of a biblical worldview in action, restoring lives, strengthening communities, and positioning believers as agents of transformation within society.

6. Working of Miracles

The working of miracles is a supernatural intervention that alters natural circumstances.

It demonstrates the power of God in ways that cannot be explained through human ability or natural processes, reaching beyond church settings into the marketplace and the various spheres where believers are positioned.

Through miracles, the authority and sovereignty of God are revealed, and His purposes are advanced beyond normal limitations, impacting not only individuals but also environments, systems, and communities within a disciple's circle of influence.

These manifestations become catalytic in shaping a biblical worldview within society, empowering believers to stand as societal reformers who carry the reality of the Kingdom of God into every sphere of life.

Vocal Gifts

7. Prophecy.

Prophecy is the Spirit-given ability to speak God's heart into a situation with clarity and precision. It strengthens, encourages, and brings alignment to truth, often cutting through confusion and revealing what God is saying in the moment.

It builds faith, establishes direction, and calls people forward into God's purposes.

This gift not only edifies the Body of Christ, but also speaks into the marketplace and everyday life, equipping believers to act as societal reformers who carry a biblical worldview within their sphere of influence.

8. Different Kinds of Tongues

Different kinds of tongues are supernatural expressions of speech given by the Spirit and unknown to the speaker.

This manifestation serves as a sign of divine activity and demonstrates the presence of the Holy Spirit at work.

Tongues also edify the believer, strengthening the inner life as the spirit communes directly with God.

In moments where natural language falls short, the Spirit enables prayer beyond human understanding, often bringing revelation, insight, and alignment with the will of God.

Through this gift, the Spirit communicates in ways that transcend natural language and understanding, both building up the individual and revealing His activity among believers and within their sphere of influence.

9. Interpretation of Tongues

Interpretation of tongues is the supernatural ability to interpret what has been spoken in tongues so that the message can be understood by others.

This ensures that the Body of Christ is edified and that spiritual communication remains orderly and beneficial.

Through interpretation the meaning of the Spirit's expression becomes clear to those who hear it.

Sensitivity to the Holy Spirit

These gifts operate as the Spirit wills and require sensitivity, humility, and obedience.

Societal reformers must cultivate prayer, listening, discernment, and obedience so they can respond appropriately when the Spirit moves.

The gifts function safely where character governs the heart.

Power must always be submitted to maturity so that the work of the Spirit produces life rather than confusion.

Character Before Power

The fruit of the Holy Spirit must accompany the gifts of the Holy Spirit. Love, humility, patience, self-control, and integrity provide the foundation for safe and healthy operation.

Mature Societal reformers pursue character before power.

Without fruit the gifts become dangerous, but with fruit the gifts become life-giving expressions of Christ.

Marketplace and Mountain Influence

These gifts are not confined to ecclesia gatherings.

They are given to demonstrate Christ in every sphere of influence, including business, education, leadership, family, community, and culture.

Throughout Scripture the Holy Spirit operates in real-world situations, and societal reformers must learn to hear clearly, respond wisely, act boldly, and remain humble.

The gifts build and strengthen the Body of Christ while also impacting the marketplace.

They reveal Christ in practical and powerful ways within everyday environments.

Training Future Societal Reformers

This module trains disciples to recognize the Spirit's voice, operate responsibly in the gifts, submit manifestations to biblical order, and carry spiritual authority into their sphere of influence.

The goal is not spiritual excitement but strengthened believers, transformed environments, and mature societal reformers who operate under the direction of the Holy Spirit both in the Body of Christ and within their marketplace assignment.

Session 7: Find Your Destiny (Assignment)

Identity Anchored in Eternity

Session Intent

This session equips the coach to guide disciples into the next stage of their journey where identity matures into assignment.

Disciples have been grounded in truth, have discovered their motivational gifts through Romans 12:6–8, and have been introduced to the gifts of the Spirit.

They have journeyed into a biblical worldview and growing as societal reformers

However, many subconscious beliefs, formed over time through experiences and influences, can remain beneath the surface and, if left unaddressed, will hinder them from fully stepping into what God has written.

This teaching prepares them to understand that destiny requires both revelation and alignment, setting the stage for deeper personal work in the activation process.

The coach helps them recognise that Scripture reveals a divine Blueprint for Success for their lives. Psalm 139:16 declares that all their days were written in God's book before one came to be.

Their lives are not unfolding randomly but are being aligned with what has already been established by God.

The question now shifts from "Who am I?" to "What is my assignment?"

This stage builds on a foundation already established.

Disciples have been grounded in the Word of God, have walked through repentance, and have addressed areas of spiritual bondage and deliverance.

As they move into understanding destiny, the coach helps them recognise that purpose is not only discovered intellectually but must also be aligned internally.

Teaching Sections

Identity Anchored in Eternity

The coach establishes that destiny is not invented but discovered through Scripture.

Psalm 139:16 reveals divine authorship.
Ephesians 2:10 declares that believers are God's workmanship, created for good works prepared in advance.
Romans 12:2 teaches that transformation of the mind is required to discern God's will.

Disciples begin to understand that their lives are part of a larger redemptive narrative.

- ✓ Identity now anchors purpose,
- ✓ and purpose aligns with eternity.

A Biblical Worldview and Kingdom Vision

Destiny must be interpreted through a renewed mind shaped by Scripture.

Romans 12:2 establishes the necessity of transformation.
Proverbs 11:14 highlights the safety of counsel and community.

The coach helps disciples recognise that destiny is not centred on personal success but on participation in God's redemptive plan.

Vision expands beyond self into Kingdom purpose.

From Gifted to Sent

The coach connects the foundations already established:

- ✓ Romans 12:6–8 — motivational gifts reveal design
- ✓ 1 Corinthians 12 — gifts of the Spirit reveal empowerment
- ✓ Galatians 5:22–23 — fruit of the Spirit reveals character

Calling emerges where these converge under the direction of the Holy Spirit.

Disciples begin to recognise that:

- ✓ God speaks (John 10:27)
- ✓ God reveals (Jeremiah 33:3)
- ✓ The Spirit confirms (Romans 8:16)

This moves them from development into readiness for assignment.

Application / Leadership Insight

Societal Reformers and Kingdom Responsibility

Societal reformation now extends beyond the group into real-world influence.

Disciples begin to see that:

- ✓ Their sphere of influence is a place of assignment
- ✓ Their relationships are opportunities for influence
- ✓ Their decisions carry Kingdom responsibility
- ✓ Jurisdiction as the Government of God

Every sphere of society requires those who carry truth, character, and spiritual authority shaped by Scripture.

Revival That Reaches Out

True spiritual renewal produces outward vision.

Disciples begin to understand that:

- ✓ Revival produces compassion
- ✓ Compassion produces mission
- ✓ Mission aligns with God's heart for people

Destiny shifts from self-focus to Kingdom advancement.

Truth, Healing, and Alignment

The coach establishes the biblical framework for inner alignment.

- ✓ John 8:32 — truth brings freedom
- ✓ Psalm 147:3 — God heals the broken-hearted
- ✓ Romans 12:2 — the mind is renewed

Disciples are taught that destiny requires:

- ✓ Identifying truth
- ✓ Recognising lies
- ✓ Allowing God to bring healing and restoration

This prepares them for activation, where these truths will be personally applied.

Activation Into Influence

Disciples are prepared for movement, not theory.

They understand that:

- ✓ Destiny must be lived, not just understood
- ✓ Calling requires response
- ✓ Assignment requires obedience

This teaching stage prepares them for a practical encounter where everything learned will be activated.

Intended Outcome

By the end of this session the coach helps disciples understand that their identity, gifts, and formation are leading toward assignment.

They recognise that destiny is revealed through Scripture, confirmed by the Spirit, and aligned through truth.

This session also intentionally prepares them for the Destiny Activation stage, where what has been taught will now be encountered, processed, and activated in a deeper and more transformative way.

As part of this preparation, disciples begin to recognise the importance of addressing subconscious beliefs, those internal patterns and hidden mindsets that can either align with truth or resist it.

Through a clear biblical lens, they are guided to understand that lasting transformation requires not only renewed thinking but also the healing and realignment of underlying beliefs, so that their lives fully agree with what God has spoken over them.

Session 8: Find Your Destiny (Assignment) Activation Workshop

A Biblically Grounded Destiny Encounter

Session Intent

This session equips the coach to guide disciples through the Find Your Destiny Activation Workshop as a two-day, Spirit-led activation environment.

This is not a teaching phase—it is an encounter and alignment phase.

Participants have already been grounded in Scripture and have been shown biblically that they can hear from God.

Within a safe, structured environment, they are now guided to personally engage with God and apply what they have learned.

The coach facilitating this process is a certified trainer, trained through the Find Your Destiny Training/Event manual.

This ensures that every workshop is conducted with consistency, theological integrity, and spiritual maturity.

In the Activation Workshop, participants engage in a deeper level of personal alignment.

Having already been grounded in Scripture and having dealt with spiritual strongholds, this phase addresses the subconscious beliefs and emotional patterns that can still hinder forward movement.

In a safe, Spirit-led environment, participants are guided to bring hidden lies, formed from early life through to the present, into the light, allowing God's truth to replace them.

This is not only about discovering destiny, but about removing internal barriers that prevent it from being lived out.

As truth replaces deeply held false beliefs, emotional healing occurs, clarity increases, and participants are positioned to step fully into their God-given purpose and assignment.

Within the Activation Workshop, participants are guided in a structured, Spirit-led process of asking God specific questions across key areas of their lives.

In a safe environment, they are led to identify what they have believed, discern what is not aligned with truth, and receive clarity from God that brings freedom, healing, and direction.

This process moves beyond theory into personal encounter, where truth replaces false belief and alignment is established.

Participants are guided to ask God:

- ✓ About Myself — What lies do I believe about myself? What is the truth You speak about me?
- ✓ About God — What lies do I believe about You? What is true about who You are?
- ✓ About My Past — What lies do I believe about my past? What is true about my past?
- ✓ About My Future — What lies do I believe about my future? What is the truth about my future?
- ✓ About My Purpose — What lies do I believe about my purpose? What is the truth about my calling?
- ✓ About Money — What lies do I believe about money? What is the truth about provision and stewardship?
- ✓ About Work and Business — What lies do I believe about my work, business, or job? What is the truth about my assignment and sphere of influence?

Through this process, participants learn to recognise God's voice, replace lies with truth, and walk forward with clarity, confidence, and alignment within their God-given assignment.

This is where destiny becomes clear, personal, and actionable.

Teaching Sections

A Safe and Spirit-Led Environment

The workshop is conducted over two days within a safe, well-governed environment led by certified trainers.

Each trainer has been equipped through the Find Your Destiny Training/Event manual, ensuring:

- ✓ Biblical alignment in every stage
- ✓ Consistency in delivery across locations
- ✓ Careful and mature facilitation

New and emerging trainers do not operate independently at first. They are developed by working alongside experienced certified trainers until they are ready to be released.

This creates a protected environment for participants and a strong foundation for multiplication.

A Multiplication Model of Servant Leadership

This workshop is not only an activation for participants but also a pathway for raising future trainers.

- ✓ New trainers are trained through the official manual
- ✓ They serve alongside experienced certified trainers
- ✓ They are observed, developed, and equipped in real environments
- ✓ They are released only when ready

This ensures that quality is preserved while capacity increases.

Multiplication is intentional, not accidental. What is modelled is what is reproduced.

From Teaching to Personal Encounter

Participants move from understanding to experience.

They have already been taught that:

- ✓ God speaks
- ✓ His voice aligns with Scripture
- ✓ His Spirit confirms truth

Now they engage personally.

In this environment, they are guided to hear from God for themselves—not as a one-time moment, but as the beginning of a lifestyle of listening and responding.

Hearing God as a Way of Life

Participants are not only guided to hear from God during the workshop but are equipped to continue hearing Him beyond it.

They learn to:

- ✓ Recognise His voice
- ✓ Discern His leading
- ✓ Respond with confidence and obedience

This establishes a pattern of living where direction is received from God, not driven by external pressure or internal uncertainty.

Discovering Sphere and Assignment

A key outcome of the workshop is clarity of placement.

Participants are guided to recognise:

- ✓ Their primary sphere of influence
- ✓ The "mountain" or domain they are called to impact
- ✓ The environments where they carry responsibility

This brings definition to calling. Destiny becomes located, not abstract.

Clarity of Purpose and Destiny

In this setting, participants clearly hear from God concerning:

- ✓ Their purpose
- ✓ Their calling
- ✓ Their direction

What was previously understood in principle now becomes personal conviction. This clarity brings alignment between their life, their gifts, and God's intent.

Staying in Lane — Alignment with Assignment

Participants are taught the importance of remaining aligned with what God has shown them.

They learn:

- ✗ Not to compare with others
- ✗ Not to move outside of their assignment

- ✓ To recognise grace for their specific lane

This protects focus, preserves effectiveness, and strengthens long-term fruitfulness.

Application / Leadership Insight

A Mature Expression of Discipleship

This workshop reflects a mature stage where disciples take responsibility for what God is speaking.

They:

- ✓ Engage personally with God
- ✓ Apply truth to their lives
- ✓ Respond with intentional obedience

Certified trainers ensure the process remains safe, grounded, and aligned with Scripture.

Integration of Calling and Life

Participants begin to see clear alignment between:

- ✓ Who they are
- ✓ How they are wired
- ✓ Where they are called

Their journey becomes integrated within God's design and assignment.

Movement with Clarity and Confidence

By the conclusion of the workshop, participants:

- ✓ Have heard from God personally
- ✓ Have clarity on their assignment
- ✓ Understand their sphere of influence

They move forward with direction, confidence, and focus.

Coach Development Pathway (Find Your Destiny Activation)

The Find Your Destiny Activation is not only a breakthrough experience for participants, it is also a defined training environment where future coaches are formed, observed, and released within a multiplication model.

Pathway Overview

1. Participant (Discovery Stage)
Engages in the activation experience and begins to clearly discern purpose, calling, and sphere of influence.

2. Emerging Coach (Formation Stage)
Selected individuals' step into a development role where they:

- ✓ Observe the full activation process
- ✓ Assist in facilitation where appropriate
- ✓ Begin to internalise the flow, values, and spiritual responsibility of the model
- ✓ Are mentored directly by certified trainers

3. Developing Coach (Equipping Stage)
At this stage, individuals:

- ✓ Take on active facilitation components within the activation
- ✓ Grow in confidence, discernment, and delivery
- ✓ Are coached, refined, and strengthened through feedback and oversight
- ✓ Demonstrate alignment with the heart, message, and structure of the model

4. Certified Trainer (Release Stage)
Once proven in both character and competency, individuals are:

- ✓ Released to facilitate the full two-day activation
- ✓ Entrusted to uphold the standard and integrity of the model
- ✓ Commissioned to train and develop others within the same pathway

Intended Outcome

By the end of this session, emerging coaches are equipped to facilitate a two-day activation process under the guidance of certified trainers, as part of the Find Your Destiny Coach Development Pathway, having been trained through the Find Your Destiny Training/Event manual.

The process maintains a high standard through a multiplication model where emerging trainers are developed under experienced leadership before being released.

Participants clearly hear from God regarding their purpose, calling, and sphere of influence.

They gain clarity on their assignment and understand how to remain aligned within it.

They step forward with confidence, equipped to live with direction, consistency, and a biblical worldview within their assigned sphere, while the model itself continues to multiply with strength and integrity.

Session 9: Power Of Imagination

Session Intent

This session helps disciples align their thinking, imagination, and meditation with the Word of God and with the personal revelation received during the Find Your Destiny Activation Workshop.

During that process disciples begin to hear from God and uncover what has been uniquely written about their lives in heaven, as described in Psalm 139:16.

The coach helps disciples understand that revelation is only the beginning.

What God reveals must be conceived internally, embraced by faith, and continually meditated upon until it becomes firmly established in the heart so that Scripture and God's personal direction shape thinking, imagination, and expectations.

Teaching Sections

Guarding the Heart

The heart is the wellspring of life, and Scripture teaches that what is conceived internally eventually manifests externally.

Proverbs 4:23 instructs believers to guard the heart carefully, while Matthew 12:34 and Matthew 15:18–19 show that what fills the heart eventually shapes speech and behaviour.

Because of this, the coach teaches disciples to guard their inner thought life, especially after receiving revelation from God concerning calling and destiny.

Proverbs 23:7 reminds believers that the direction of life follows the condition of the heart, so truth must take deeper root internally.

The Inner World of Thought

God designed the human mind with the ability to conceive, picture, and imagine.

In Scripture the Hebrew concept of imagination refers to the formation of thought within the heart, as seen in Genesis 6:5 and 1 Chronicles 29:18.

This inner thought life is constantly active and can operate positively or negatively depending on what a person chooses to meditate on.

Luke 1:51 and Ephesians 4:17–18 reveal that disciples must intentionally align their thinking with truth rather than allowing fear, lies, or doubt to dominate their inner world.

Seeing Before Seeing

Faith often begins with an internal vision before a physical manifestation.

God's purposes are first seen in the heart before they appear in the natural world, which is why Scripture calls believers to walk by faith rather than by sight (2 Corinthians 5:7).

Meditation on God's Word helps truth move from intellectual knowledge into deep conviction. Psalm 1:2 and Joshua 1:8 emphasise meditation, while Psalm 139:16 reminds disciples that what God reveals must be conceived internally through prayer, meditation, and reflection until it becomes firmly established.

Conceiving God's Promises and Calling

Many of God's promises and assignments require time to move from revelation to manifestation.

At first there may be only a glimpse of what God intends to do, but as disciples continue to meditate on Scripture and spend time in prayer the inner picture becomes clearer and stronger.

Proverbs 4:18 describes this progressive clarity, and 2 Peter 1:19 affirms that God's direction becomes brighter as disciples remain attentive to His Word.

The coach helps disciples revisit the revelation received during the Find Your Destiny process until the vision becomes stable within their hearts.

Faith, Hope, and Imagination

Scripture teaches that faith works in partnership with hope. Hope forms the inner expectation, while faith gives substance to what has been conceived, as described in Hebrews 11:1–3.

Hope can be understood as sanctified imagination, the ability to see what God has promised before it becomes visible (Romans 8:24–25).

When disciples allow God's promises and direction to shape their imagination, faith begins to act upon what has been conceived.

Biblical Example: Abraham

Abraham provides a clear example of this process. Despite impossible circumstances he continued to hold the vision God gave him in Genesis 15:5.

Romans 4:17–21 explains that he believed against natural circumstances and remained convinced of what God had promised.

Hebrews 11:11 shows that through sustained faith the promise eventually became reality.

Walking by Faith

Faith requires disciples to trust what God has spoken even when physical evidence is not yet visible. Hebrews 11:1 teaches that faith gives substance to what is hoped for, while 2 Corinthians 4:17–18 reminds believers to focus on what is unseen.

This is why disciples are called to walk by faith rather than by sight (2 Corinthians 5:7). The unseen spiritual reality must become more real than surrounding circumstances.

The Danger of Negative Imagination

Just as imagination can strengthen faith, it can also reinforce fear.

Worry often becomes meditation on negative outcomes, producing instability and discouragement.

James 1:8 and Proverbs 13:12 show the danger of double-minded thinking and delayed hope.

The coach therefore teaches disciples to take authority over their thoughts according to 2 Corinthians 10:3–5, replacing lies with truth, and—where needed—applying the principles taught in the Courts of Heaven to address underlying accusations and establish alignment with God's truth.

Renewing the Mind

God provides clear spiritual practices that renew the mind and strengthen faith. These practices help redirect thinking toward truth and build resilience in the inner life.

Key practices include prayer in the Spirit (Jude 1:20; 1 Corinthians 14:4), worship and praise that align the heart with God's presence, meditation on Scripture such as Psalm 1:2, and encouragement within community that strengthens faith.

Application / Leadership Insight

Seeing God's Future

Through meditation, prayer, and alignment with Scripture, disciples begin to see the future God intends for their lives.

This includes both the promises of Scripture and the personal calling revealed during the Find Your Destiny process (Psalm 139:16).

As disciples continue to focus on God's promises and direction, the vision becomes clearer and more stable. 1 Timothy 4:15 encourages intentional focus, while Isaiah 26:3 shows that steady thinking produces peace.

The Role of Faith in Destiny

The Find Your Destiny process reveals the purposes God has written in heaven for each disciple. Psalm 139:16 reminds believers that their lives are already known to God, and meditation helps those revealed purposes become firmly established in the heart.

As disciples meditate on what God has spoken they begin to see the future He has prepared for them. Proverbs 29:18 highlights the importance of vision that guides life and direction.

Living from the Invisible Realm

Scripture teaches that the visible world originates from the unseen spiritual realm (Hebrews 11:3).

Disciples learn to connect with this reality through faith, prayer, meditation on God's Word, and reflection on what God has revealed about their calling.

As spiritual truth becomes firmly established internally, external circumstances gradually align with what God has spoken.

Vision Conception Activation

(Practical Application Exercise)

This short activation helps disciples intentionally establish within their hearts the revelation received during the Find Your Destiny workshop.

The purpose is to move from revelation to conception so that what God has spoken becomes rooted internally and faith can begin to act upon it.

Step 1 — Write What God Revealed

Disciples briefly write the key insights or direction they sensed from God during the Find Your Destiny process. This includes calling, areas of influence, gifts, purpose, or future direction that God highlighted.

This step reconnects the disciple with what God has already revealed according to Psalm 139:16.

Step 2 — Anchor the Vision in Scripture

Next, disciples connect what God revealed with supporting Scripture promises. God's Word stabilises the vision and ensures that the direction received is rooted in truth rather than personal interpretation.

Hebrews 11:1 and Proverbs 29:18 reinforce that faith and vision must remain anchored in Scripture.

Step 3 — Form a Personal Meditation Declaration

Disciples then turn these insights and Scriptures into a short first-person present tense declaration.

This is not positive thinking but intentional alignment of the heart and imagination with what God has spoken.

Regular meditation on this declaration helps establish the vision within the disciple's thinking and imagination (Proverbs 23:7; 1 Timothy 4:15).

Intended Outcome

By the end of this session the coach helps disciples understand how imagination and meditation align faith with God's Word and the calling revealed during the Find Your Destiny process.

The coach guides disciples on how to guard their thought life, meditate on Scripture, and internalise God's revealed direction so that faith begins to shape their future actions.

Session 10: Courts of Heaven

Session Intent

This session guides the disciple through the biblical framework often described as the Courts of Heaven.

The principle is grounded in Scripture and presents God as righteous Judge before whom believers approach with humility, repentance, and confidence in Christ's finished work.

The coach helps disciples understand that this framework is not mystical speculation but a scriptural approach to prayer and spiritual alignment.

It becomes part of the Find Your Destiny Activation Workshop and can develop into a lifelong prayer lifestyle grounded in the Word of God.

Teaching Sections

Biblical Foundation of Heavenly Justice

The Courts of Heaven principle is grounded in Scripture, not imagination.

Job 1:6 describes a heavenly setting where the accuser presents himself before the Lord, while Revelation 12:10 identifies Satan as "the accuser of our brethren." Daniel 7:10 further describes a court seated and books opened.

These passages reveal legal language within Scripture and establish the framework for approaching God as righteous Judge.

Hebrews 4:16 instructs believers to come boldly to the throne of grace, reminding disciples that prayer can be approached with confidence and reverence.

Addressing Spiritual Legalities

Spiritual conflict is not merely emotional but often involves accusations and spiritual opposition. Ephesians 6:12 reminds believers that the struggle is not against flesh and blood but against spiritual forces.

When negative thoughts, conflict, or accusations arise, disciples are trained to recognise the legal nature of accusation.

Instead of reacting emotionally, they learn to respond with biblical alignment by identifying the accusation, writing down the negative thought, refusing agreement with the lie, and bringing it before God's throne.

Repentance and Alignment

The first response in approaching God's throne is humility and repentance.

Acts 3:19 calls believers to repent and turn back so that times of refreshing may come from the Lord.

Participants are taught to repent for personal sin, agreement with lies, negative confession, and generational patterns where appropriate.

Isaiah 43:25 declares that God blots out transgressions, and Hebrews 8:12 affirms that He remembers sins no more, showing that repentance removes legal ground.

Forgiveness and Closing Legal Doors

Unforgiveness can provide opportunity for accusation and spiritual pressure.

Matthew 18:21–35 illustrates the danger of withholding forgiveness, while Matthew 7:2 warns that judgment invites judgment.

Disciples are trained to forgive others fully and release them to God's justice. Forgiveness does not excuse wrongdoing but removes legal access for accusation and restores spiritual freedom.

Rendering Judgment Against the Accuser

Once repentance and forgiveness are addressed, believers stand on the finished work of Christ. John 19:30 declares "It is finished," and Isaiah 53:5 affirms that healing and wholeness were secured through the Cross.

Participants learn to declare that accusations against them have been answered by the blood of Jesus and ask God, as righteous Judge, to render judgment according to His Word.

Authority is exercised humbly yet confidently under Christ's finished work.

Application / Leadership Insight

Breaking Cycles and Generational Patterns

Patterns of defeat, recurring conflict, and limiting beliefs can be addressed through biblical repentance and truth.

Where generational sin or patterns have opened doors, repentance may be extended through family lines in a biblical manner.

Agreement with truth replaces inherited lies, cycles are broken, peace returns, and clarity is restored as disciples align their thinking with Scripture.

Healing Emotional Triggers in Daily Life

The coach helps disciples understand that this process extends beyond the workshop and becomes part of a lifelong prayer lifestyle.

When negative thoughts, conflict, or accusation arise, believers respond biblically rather than emotionally.

They bring the matter before God, repent if necessary, forgive others, stand on Scripture, and declare the finished work of Christ.

Luke 6:28 instructs believers to bless those who curse them, replacing retaliation with blessing.

Establishing Kingdom Authority

When identity is restored and legal ground removed, confidence stabilises and authority flows from alignment rather than aggression.

Scripture reminds believers of accountability before Christ and affirms that God alone is Judge.

Believers therefore appeal to Heaven's justice rather than assuming judgment themselves. This produces humility, maturity, and spiritual stability.

Integration Within the Activation Workshop

Within the Find Your Destiny Activation Workshop this process becomes a practical tool for addressing lies connected to destiny.

When a participant hears accusations such as "You are not qualified" or "You cannot influence society," they are taught to bring the thought before God rather than reacting emotionally.

They repent for agreement with the lie, forgive where necessary, and declare the truth of Scripture such as Psalm 139:16.

In this way destiny becomes protected through biblical alignment rather than emotional reaction.

From Workshop to Lifelong Practice

This approach forms a mature prayer lifestyle where disciples learn to live free from accusation and respond to conflict biblically.

They learn to guard their destiny, address issues quickly in prayer, and remain aligned with the Word of God.

Over time peace becomes normal, authority becomes stable, and prayer becomes more effective because it remains grounded in Scripture.

Mobilised With Clean Hands and Clear Conscience

When accusations are silenced and legal ground is closed, believers move forward with confidence.

They are healed emotionally, aligned spiritually, and grounded scripturally as they step into their sphere of influence.

They lead without defensiveness, reactiveness, or striving, knowing their assignment stands secure before God.

This allows societal reformers to influence society with humility, confidence, and biblical authority.

Intended Outcome

By the end of this session the coach understands how to guide disciples through the biblical principles often described as the Courts of Heaven and how this framework fits within the Find Your Destiny Activation Workshop and beyond.

The coach helps disciples apply repentance, forgiveness, and scriptural truth so they walk forward free from accusation and aligned with God's purposes.

STEP: MODULE FOUR – DISCIPLING OTHERS

Module Intent-Overview and Intended Outcome

This marks the transition from being formed to becoming responsible for forming others.

The disciple has been grounded in identity, freedom, character, gifting, and destiny.

Now leadership is

- ✓ no longer theoretical — it becomes stewardship.
- ✓ Servant leadership begins inwardly.
- ✓ It flows from life in Christ, not personality or ambition.

The disciple learns to

- ✓ Lead from union, not striving.
- ✓ Rest replaces pressure.
- ✓ Alignment replaces urgency.

Leadership becomes obedience to God's assignment rather than reaction to opportunity.

Clarity of design is essential. Motivational gifts reveal how the Father has wired the disciple. The gifts of the Spirit reveal how the Holy Spirit empowers them.

Character governs how safely those gifts operate.
Leadership is not self-expression;
it is faithful stewardship of grace given.

Character remains central.

- ✓ Humility,
- ✓ integrity,
- ✓ purity,
- ✓ generosity,
- ✓ disciplined speech,
- ✓ and relational honour sustain influence.

Servant leaders build people, not platforms. They measure success by the growth and strength of those under their care.

This step also introduces spiritual parenting. The disciple begins thinking generationally. Growth now carries responsibility.

What has been invested in them must be reproduced through them.

Maturity shifts the question from "How am I growing?" to "Who am I raising?"

Servant leadership extends beyond ecclesia (church) gatherings.

Every mountain of influence, family, business, education, government, media, and community becomes an arena for Kingdom expression.

- ✓ Leadership from identity produces reform.
- ✓ Rest produces resilience.
- ✓ Character produces credibility.

Intended Outcome

By the end of module 4 the disciple leads from union with Christ, understands their design, operates with character, thinks generationally, and accepts the mandate to equip others.

They move from personal discipleship to multiplication — becoming stable, humble servant leaders prepared to influence their sphere with a biblical worldview.

Session 1: Servant Leadership

Session Intent—Training Tomorrow's Leaders

Servant leadership is the engine of multiplication.

Movements succeed when leaders wash feet rather than build platforms, because true servant leadership develops others rather than elevating self.

This session establishes biblical servant leadership as the model for future apostles, marketplace leaders, and spiritual parents.

Servant leadership builds capacity rather than dependency.

The Pattern of Jesus.

Jesus demonstrated servant leadership clearly.

He washed His disciples' feet (John 13), redefining greatness as service, and taught that "whoever desires to become great among you shall be your servant" (Matthew 20:26–28).

He led by example rather than control. Jesus trained twelve, released seventy, and intentionally prepared successors who would carry the mission forward.

His leadership was relational, sacrificial, and generational.

He served in homes, on fishing boats, in marketplaces, and among crowds, not only in synagogue settings.

Servant leadership therefore operates both within the ecclesia and in everyday environments.

The Apostolic Model

The early apostles continued this pattern by equipping believers for the work of ministry (Ephesians 4:11–12).

They lived and worked in practical environments as fishermen, tentmakers, and tradesmen, demonstrating that calling and workplace were not separate.

Paul modelled marketplace ministry while tentmaking. Leadership was expressed through:

- ✓ Teaching
- ✓ Strengthening
- ✓ Correcting
- ✓ Releasing

Their goal was multiplication. They built people who could build others.

Characteristics of a Servant Leader

A servant leader:

- ✓ Sees people as eternal investments
- ✓ Develops others intentionally
- ✓ Releases responsibility
- ✓ Thinks generationally
- ✓ Leads by example

Servant leaders prepare successors and celebrate when others grow stronger. Their measure of success is multiplication rather than applause.

Leadership in the Ecclesia and the Marketplace

Servant leadership is not confined to church gatherings. It functions across society in environments where believers carry influence.

- ✓ Business
- ✓ Education
- ✓ Family
- ✓ Community
- ✓ Government
- ✓ Creative industries

A servant leader carries Christ's character into their mountain of influence. They lead teams with integrity, build culture through humility, and serve while advancing vision.

True authority flows from service.

Core Requirements

Servant leadership requires:

- ✓ Humility — embracing obscurity
- ✓ Vision — seeing beyond the present
- ✓ Courage — releasing control
- ✓ Patience — allowing growth processes
- ✓ Faithfulness — remaining steady across seasons

Leadership is not about control

- ✓ It is about stewardship.

The Test of Servant Leadership

The measure is simple:
are those under your care growing stronger, freer, and more capable?
If others are increasing, leadership is healthy;
if others remain dependent, leadership requires refinement.

Servant leadership ensures that revival becomes reformation, and reformation becomes legacy, both in the ecclesia and in the marketplace.

Session 2: The Way We Were

Session Intent

This session leads the disciple to reflecting on their spiritual journey and remembering where transformation began.

It intentionally reminds disciples that the spiritual battle is real and that Scripture describes humanity once walking according to the course of this world under the influence of the prince of the power of the air (Ephesians 2:2).

The coach guides disciples to recognise the contrast between the two kingdoms, darkness and light.

This reflection is not intended to produce shame but to deepen gratitude, conviction, and awareness of the salvation that has taken place.

Teaching Sections

Remembering Where We Began

Scripture reveals that before Christ there were only two kingdoms in conflict darkness and light.

Believers once belonged to one kingdom but have now been transferred into another through salvation.

The coach helps disciples understand that remembering this transition strengthens gratitude and reinforces their commitment to the life they now live in Christ.

From Moral Corruption to New Creation

Before Christ, the flesh governed decisions and behaviour.

Galatians 5 describes the works of the flesh such as immorality, impurity, jealousy, strife, selfish ambition, and envy, revealing the evidence of a fallen nature rather than isolated behaviour.

Salvation brought transformation. Second Corinthians 5:17 declares that anyone in Christ is a new creation, and the fruit of the Spirit, love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness, and self-control now marks the life of the disciple (Galatians 5:22–23).

Forgiven and Repositioned

Through Christ, past moral corruption has been forgiven, sin has been cleansed, shame removed, and bondage broken.

Ephesians 2:8–10 reminds believers that salvation comes by grace through faith and not by human effort.

The coach emphasises that believers are now God's workmanship, created in Christ Jesus for good works prepared beforehand.

This transformation reflects intentional divine craftsmanship rather than accidental change.

Called Out of Darkness

First Peter 2:9 declares that believers have been called out of darkness into God's marvellous light. This describes a rescue and a transfer of kingdoms rather than a simple moral improvement.

Colossians 1:13 affirms that believers have been delivered from the domain of darkness and transferred into the Kingdom of God's beloved Son.

The session then prompts disciples to consider the people within their circle of influence who may still be walking in darkness.

Man's Greatest Need

Humanity's greatest need is not improvement but salvation. People do not simply need better behaviour; they require a new nature through the transforming work of Christ.

The coach helps disciples recognise that those in their workplace, family, and community may still be experiencing the confusion, bondage, and separation from God that they once knew.

This realisation produces compassion rather than judgment.

Transformation That Demands Response

Over the course of their journey, disciples have experienced measurable transformation.

They have moved from a pagan worldview to a biblical worldview, from bondage to freedom, and from confusion to clarity through Spirit-led living.

The coach highlights that this change is evident through strengthened character, renewed thinking, established authority, and a clearer understanding of destiny. Such transformation cannot be ignored.

Application / Leadership Insight

Mandate and Authority

Jesus declared that all authority in heaven and on earth has been given to Him and then commissioned His followers to go and make disciples (Matthew 28:18–19).

Authority has therefore been delegated, and believers now live under Kingdom authority as representatives of Christ.

The coach encourages disciples to consider who within their circle of influence has not yet heard the message of the Kingdom and may still be living in spiritual darkness.

Strengthened Testimony

Reflecting on life before Christ strengthens the disciple's testimony.

Gratitude increases, conviction deepens, and the visible contrast between past life and present transformation becomes clear.

The coach helps disciples recognise that this contrast strengthens their witness and reminds them that others still need the same miracle of transformation.

Personal Narrative Redeemed

Past pain, confusion, and brokenness are reframed through redemption.

The coach helps disciples see that nothing from their past is wasted and that every part of their story can serve God's purpose.

Even former failures can become bridges that help them connect with others who are searching for hope and restoration.

Equipped and Burdened to Share

A clear testimony becomes more than a personal story; it becomes responsibility.

The coach helps disciples learn how to communicate their transformation in ways that are relational, authentic, and confident.

- ✓ Disciples begin to recognise the urgency of their calling.
- ✓ Two kingdoms remain in conflict, humanity still needs salvation, and those who have been rescued and transformed now carry both burden and authority to influence their sphere of society.

Intended Outcome

By the end of this session the coach helps disciples recognise the depth of their transformation and the responsibility that follows salvation.

Disciples develop gratitude for what Christ has done and renewed compassion for those still walking in darkness.

From Formation to Mission

Up to this point the disciple has experienced:

- ✓ transformation,
- ✓ healing,
- ✓ freedom,
- ✓ and formation.
- ✓ Identity has been established,
- ✓ destiny has been clarified,
- ✓ and spiritual obstacles have been addressed.

Now the focus turns outward.

The Kingdom of God does not stop at personal transformation. What God restores in a life becomes the instrument through which He reaches others.

This session aligns the disciple's heart with the Father's heart for humanity and prepares them to move from personal revival into Kingdom mission.

Session 3: God's Heart for All Mankind

Session Intent

The purpose of this session is to help align the disciple's heart with the Father's heart.

Having been transformed and healed, this teaching shifts the disciple's focus outward and establishes that salvation was never meant to terminate on the individual.

The coach helps disciples understand that the same redemptive mission that sent Jesus now sends His followers.

This session awakens conviction, compassion, and responsibility, grounding evangelism, spiritual authority, and city transformation in the revealed heart of God.

Teaching Sections

Purpose and Intent

This session establishes that discipleship always moves outward toward mission.

Transformation is not simply personal growth but preparation to participate in God's redemptive purpose among people and communities.

The coach reinforces that salvation leads to responsibility. What disciples have received through healing, formation, and commissioning must now extend to others.

The Father's Desire: None Should Perish

God's heart has always been redemptive. Ezekiel 18:23 declares that He takes no pleasure in the death of the wicked but desires that they turn and live, and Ezekiel 18:32 reinforces that He has no pleasure in the death of anyone.

Judgment is real, but mercy is His desire. John 3:16–17 reveals the Father's action.

He gave His Son not to condemn the world but that the world through Him might be saved. Salvation was initiated by love, and the Cross reveals the Father's heart.

The Mission of Jesus

Luke 19:10 defines Christ's mission:

"The Son of Man came to seek and to save that which was lost."

Jesus came on assignment. He confronted darkness, bound the strong man (Luke 11:21–22), and demonstrated authority over demonic power.

Redemption required spiritual engagement, reminding disciples that the Kingdom does not advance passively.

Kingdom Dynamics and Spiritual Conflict

Scripture reveals the urgency of the Kingdom. Matthew 11:12 speaks of the Kingdom advancing forcefully, while Luke 16:16 describes people pressing into it.

This language reveals urgency and intentionality.

Ephesians 6:12 reminds believers that the conflict is not against flesh and blood but against spiritual forces.

Second Corinthians 10:3–5 confirms that the weapons of our warfare are not carnal but mighty in God for pulling down strongholds, and that spiritual authority must be exercised biblically.

Authority and the Keys

Matthew 16:19 speaks of the keys of the Kingdom—binding and loosing according to Heaven's authority. Authority is delegated, and the mission of Jesus becomes the mission of His disciples.

Scripture confirms this sending:

- ✓ John 20:21 — "As the Father has sent Me, I also send you."
- ✓ Mark 16:15–20 — Go into all the world and preach the gospel.
- ✓ Acts 1:8 — You shall receive power when the Holy Spirit has come upon you.

This is not symbolic authority; it is an operational mandate.

Application / Leadership Insight

From Personal Revival to Global Vision

At this stage disciples move beyond personal blessing into Kingdom mandate.

The coach helps them recognise that God's redemptive heart for humanity must now shape their thinking, decisions, and leadership.

Revival produces compassion, and compassion produces mission.

Evangelism becomes the overflow of a transformed life rather than an obligation, and lost people are no longer distant, they are image-bearers in need of salvation.

Implementing What Has Been Taught

This session moves from theology to strategy. The coach reminds disciples of what they have already received and now must apply within their sphere of influence.

They have learned how to pray, how to walk in deliverance and spiritual formation, how to recognise their motivational gifts, and how the gifts of the Spirit operate.

They have also clarified their destiny and mountain of influence.

Now implementation begins.

Reformers Sent Into Society

The Kingdom mandate reaches into every sphere of society. Disciples are prepared to carry biblical truth and Christlike character into the environments where they live and work.

These spheres include:

- ✓ Families strengthened
- ✓ Businesses governed by integrity
- ✓ Education influenced by truth
- ✓ Government shaped by righteousness
- ✓ Media stewarded responsibly
- ✓ Ecclesia equipping societal reformers

The coach helps disciples recognise that they are sent strategically, with gifts identified, destiny clarified, and authority understood. The mission of Jesus continues through them.

A Clear Mandate

The war is real. Two kingdoms remain in conflict, yet authority has been given through Christ.

The disciple is no longer deciding which kingdom they belong to; that decision has already been made through salvation and transformation.

The foundation of this mandate is clear:

- ✓ The Father's heart is salvation
- ✓ The Son's mission accomplished redemption
- ✓ The Spirit empowers witness

Because of this, the coach now calls disciples to respond with intentional obedience.

What has been learned throughout the journey must now be expressed in action through prayer, discipleship, and multiplication.

Disciples do not simply maintain their own faith. They become participants in God's redemptive mission by reaching others, discipling new believers, and raising future servant leaders.

- ✓ Revived.
- ✓ Trained.
- ✓ Commissioned.

Servant leaders are sent with authority to influence their mountain, reflect the heart of God for humanity, and extend the mission of Christ into their communities.

Intended Outcome

By the end of this session the coach helps disciples recognise the Father's redemptive heart for humanity and their responsibility to participate in His mission.

Disciples begin to see evangelism, discipleship, and societal influence as the natural outworking of a transformed life aligned with the heart of God.

The journey they have experienced through ®Growing Deep and Strong Blueprint for Success now becomes the model they reproduce in others.

The disciple understands that maturity leads to multiplication.

What has been received must now be passed on so that;

- ✓ new believers are discipled,
- ✓ leaders are raised,
- ✓ and the mission of Christ continues to expand through every sphere of influence.

Session 4: Stewardship of Authority

Session Intent

This session helps the coach guide disciples to understand that leadership in the Kingdom of God is not ownership of influence but stewardship of what God entrusts.

As disciples begin to recognise their calling, assignment, and sphere of influence, they learn to carry responsibility with humility, faithfulness, and purpose.

Authority is not given for position, but for responsibility.

As growth occurs, disciples must recognise that what has been entrusted to them is not only for personal maturity but for the strengthening and equipping of others.

This stewardship will be expressed differently for each disciple.

Some may be called to raise and lead ®Growing Deep and Strong New Christian Training Centres, while others are called to bring Kingdom influence into their workplace, community, or field of assignment.

In every case, authority is given to influence, to build, and to represent Christ.

The coach helps disciples understand that every opportunity to lead, influence, or disciple others belongs to God and must be exercised according to His character, His ways, and His purposes.

Teaching Sections

Authority Entrusted by God

Authority in the Kingdom is always delegated.

Jesus declared that all authority in heaven and on earth had been given to Him, and from that authority He commissioned His disciples to go and make disciples of all nations.
(Matthew 28:18–19)

Authority originates with God, is entrusted through Christ, and is carried by disciples as stewards.

It is not a personal possession, but a responsibility entrusted for a purpose.

With delegated authority comes delegated assignment.
To receive authority is to receive responsibility

- ✓ to act,
- ✓ to multiply,
- ✓ and to build within the sphere God has appointed.

The Servant Pattern of Leadership

Leadership in the Kingdom is defined by service rather than position.
Those who desire to be great must become servants. (Matthew 20:26–28)

Leadership reflects the character of Christ.
It is expressed through humility, shaped by love, and demonstrated in how others are strengthened.

This pattern applies in every environment, whether within discipleship settings, leadership contexts, or broader societal influence.

Faithfulness in What Is Entrusted

Faithfulness in small things leads to greater responsibility.
(Luke 16:10)

Authority grows where stewardship is proven.
Influence increases where trust is established.

Leadership development is not driven by ambition but by consistency—humility, obedience, and reliability.
As disciples prove faithful, their influence expands within their God-given assignment and sphere.

Authority That Multiplies

Authority in the Kingdom is designed to multiply.

Jesus gave authority with a mandate to make disciples.
Stewardship of authority therefore includes multiplication.

This multiplication may take different forms discipling individuals, influencing environments, or establishing Kingdom culture within various fields.
Maturity is not the end goal multiplication is.

From Receiving to Equipping

Ephesians 4 reveals that leaders exist to equip the saints.

Disciples are not developed to remain dependent, but to become equippers.
Growth always moves from receiving → to walking → to equipping.

As disciples mature, they begin to strengthen others within their context—whether in structured discipleship, leadership environments, or their everyday sphere of influence.

The Conviction of Calling

What has been received must be given.
Equipping others is an expression of obedience and love.
Disciples are formed not only for personal growth, but to bring truth, clarity, and stability into a broken world.

Each disciple carries a unique assignment.
That assignment becomes the platform through which Christ is revealed and others are strengthened.

Marketplace and Sphere of Influence

Authority extends into every sphere, workplace, family, community, and society.

Disciples steward influence through

- ✓ Integrity
- ✓ Excellence
- ✓ Wisdom
- ✓ Godly character

Their sphere of influence becomes their field of stewardship.

Not every disciple will establish a ®Growing Deep and Strong New Christian Training Centre, but every disciple is called to carry Kingdom influence into their environment bringing truth, demonstrating Christ, and shaping culture within their assignment.

Application / Leadership Insight

Stewardship That Builds Others

Leadership responsibility is expressed through:

- ✓ humility before God
- ✓ faithfulness in responsibility
- ✓ service toward others
- ✓ accountability in influence

Authority builds others, it does not elevate self.
It strengthens people, environments, and the sphere entrusted to the disciple.

Equipping as Reformational Responsibility

Disciples are formed as societal reformers grounded in truth.

They are equipped to:

- ✓ stand firm
- ✓ think biblically
- ✓ lead with integrity
- ✓ multiply courage

Reformation does not happen in isolation.
It flows through disciples who carry truth into their assignment, whether in ministry, marketplace, or community, bringing transformation into every sphere of society.

The Generational Pattern

What is entrusted must be passed on.

The pattern is generational truth is received, lived, and reproduced.

This reproduction occurs across every sphere of influence, ensuring that what God establishes in one life extends into many others.

Intended Outcome

Disciples recognise that authority is stewardship entrusted by God.
They carry responsibility with humility and faithfulness and understand that maturity leads to equipping others.

They begin to see themselves as future disciplers and societal influencers those who will multiply truth, strengthen others, and bring Kingdom influence into their God-given sphere of assignment.

Session 5: Stewardship of Assignment

Session Intent

This session helps the coach guide disciples to understand that authority in the Kingdom of God is not ownership but stewardship.

What has been entrusted to them, calling, influence, gifting, and assignment is given by God to be faithfully carried and multiplied.

As disciples recognise their Kingdom assignment, they begin to understand that they are called to make disciples within their sphere of influence.

This includes raising and releasing others into their own calling and assignment.

The coach helps disciples see that they are not only being developed but are being prepared to become those who reproduce faithfully stewarding what God has given and multiplying it through others in the marketplace, community, and every area of life.

Teaching Sections

Authority as Stewardship, Not Ownership

In the Kingdom of God, authority is never given for personal position, control, or recognition. It is entrusted by God for responsibility and purpose.

Jesus demonstrated this when He entrusted His disciples with authority to minister, heal, and proclaim the Kingdom.
(Luke 9:1–2)

This shows that authority is delegated and must be stewarded faithfully.

Disciples therefore learn that what they carry is not their own—it has been entrusted to them to fulfil God's purposes through their assignment.

Faithfulness in What Is Entrusted

Jesus taught that faithfulness is the foundation of stewardship. Those who are faithful with what they have been given are entrusted with more.

In the parable of the talents, each servant was given responsibility according to their capacity and was expected to multiply what was entrusted to them.
(Matthew 25:14–21)

This reveals that Kingdom assignment is not static;

- ✓ it is cultivated,
- ✓ stewarded,
- ✓ and multiplied through faithful obedience.

Disciples therefore recognise that their assignment whether in ministry, marketplace, family, or community is a stewardship that carries responsibility to produce Kingdom fruit.

The Call to Multiply Through Others

The pattern of the Kingdom is multiplication, not maintenance. What God deposits into a disciple is intended to be reproduced in others.

Jesus modelled this by investing deeply into a few who would then impact many.
(Mark 3:13–14)

Paul reinforced this pattern when he instructed Timothy to entrust truth to faithful people who would also teach others.
(2 Timothy 2:2)

This establishes a generational flow of discipleship where authority and truth are passed on, not held onto.

Disciples therefore understand that part of their assignment is to raise and release others into their calling within their sphere of influence.

Faithfulness Within the Assignment

As disciples step into their assignment and begin to influence their sphere whether in the marketplace, community, or ministry, they may encounter resistance or challenge.

Jesus warned that those who follow Him may face opposition.
(John 15:18–20)

Paul also affirmed that living a godly life will involve perseverance.
(2 Timothy 3:12)

Faithfulness therefore becomes the defining characteristic of those who steward authority well. It is not circumstances that determine success, but obedience to what God has entrusted.

Disciples learn to remain steady, committed, and aligned to their assignment as societal reformers bringing Kingdom influence into their world.

Application / Leadership Insight

Servant leaders understand that they are stewards of what God has entrusted, not owners of it.

The coach helps disciples recognise that stewardship of assignment includes:

- ✓ remaining faithful to their God-given assignment
- ✓ walking in obedience to Scripture and the leading of the Spirit
- ✓ making disciples within their sphere of influence
- ✓ raising and releasing others into their calling
- ✓ multiplying what has been entrusted rather than containing it

Disciples begin to see that leadership is expressed not only in what they do, but in who they develop.

Some will directly disciple and raise leaders, while others will connect people into discipleship environments such as New Christian Training Centres or certified coaches.

In all cases, the focus remains on faithful stewardship and multiplication.

Intended Outcome

Disciples understand that authority is a stewardship entrusted by God and that their assignment carries both responsibility and purpose.

They recognise their role in making disciples within their sphere of influence and begin to raise and release others into their calling.

They develop a mindset of faithfulness, multiplication, and responsibility living as Kingdom stewards who bring influence and transformation into the marketplace, community, and society.

Session 6: Commissioned Into Destiny and Assignment

A Historic Moment of Sending

Throughout history there have been moments when God prepared people for their destiny and assignment and then released them to carry His purposes into the world.

These moments were not simply the completion of a season of learning. They were the sending of individuals who had been formed, equipped, and entrusted with an assignment.

This moment represents such a transition.

The disciple has not simply completed a series of sessions.

The disciple has walked through a journey of encounter, healing, formation, and revelation.

Along this pathway Christ has clarified identity, restored foundations, and revealed areas of calling and influence.

Now the season of preparation gives way to the season of assignment.

Some will establish ®Growing Deep and Strong ®Growing Deep and Strong New Christian Training Centres.
Others will influence families, communities, professions, and leadership environments.

Together this becomes something far greater than individual callings.

It becomes the sending of a multiplying movement of disciples who represent Christ within every sphere of influence.

Session Overview

Throughout the discipleship journey, disciples have encountered Christ, experienced transformation, and have recognised the destiny, gifts, and purpose God has placed within their lives.

During the Find Your Destiny Activation Workshop and the teaching sessions that followed, clarity has emerged regarding personal calling and influence.

This session marks an important milestone. It is a commissioning moment.

Throughout Scripture, when God prepared individuals for a specific assignment, they were publicly recognised, prayed for, and commissioned through the laying on of hands.

This act acknowledged that God had set them apart and was releasing them into the work entrusted to them.

In the same way, this session provides an opportunity for disciples to be prayerfully commissioned into the assignment God has revealed to them.

Some will establish ®Growing Deep and Strong New Christian Training Centres and disciple others.

Others will carry a Biblical worldview and Kingdom authority into their sphere of influence.

Both are Kingdom assignments.
Both advance the work of God's Kingdom.

Teaching Section 1

A Moment of Transition

Throughout Scripture there are moments when preparation gives way to responsibility.

These moments are marked by prayer, affirmation, and the recognition that God is releasing individuals into the work He has prepared for them.

This moment represents more than the completion of a discipleship journey.

It marks the transition from formation to assignment.

Those who have walked faithfully through this pathway are now being released to steward the destiny and purpose God has revealed.

Some will establish ®Growing Deep and Strong New Christian Training Centres.

Others will influence society through leadership, relationships, and professional environments.

Wherever God places them, they carry His presence and Kingdom authority.

Teaching Section 2

Different Expressions of Kingdom Assignment

Scripture consistently reveals that God positions His people within many spheres of responsibility and influence across society.

Not every disciple will establish a ®Growing Deep and Strong New Christian Training Centre.

However, every disciple carries an assignment.

Some will strengthen the relational life of the New Christian Training Centre.

Others will influence the systems and structures of society through a Biblical worldview.

Each expression contributes to the advancement of the Kingdom of God and the transformation of society.

Three Expressions of Kingdom Assignment

As disciples step forward in obedience to the calling God has revealed, three common expressions of Kingdom assignment often emerge within the life of a ®Growing Deep and Strong Christian Training Centre.

Training Centre Multipliers

Some disciples will sense a clear call to establish ®Growing Deep and Strong New Christian Training Centres and guide others through the ®Growing Deep and Strong ® discipleship Blueprint for Success.

These individuals may step into the role of certified coaches, stewarding the intentional discipleship journey and helping raise new disciples.

For some this may become a

- ✓ full-time or part-time vocation,
- ✓ leadership role,
- ✓ ministry assignment,
- ✓ or Kingdom-focused business expression.

For others it may function alongside their existing profession or sphere of influence.

In each case they guide others through the structured 20–40-week discipleship pathway, helping new disciples grow in spiritual maturity and discover their own calling and assignment.

Community Builders and Spiritual Encouragers

Other disciples may not sense a call to become certified coaches or lead the structured discipleship pathway.

However, they remain an important part of the life and strength of the ®Growing Deep and Strong New Christian Training Centre.

Within the NCTC structure there are two types of weekly gatherings.

One gathering is the intentional discipleship pathway, where a smaller group walks through the structured formation journey.

The second gathering is the open weekly community gathering, where anyone can participate in fellowship, encouragement, prayer, worship, and relationship.

These gatherings are ideally centred around shared meals, creating a welcoming environment where people can connect, build relationships, and grow together.

Many disciples actively serve within this environment.

Some welcome new participants and help introduce people who are exploring Christianity to a supportive Christian community.

Others offer encouragement, prayer, and relational support to strengthen the faith of believers.

Their involvement often reflects the motivational gifts described in Romans 12:6–8, where individuals serve according to the grace and gifting God has placed within them.

For example, those with the gift of serving may take great joy in preparing meals, organising hospitality, and helping create an atmosphere where people feel welcomed and valued.

Others may express gifts of encouragement, leadership, generosity, or mercy through their contribution to the life of the community.

Their support may also extend into the wider mission of the movement.

They may assist in prayer strategies when ®Growing Deep and Strong New Christian Training Centres are being established, help organise gatherings, or support outreach initiatives such as the Find Your Destiny evangelism workshop.

Some may also serve as part of the Freedom Event teams.

They may assist in organising the event, presenting teaching segments, welcoming participants, praying for new disciples, or helping facilitate the overall flow of the gathering.

Others may participate as part of the Freedom Event prayer teams, supporting those who are encountering healing, restoration, and freedom through Christ.

Although they may not lead the structured discipleship pathway, their contribution remains vital to the life and health of the movement.

Healthy movements are sustained not only by leaders, but by communities of disciples who faithfully support the mission together.

Marketplace Reformers

Some disciples will primarily carry their Kingdom assignment within the environments where God has positioned them in society.

They may serve in business, education, government, community leadership, media, healthcare, the arts, or other areas where culture and decision-making take place.

These disciples operate from a Biblical worldview that shapes how they think, lead, and make decisions.

Every decision is filtered through the truth of Scripture. They bring Kingdom perspective, wisdom, and integrity into their sphere of influence.

Through this influence they become agents of societal reform.

Their workplace, profession, leadership role, or business becomes a platform where Kingdom principles are demonstrated through stewardship, justice, compassion, and wisdom.

Because they understand the Kingdom authority already entrusted to them in Christ, they do not withdraw from society.

- ✓ They engage it.
- ✓ They influence it.
- ✓ They help shape it.

Teaching Section 3

Biblical Examples of Kingdom Influence

Scripture provides many examples of individuals who served God faithfully within different spheres of influence.

These individuals were not all teachers or ministers, yet each one fulfilled a significant Kingdom assignment.

Joseph — Governing Economic Systems

Genesis 41:39–41, 46–49
Joseph was positioned by God to administer Egypt's economic system during a time of famine, preserving nations through wise stewardship and leadership.

Daniel — Influencing Government

Daniel 2:48; Daniel 6:1–3
Daniel served within the highest levels of government while remaining faithful to God, demonstrating wisdom, integrity, and spiritual authority.

Lydia — Marketplace Leader

Acts 16:14–15, 40
Lydia was a successful merchant whose life was transformed by the Gospel and who used her resources and influence to support the early church.

Priscilla and Aquila — Business and Discipleship

Acts 18:1–3, 24–26; Romans 16:3–5
Priscilla and Aquila worked as tentmakers while also discipling believers and strengthening the early church.

Paul — Tentmaker Missionary

1 Thessalonians 2:9
Even the apostle Paul worked within a trade while advancing the mission of the Gospel.

Summary Principle

These examples reveal a consistent biblical pattern.

- ✓ God appoints His people into many spheres of influence.
- ✓ Some lead discipleship communities.
- ✓ Others strengthen the life of the Christian community.
- ✓ Others influence the systems and structures of society.

Together they represent Christ and advance the Kingdom of God within every sphere of influence.

Teaching Section 4

Every Gift Strengthens the Movement

Within the Kingdom of God, no gift is insignificant and no role is unnecessary.

Romans 12:6–8 teaches that believers are given different motivational gifts so that together they may build and strengthen the work of God.

- ✓ Some teach.
- ✓ Others encourage.
- ✓ Some lead and organise.
- ✓ Others serve, give generously, or show mercy.

Each gift strengthens the movement.

As each person serves according to the grace and gifting God has placed within them, the movement continues to grow.

- ✓ New disciples are welcomed.
- ✓ People encounter Christ.
- ✓ Communities are strengthened.

®Growing Deep and Strong New Christian Training Centres begin to emerge.

When every disciple walks faithfully in their assignment, the movement continues to multiply.

Practical Application

Commissioning Through Prayer and the Laying on of Hands

The commissioning moment should be conducted prayerfully and with a spirit of celebration and encouragement.

Leaders and coaches invite each disciple forward and pray over them individually.

As a sign of affirmation and blessing, hands are laid upon each person while prayer is offered for wisdom, courage, faithfulness, and clarity as they step into their assignment.

This moment may also include:

- ✓ Words of encouragement from leaders or coaches
- ✓ Prophetic insight affirming the disciple's calling
- ✓ Prayer for the sphere of influence where the disciple will serve
- ✓ Blessing over future leadership and influence

This is a moment where the community recognises God's work in a person's life and releases them into their assignment.

Session 7: Establishing a ®Growing Deep and Strong New Christian Training Centre
(Multiplying the Discipleship Movement)

Session Intent

This session brings the entire discipleship journey into practical action.

Throughout the ®Growing Deep and Strong Blueprint for Success and the Find Your Destiny process, disciples have experienced spiritual formation, healing, character development, and discovery of gifts and calling.

The journey now moves from personal transformation to multiplication.

Jesus did not form disciples so they would remain learners.

He formed them so they would reproduce the same life in others. In the same way, this journey is designed to establish environments where others can experience the same transformation.

This session equips emerging servant leaders to prayerfully establish a ®Growing Deep and Strong New Christian Training Centre within their sphere of influence, reproducing the discipleship pathway and raising future leaders who will continue the work.

When a ®Growing Deep and Strong New Christian Training Centre is established within a town, region, or sphere of influence, it becomes more than a gathering of believers. It becomes a local expression of Christ's ecclesia.

As disciples gather in unity under His authority, the government of God begins to function within that place.

Through discipleship, prayer, and faithful obedience, the wisdom of Heaven is progressively expressed within the life of the community.

The Multiplication Mandate

Every genuine move of God eventually reaches a moment where disciples must become multipliers.

The Kingdom of God was never intended to remain contained within a single gathering or community.

From the beginning, Jesus prepared His followers to carry the message of the Kingdom into new places, new relationships, and new spheres of influence.

The completion of this journey therefore marks the beginning of a new assignment. What has been received must now be stewarded and reproduced.

Through prayer, obedience, and dependence upon the Holy Spirit, ®Growing Deep and Strong New Christian Training Centres begin to emerge each one becoming a place where disciples are formed, leaders are raised, and communities are influenced by the government of God.

The Ecclesia in Action

Jesus declared that where two or three gather in His name, He is present among them.

This gathering is not merely fellowship but an expression of the ecclesia, the governing assembly of Christ's Kingdom on earth.

Throughout the discipleship journey, relationships have been formed and spiritual hunger has grown within the community of believers. These relationships often become the starting point for multiplication.

A ®Growing Deep and Strong New Christian Training Centre does not begin with buildings or large gatherings.

It begins with believers who gather in Christ's name with shared purpose, prayer, and commitment to discipleship.

Where believers gather in unity under Christ's authority, the government of God begins to function.

The Principle of Going Two by Two

Jesus consistently sent His disciples out two by two when expanding the work of the Kingdom.

This pattern provides spiritual strength, accountability, and encouragement. Ministry was never designed to be carried alone.

When a disciple senses God leading them to begin a ®Growing Deep and Strong New Christian Training Centre, they prayerfully identify one or two others who share the same burden and vision.

Together they form the foundational leadership team, praying together and supporting one another as the ®Growing Deep And Strong New Christian Training Centre begins.

Led by the Holy Spirit

Throughout Scripture, Kingdom movements begin with the leading of the Holy Spirit.

Jesus was led by the Spirit into His ministry. The early church was directed by the Spirit in where to go, who to send, and how to establish new communities of believers.

Opening a ®Growing Deep and Strong New Christian Training Centre follows this same principle. It is not driven by ambition or pressure but by discernment and obedience.

Emerging leaders prayerfully seek the Holy Spirit's direction regarding the people involved, the place of gathering, and the timing of the work.

Beginning Within Your Sphere of Influence

Every believer carries influence within a natural circle of relationships.

This may include family members, friends, workplace relationships, and people encountered through everyday life.

These relational networks often become the first environment where discipleship begins.

A ®Growing Deep and Strong New Christian Training Centre frequently grows from these existing relationships.

Rather than attempting to build something artificially, leaders invite spiritually hungry people within their sphere of influence to gather for prayer, conversation, and discipleship.

The Kingdom of God often expands through relational invitation rather than public promotion.

Reproducing the Discipleship Pathway

The strength of the ®Growing Deep and Strong New Christian Training Centre model lies in its clarity and reproducibility.

Leaders are not required to create new curriculum or invent a new process.

Instead, they reproduce the pathway they themselves have experienced through the ®Growing Deep and Strong ® Blueprint for Success journey.

This pathway includes;

- ✓ prayer strategy,
- ✓ Find Your Destiny activation,
- ✓ discipleship formation,
- ✓ healing and freedom experiences,
- ✓ servant leadership development,
- ✓ and discovery of gifts and calling.

Because leaders have already walked this journey themselves, they are able to guide others through the same process with confidence and integrity.

Creating a Simple Gathering Environment

®Growing Deep and Strong New Christian Training Centres are intentionally simple in structure.

They may begin in homes, workplaces, cafés, community spaces, church facilities, or online environments.

The strength of the centre does not come from the venue but from the discipleship process and the presence of God among the people.

Gatherings normally include prayer, worship, relational connection, structured discipleship teaching, personal discovery discussion, and encouragement.

This rhythm creates a healthy environment where spiritual growth and leadership development occur naturally.

Application

Participants now prayerfully consider where God may be calling them to establish a ®Growing Deep and Strong New Christian Training Centre.

Practical steps may include identifying others who share the vision, discerning the appropriate place of gathering, and inviting spiritually open individuals within their sphere of influence to participate.

The work begins simply with prayer, Find Your Destiny events, relational connection, and the introduction of the discipleship pathway as people become ready.

The goal is not rapid expansion but the steady formation of mature disciples who will themselves become multipliers.

Leadership Insight

Not every disciple will function in the same leadership role.

Some will facilitate teaching and coaching, while others will serve through hospitality, prayer, administration, encouragement, or practical support. Each role contributes to the health of the centre.

Through the discovery of motivational gifts and spiritual gifts earlier in the journey, individuals begin to understand how they contribute to the work of the Kingdom.

When every person serves according to the grace given to them, the training centre functions as a healthy body where each member strengthens the whole.

Intended Outcome

By the completion of this session, participants understand how the discipleship journey they have experienced can now be reproduced within their own sphere of influence.

They recognise that discipleship is designed to multiply and that leadership begins with prayer, obedience, and dependence upon the Holy Spirit.

Participants leave with clarity regarding how ®Growing Deep and Strong New Christian Training Centres can begin simply through relational gatherings and the faithful reproduction of the discipleship pathway.

With humility and confidence in God's leading, they now step forward not only as disciples but as multipliers who establish environments where others can encounter Christ, grow in maturity, and discover their calling.

Commissioning Certified ®Growing Deep and Strong Coach's

The completion of this journey does not mark the end of the process.

It marks a commissioning into a life of representing Christ through the multiplication of disciples.

Throughout these sessions, God has been shaping character, restoring identity, revealing gifts, and clarifying purpose.

What has been formed was never intended to remain contained—it is to be reproduced.

For those clearly called to be certified coaches, this is a defined point of commissioning.

The assignment is to establish, build, and expand ®Growing Deep and Strong New Christian Training Centres, stewarding the discipleship pathway and reproducing it in others.

Discipleship leads to multiplication, and these servant leaders now carry the responsibility to teach, model, and oversee environments where disciples are formed, matured, and released.

Within this, future leaders are identified and raised, continuing the work of multiplication across spheres of influence.

Others will serve faithfully in supporting roles, strengthening, assisting, and contributing through their gifts, but the responsibility of establishing and multiplying training centres rests with those called and commissioned as coaches.

As these servant leaders walk in humility, obedience, and dependence on the Holy Spirit, disciples are raised, communities are transformed, and new centres emerge that carry lasting Kingdom impact.

The journey of discipleship now becomes a life of intentional multiplication.

This leads into the next stage: understanding how to lead and nurture disciples through the stages of growth, as spiritual parents who raise and release others into their God-given assignment.

Session 8: Spiritual Parenting Across Stages

Role of a Spiritual Parent

Session Intent

Spiritual parents labour for internal formation. Like Paul, they travail until Christ is formed in their spiritual children, understanding that this is not casual mentoring but intentional formation.

New believers are spiritual babies. Just as a child moves from conception to infancy, childhood, adolescence, and maturity, so does a disciple.

Formation;

- ✓ takes time,
- ✓ requires care,
- ✓ and requires preparation.

This session establishes the mindset required to engage with new believers at the beginning of their journey.

It equips those who have been commissioned as certified coaches to recognise, nurture, and guide spiritual babies with wisdom, patience, and clarity.

It also prepares those serving in support roles within both the intentional discipleship pathway and the informal weekly gatherings.

Whether leading directly or supporting the environment, all who are involved must understand how new Christians think, learn, and grow, so that every interaction strengthens the foundation being built.

Understanding Spiritual Infancy

Spiritual babies require protection, nurture, instruction, and modelling.

They are learning how to think biblically, how to pray, how to respond to conviction, and how to live differently as followers of Christ.

A spiritual parent recognises both the fragility and potential of new life.

Just as a natural parent prepares for a child, a spiritual parent prepares for each session.

Preparation is not optional. Preparation is parental responsibility.

Preparation is Paramount

In ®Growing Deep and Strong Blueprint for Success, every session is structured and intentional.

The tools are provided, the teachings are clear, and the pathway is designed, but the coach must prepare in order to guide disciples effectively.

Just as a parent learns how to parent, you are learning how to spiritually parent.

As you experienced careful guidance from your coach, you are now being trained to become a future coach and leader within your community.

- ✓ Preparation honours the disciple.
- ✓ Preparation protects the process.
- ✓ Preparation produces stability.

What Spiritual Parenting Requires

Spiritual parenting requires:

- ✓ Time
- ✓ Emotional investment
- ✓ Instruction
- ✓ Example
- ✓ Accountability

Spiritual children learn more from observation than instruction because they imitate what they see.

Consistency forms character, and spiritual parents protect new believers from confusion and unhealthy influences while creating safe environments for growth.

Generational and Societal Vision

Spiritual parents think generationally.

They do not merely raise disciples; they raise disciplers who will influence others and continue the work of multiplication.

They are forming future coaches, future leaders, and future reformers who will influence their mountain of society.

This includes spheres such as family, business, education, government, media, community, and religion.

Spiritual parenting is not small. It carries societal impact.

Covenant and Calling

A spiritual parent understands covenant and trusts that God works across generations.

They recognise that today's spiritual baby may become tomorrow's servant leader.

The aim is not dependence but maturity.

The goal is Christ formed in them so they can carry Him into their sphere of influence with clarity and conviction.

The Measure of Success

The question for every spiritual parent is simple:

- ✓ are your spiritual children growing in strength, stability, and biblical conviction?
- ✓ Are they developing the capacity to lead and
- ✓ becoming reformers who influence society with a biblical worldview?

Spiritual parenting is sacred stewardship. It requires preparation, patience, and vision, and it produces leaders who will shape their generation.

Spiritual parenting begins with recognising the stage of the disciple.

Spiritual Baby Talk — The Basis of Laying the Foundation

At the beginning of the journey, every disciple is a spiritual baby, and how communication is handled in this stage determines the strength of the foundation that will be built.

This is the premise of the Laying the Foundation module—establishing truth through what can be understood, received, and formed at this early stage of growth.

Section Intent

This section helps coaches understand how to communicate truth clearly to spiritual babies who are beginning their discipleship journey.

The emphasis is on what can be built, not what can be impressed.

Teaching Sections

Understanding Spiritual Infancy

Spiritual babies require simple truth delivered clearly.

Many come from completely unchurched backgrounds and are only beginning to understand the foundations of faith, so patient repetition and clarity are essential.

They are not resisting depth—they are building foundations.

Just as a natural baby learns language slowly and through repetition, spiritual babies must learn

- ✓ biblical language,
- ✓ kingdom values, and
- ✓ Christian patterns step by step.

This is spiritual "baby talk": clear, simple, and consistent communication that builds understanding over time.

The Pattern of Formation

Spiritual growth follows a pattern. Paul emphasised four key words in Philippians 4:9: learned, received, heard, and saw.

Disciples were not only taught verbally; they also observed, experienced, and imitated what they saw in the lives of mature believers.

This is why ®Growing Deep and Strong Blueprint for Success for Success is designed the way it is.

The process combines verbal presentation, so they hear the truth, personal discovery so they study it, and personal discovery review so they discuss it.

They hear, process, and articulate truth so that all the senses are engaged and information becomes formation.

Modelling as a Spiritual Parent

Spiritual babies imitate what they see. Just as a child watches a parent closely, disciples look to their coach as a living example of how the Christian life is lived.

They observe your tone, your humility, your prayer life, your consistency, and your responses under pressure.

Spiritual children learn more from observation than instruction, and what they see repeatedly becomes normal.

Application / Leadership Insight

Content and Expectation

Spiritual baby talk includes

- ✓ celebrating small steps,
- ✓ repeating foundational truths
- ✓ and demonstrating how to live the Christian life.

The primary expectation at this stage is simple:
Commitment to the study of the session material.

We are not demanding perfection but forming patterns, because growth happens through steady engagement with the process.

Guarding the Atmosphere

Leaders must guard their tone, attitude, and response when working with new believers.

Encouragement is often more powerful than correction in the early stages, because clarity and patience create a secure learning environment.

Consistency builds security, and spiritual parents must recognise that every interaction helps shape the identity and confidence of new disciples.

Spiritual parents are not merely teaching lessons; they are shaping life and destiny in those they lead.

Caring for Spiritual Adolescents

As foundations are established, growth begins to take shape.

Spiritual babies become spiritual children, and with growth comes responsibility, structure, and the need for intentional character formation.

Section Intent

This section helps coaches understand how to guide disciples through the stages of spiritual growth with wisdom and intentional care.

Spiritual maturity develops progressively, just as natural growth moves from infancy to childhood and then to adolescence.

At this point in the journey, the emphasis shifts intentionally into the Power of Godly Character.

The conversation is no longer framed at a foundational, childlike level, but begins to engage the disciple as a spiritual adolescent.

someone who is growing in understanding, taking ownership, and learning to live out truth with increasing responsibility.

Proverbs 22:6 reminds us to train a child in the way they should go, emphasising that training is intentional, requires investment, and recognises stages.

In this stage, spiritual parents must not only teach truth but help disciples apply it to real character issues;

- ✓ addressing old patterns,
- ✓ renewing thinking,
- ✓ and forming Christlike responses in everyday life.

Spiritual parents must apply wisdom, love, maturity, and discipline appropriately in each season so that growth remains healthy and steady.

Teaching Sections

Growth Happens in Stages

Spiritual growth is progressive, and disciples move through stages of development similar to natural life.

Just as children grow from infancy to maturity over time, spiritual development requires patience, intentional guidance, and consistent nurturing.

Training is never accidental.

It requires investment and awareness of the stage a disciple is in, because each season requires different forms of support, instruction, and accountability.

Spiritual parents must discern what is needed in each season.

Investment and Formation

At this stage, investment is critical because formation requires consistent engagement. Time, correction, affirmation, and instruction all play a role in helping disciples mature.

Paul described himself as a spiritual father and encouraged believers to imitate him as he imitated Christ.

Formation therefore requires modelling, because spiritual children are learning not only truth but lifestyle.

Through this process we are forming worldview, conviction, and identity in those we disciple.

Spiritual adolescence introduces transition as questions increase, confidence rises, and independence begins to develop.

This stage should not be interpreted as rebellion but as maturation that must be guided wisely.

In the context of the Power of Godly Character, this stage becomes a defining season.

- ✓ The disciple is no longer simply learning what is right.
- ✓ They are being shaped in who they are becoming.

Character is now brought into focus, and internal patterns begin to surface more clearly.

At this stage, disciples must be helped to:

- ✓ Identify and address old life patterns and thought processes
- ✓ Take responsibility for their responses, decisions, and behaviours
- ✓ Apply truth consistently, not just understand it conceptually

Adolescents require:

- ✓ Direction—without control
- ✓ Space—without abandonment
- ✓ Correction—without shame

Leaders must avoid two extremes:

- ✗ over-dominating control
- ✗ or passive disengagement.

Wisdom governs this stage, and responsibility should increase gradually as maturity grows.

Character formation here is intentional. Conviction is welcomed as part of growth, while condemnation is rejected.

Disciples are guided to see that transformation is not about failure but about alignment—becoming conformed to the image of Christ through renewed thinking and surrendered living.

Application / Leadership Insight

Preparing Generational Leaders

This stage is not only about maturity but about multiplication.

Spiritual adolescents are preparing for leadership, and the goal is not merely raising compliant disciples but forming generational leaders.

Scripture shows this pattern repeatedly.

- ✓ Paul invested in Timothy,
- ✓ Moses trained Joshua,
- ✓ Elijah prepared Elisha,
- ✓ and Jesus formed the Twelve who would turn the world upside down.

Biblical leadership therefore thinks beyond one lifetime and invests in the next generation.

Raising Societal Reformers

Everything in this process is designed intentionally so that believers develop a strong biblical worldview.

These disciples will eventually influence their mountain of society, including spheres such as family, business, education, government, media, and community.

Coaches must not only think generationally but train disciples to think generationally.

They must begin to see themselves as future spiritual parents, coaches, and reformers who will influence their environments.

At this stage character is tested, failure becomes a learning platform rather than condemnation, and leadership capacity grows through responsibility.

Intended Outcome

By the end of this session the coach understands how to guide disciples through the stages of spiritual adolescence with wisdom and intentional care.

They recognise that healthy structure, consistent investment, and appropriate responsibility help disciples mature steadily.

The coach begins to see discipleship as a generational process that produces servant leaders who reproduce life in others.

Healthy spiritual children become responsible adolescents, responsible adolescents become mature servant leaders, and mature servant leaders multiply influence across society.

This is generational discipleship and reformational leadership.

The goal is not simply teaching lessons but intentionally raising leaders who will shape their generation with a biblical worldview and carry Christ into every sphere of influence.

The Movement Continues

In closing, this serves as a reminder, a summary and a recapping of what has been formed throughout this journey.

The completion of this journey does not mark the end of something.
It marks the beginning.

Throughout these sessions, the disciple has encountered Christ, experienced transformation, and gained clarity regarding the destiny and purpose God has placed within their life.

- ✓ They have grown in spiritual maturity.
- ✓ They have learned to think from a Biblical worldview.
- ✓ They have discovered the authority
- ✓ and responsibility that comes with representing Christ within their sphere of influence.

Now the journey continues beyond these sessions.

The principles that have been learned are not meant to remain within a classroom or a training environment.

They are meant to shape how the disciple lives, leads, influences, and makes decisions every day.

- ✓ Every conversation.
- ✓ Every relationship.
- ✓ Every leadership decision.
- ✓ Every opportunity to serve.

Each of these becomes an expression of the Kingdom of God working through their life.

Some will establish ®Growing Deep and Strong New Christian Training Centres and guide others through the same discipleship pathway.

Others will strengthen the life of existing Training Centres through prayer, encouragement, leadership, and practical support.

Many will carry Kingdom influence into business, education, government, community leadership, family life, and the broader structures of society.

Wherever God has positioned them, that place becomes their sphere of influence.

And within that sphere, they represent Christ.

- ✓ They carry His truth.
- ✓ They demonstrate His wisdom.
- ✓ They apply His principles.
- ✓ They steward His authority.

In this way,
disciples become reformers who help shape culture according to the truth of God's Word.

As this happens,

- ✓ the movement continues to grow.
- ✓ New disciples begin their journey.
- ✓ New leaders emerge.
- ✓ ®Growing Deep and Strong New Christian Training Centres are established.
- ✓ New regions and communities are reached.

What began as the transformation of individual lives becomes the multiplication of influence across families, communities, and nations.

The work of God continues through the obedience of those who walk faithfully in their calling.

The disciple is now part of that story.

- ✓ Walk faithfully in the destiny God has revealed.
- ✓ Lead with wisdom.
- ✓ Serve with humility.
- ✓ Stand firmly on the truth of Scripture.

And represent Christ faithfully wherever He sends them.

The movement continues.

MOVEMENT DECLARATION

From Discipleship to Generational Transformation

The vision before us is therefore larger than the establishment of training centres. It is the restoration of Christ's ecclesia functioning throughout the earth.

As disciples mature and new centres are planted, the jurisdiction of the Kingdom of God becomes increasingly visible within cities, regions, and nations.

Throughout history, moments have arisen when God stirred His people to return to biblical truth, rediscover their identity in Christ, and realign their lives with His purposes.

These moments have often begun quietly among ordinary believers who simply responded in obedience to the leading of the Holy Spirit.

What begins with a few faithful disciples can grow into movements that influence cities, cultures, and nations.

The ®Growing Deep and Strong New Christian Training Centre initiative is built upon this same conviction. Discipleship is not an isolated activity but a multiplying process designed to raise mature believers who influence every sphere of society.

As disciples grow in Christ, they begin to carry the values of the Kingdom into families, workplaces, communities, and institutions. Through faithful obedience, the culture around them begins to change.

The purpose of establishing New Christian Training Centres is therefore not merely to gather people but to form disciples who carry the life and wisdom of Christ into the world around them.

Each new centre becomes a place where believers are strengthened, identity is restored, calling is discovered, and leaders are formed.

From these environments, future disciples are raised who will themselves establish new centres, continuing the cycle of multiplication.

Over time, this simple yet intentional process creates a network of communities where Christ is honoured, truth is taught, and lives are transformed.

What begins in one home, one workplace, or one community gathering can eventually influence entire regions.

This is how the Kingdom of God expands.

Not through human ambition, but through faithful disciples who respond to God's leading and steward what has been entrusted to them.

The vision before us is therefore larger than any single centre or leader.
It is a generational work where disciples raise disciples, leaders raise leaders, and communities are influenced by the wisdom and government of God.

As this Blueprint for Success is faithfully applied, New Christian Training Centres will continue to emerge across towns, cities, and nations.

Each one carrying the same purpose:

- ✓ To form mature followers of Christ.
- ✓ To raise servant leaders.
- ✓ To establish environments where the Kingdom of God advances.

The journey continues as disciples become multipliers and the work of Christ expands from one generation to the next.

CARL JOHN FECHNER

Founder and Director

Executive Leadership Profile

Carl John Fechner is the Founder and Director of ®Growing Deep and Strong and Find Your Destiny©, structured leadership and discipleship initiatives designed to establish biblically grounded formation pathways and sustainable leadership multiplication systems.

These initiatives function as integrated leadership architectures rather than programmatic courses, forming mature disciples and reproducible leaders capable of long-term societal influence.

Background and Marketplace Formation

Raised on a sheep and beef property in regional Victoria, Australia, Carl developed resilience, disciplined work ethic, and entrepreneurial initiative from an early age.

Without a traditional church background or formal ministry pathway, he built and led multiple business enterprises, developing high-performance teams and navigating both expansion and economic downturn.

The 1990 recession marked a defining inflection point.
Following significant financial loss, Carl entered a season of profound spiritual realignment that reshaped his understanding of identity, stewardship, leadership, and enduring success.

This convergence of marketplace experience and spiritual conviction became the foundation of his leadership philosophy.

Leadership Philosophy and Formation Model

Carl's leadership model did not emerge through ecclesiastical progression, but through applied experience, theological conviction, and structured mentoring practice.

Leadership, in this framework, is understood as stewardship rather than position. Formation precedes function. Identity precedes influence.

®Growing Deep and Strong ® functions as a comprehensive discipleship engine designed to:

- ✓ Accelerate spiritual maturity
- ✓ Strengthen doctrinal stability
- ✓ Cultivate self-governing disciples
- ✓ Establish leadership reproduction capacity

Find Your Destiny© operates as a complementary identity and purpose clarification pathway, equipping individuals to identify their God-given design and activate it within their sphere of influence.

Together, these frameworks create a structured pipeline from identity formation to leadership multiplication.

Strategic Contribution

Carl's distinctive contribution lies in integrating marketplace systems thinking with spiritual formation architecture.

His work emphasises:

- ✓ Structural clarity over personality dependence
- ✓ Decentralised training environments over centralised program models
- ✓ Leadership ecosystems rather than event-based momentum
- ✓ Generational sustainability rather than short-term expansion

These initiatives are intentionally designed to function across homes, businesses, training centres, and community contexts — strengthening influence beyond traditional church frameworks.

Mandate and Long-Term Leadership Objective

Carl's mandate is to design and oversee structured training systems that form biblically grounded, accountable leaders capable of sustained influence.

His focus is on developing reproducible leadership frameworks that strengthen doctrinal integrity, personal discipline, and mentoring capacity.

This work prioritises long-term stability over short-term growth. The objective is to establish leadership structures that function independently of personality-driven momentum and can continue across successive generations.

Success is measured not merely by attendance or expansion, but by the consistent development of mature disciples who are equipped to teach, lead, and multiply others within defined spheres of responsibility.

Carl resides in Victoria, Australia, with his wife Karen, his partner in life and vision, where together they continue to oversee structural expansion, leadership development systems, and long-term generational impact initiatives.
